BAR CONVENTION BACKS DRY TEST BY LARGE VOTE

Prohibition Is Issue as Sessions Open.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Prohibition and crime were the twin problems that arose for discussion and action at the opening session of the 53d annual meeting of the American Bar association at the Stevens hotel yesterday.

The chief action at the first session was the decision of the 2,000 delegates present to support their executive committee in ordering a referendum vote on the 18th amendment. An effort to halt this referendum, which has already been voted on by 15,000 members, was defeated on the floor by an overwhelming vote. It remains the livest topic of discussion among the lawyers. Results of this referendum will be known about Nov. 10.

The convention refused to accept the report of the American citizenship committee, in which prohibition is touched upon and the federal farm board condemned as a first step toward state Socialism. The section on criminal law and criminology also refused to adopt a report on "lawless enforcement of law" and ordered the committee to continue work for another year.

Wickersham Demands Obedience.

George W. Wickersham, the speaker at the afternoon session, told of the aims and some of the work of the commission on law enforcement and law observance, of which he is chairman. He dealt gingerly with prohibition, taking the thesis that citizens could not choose which laws they would obey, and that in our civilization regulatory measures of this kind are necessary for the public welfare. "We cannot wait," he said, "for the sanction of custom and usage, as they have done in the older countries." He explained some of the measures which the committee has brought before congress, particularly the one in which juries would be avoided.

"Good citizenship," he said, "must acquiesce in the law as it is, for the time being."

He denounced federal laws that make felonies of petty violations, and said the federal courts are not equipped as police courts.

His reasoning on the relation between the law and good citizenship was close in several ways to that of President Henry U. Sims, who gave his annual address at the opening of the session.

Opening Is Impressive.

It was an impressive scene as the gavel rapped for order in the grand ballroom, filled with delegates and visitors, many in the balconies, which were decorated with state standards. Over the heads of the speakers' platform were the flags of various nations which will be represented here by delegations of prominent lawyers. Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state and John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for President, were two of the notables in the long line of gray haired, distinguished leaders of the bar that faced the audience.

Mr. Sims, who presided, said that he had been preaching all over the country that it was the duty of the American bar to take charge of the study and reform of the administration of justice in this country.

"Law Is Local Matter."

"It is not the social impulse, but the social need, which must be put into law," he said. "Law is in the main a local matter, and the social and industrial development of one state or group of states may require quite different types of law from those suitable to the development of states in another part of the country."

He discussed the limitations of the federal constitution, particularly the 14th amendment, and said that "any legislation within the appropriate sphere of its operation is constitutional if reasonable under the conditions of time and place to which it is made applicable and conceivably directed to advance the public good."

He declared that constitutional liberty in this country is in no danger whatever, "and that the visions of social strife supposed to be impending are but phantasmagoria of morbid brains."

Reports on Referendum.

The prohibition discussion came up in the report of the executive committee made by Secretary William P. MacCracken Jr. After reporting that the membership of the association now stood at 29,386, he declared that the report of the American citizenship committee was not germane to the function of the committee, that the

WIFE OF GARFIELD, PRESIDENT'S SON, KILLED IN CRASH

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Newell Garfield, wife of James R. Garfield of Mentor, O., son of the late President Garfield, died late today in Portsmouth hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident Monday.

Mrs. Garfield, who was 64 years old, was traveling with her husband on a tour of New England. They were driving in this city Monday afternoon when a tire blew out. The car left the road and struck a pole. Garfield was uninjured but his wife was taken to Portsmouth hospital where she was found to have received a broken arm, a fractured rib, and internal injuries.

She was born in Chicago, the daughter of John Newell, formerly president of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railway.

Mr. Garfield served as secretary of the interior under President Roosevelt and is the brother of Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college.

Girl Poison Victim Still Unconscious in Hosiptal

Miss Margie Angermeier, found unconscious in a room at the Stevens hotel Monday night after having taken poison, was reported in a critical condition early this morning at the Illinois Central hospital. Her case has interested physicians, as she has not regained consciousness since being removed to the hospital. At the Stevens hotel Miss Angemeier registered from 38 East 85th street, New York. Miss Edna Angemeier, interviewed at the New York address last night, said she had no relative named Margie. Two sisters of the poison victim were at the hospital last night.

Gerard Names 59 as Real Rulers of United States

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, named a group of fifty-nine persons today as the "men who rule the United States."

His selection was composed almost entirely of capitalists and financiers, and included leaders in the banking world, the steel industry, mining, the railroad business, public utilities, the amusement field and journalism.

Mr. Gerard's list included the names of John D. Rockefeller Jr., Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, and J. P. Morgan, but omitted President Hoover and all others holding national or state offices. The former ambassador explained that the actual "power behind the throne" is wielded by men whose wealth and important positions in the nation give them a permanent influence in American life.

List of the "Rulers."

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER JR.
ANDREW W. MELLON, secretary of the treasury.
J. P. MORGAN.
GEORGE F. BAKER, chairman of the board, first National Bank of New York.

P. J. GOSSLER, president, Columbia Gas and Electric corporation.
R. C. HOLMES, president, Texas corporation of producers.
JOHN J. RASKOB, a director of General Motors and other corporations and chairman of the Democratic national committee.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS, president, H. K. Curtis Publishing company.
ROY W. HOWARD, president of the United Press.

"These men rule by virtue of their ability," Mr. Gerard explained. "They themselves are too busy to hold political office, but they determine who shall hold such office."

Wrote of "Forty Rulers."

Mr. Gerard's list was made up after his attention had been invited to a paragraph in a pamphlet written by him and published in England recently, in which he indorsed the crusade of Viscount Rothermere and Lord Beaverbrook for empire free trade and British high protection against the rest of the world.

"Give the forty men who rule the United States ten years for the development of this industrial empire and no country on this earth could approach it in per capita wealth," Mr. Gerard wrote. He later added 19 other names.

CAROL IS SEEKING ANOTHER BRIDE, DIPLOMAT HEARS

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A diplomat who arrived today from Bucharest partly confirmed reports that King Carol of Rumania would abandon efforts to dissolve the divorce from Queen Helene and instead would seek another bride. He said the king probably would seek marriage with a member of the Bourbon-Orleans house of France whom he met in Paris while he was in exile before taking the Rumanian throne.

A report from Bucharest said Queen Marie had left for Sinaia, the summer capital, in an effort to bring about a reconciliation of the king and queen, but added that the attempt probably would prove futile.

DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION GO SOLIDLY WET

Adopt Repeal Plank Unanimously.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Unexpected unanimity marked the action of the Illinois Democratic convention in demanding the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the federal Constitution.

Inclusion of a plank of this character in the state platform had been conceded, but only because of the overwhelming voting power of the Cook county delegation. Therefore, there was considerable surprise when every one of the twenty-five members of the resolutions committee, representing all the congressional districts in the state, voted today to go the whole route against prohibition.

Then, when the platform was read to the convention as a whole by National Committeeman M. L. Igoe, there was a roar of affirmatives, and when permanent Chairman Sarah Bond Hanley asked for the negatives and gave full opportunity for reply not a hostile vote was heard.

Candidate Lewis Goes Along.

To make the score perfect, the nominee for United States senator, James Hamilton Lewis, who had not gone that far in his manuscript, included in his address an unqualified demand for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Advance copies of his speech included only an insistence upon "a liberalization, qualification or repeal of the Volstead act or the eighteenth amendment."

The vital part of the prohibition plank adopted declared: "We believe that the enactment of the eighteenth amendment was not in harmony with the principles and intents of free American representative government and we therefore unreservedly and unqualifiedly favor its repeal. Until it is so repealed the Democratic party favors the repeal of the Volstead act and the enactment of a new act so as to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of such light wines and beer as can be lawfully manufactured, transported and sold."

Oppose Search and Seizure Acts.

"When the eighteenth amendment is repealed or the Volstead act modified we shall favor amending our state laws to permit the policy herein outlined to prevail in Illinois," the plank continues. "We favor the immediate repeal of the Illinois prohibition and search and seizure acts. We are opposed to the so-called Jones 5 and 10 law and favor its immediate repeal."

There followed a denunciation of the Anti-Saloon league, although the organization was not mentioned. "We denounce all organizations which have sought to establish a supergovernment where the prohibition question is made the criterion in all matters of legislation and where any candidate for office is indorsed, whatever his character and other beliefs may be, provided he will accede to the domination of such un-American organization," the plank says.

"These organizations are a menace to good government, a means of imposing upon the people the whims and caprices of an organized minority, and an organization which threatens the very existence of American principles, institutions and government."

Slap at Campaign Expenditures.

The phraseology of this plank was the subject of more interest than any other in the convention, but other declarations were emphasized. The

Raid Aiellos' Home; Guns, Papers Seized

The luxurious home of the notorious Aiello brothers, Joe and Dominick, at 2533 Lunt avenue, in Rogers Park, was raided late yesterday by detectives under the direction of Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson. Important documentary evidence, several weapons, and a large number of assorted keys were seized.

Another development in the state's attorney's investigation of the activities of the Zuta-Aiello-Moran gang was the discovery by investigators that the Liberty inn, in which John Craig, city editor of the Chicago Daily News, claimed to have cashed a $50 check through Jack Zuta, murdered vice monger and gang leader, on April 22, 1926, was closed and padlocked by the United States government on Jan. 19, 1926, three months earlier.

Finding of Craig Check.

The Craig check had been found in one of the secret safe deposit boxes in which Zuta stored cancelled checks, notes, letters and other documents showing payments of money to politicians, judges, policemen, and others.

Craig, questioned by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles F. Rathbun and James E. McShane, declared he had given the check to Zuta in the Liberty Inn, which he said Zuta owned. When the check did not clear through the bank, Craig said, he visited the gang boss and paid him the $50 in cash. The check bore the date of April 22, 1926.

The records of the federal court, explained yesterday, revealed that the Liberty Inn was padlocked by the United States marshal three months before that date.

Named in Padlock Action.

The defendants listed in the padlock proceedings are Babe Mullaney, proprietor, a notorious police character who was shot to death last March in a gang brawl; Louis and Amanda S. Matsen, owners of the premises, which are at Madison street and Ashland avenue.

No mention is made in the records of Zuta, described by Craig as the owner. Miss Mary Bailey, assistant United States attorney who presented evidence of Volsted violations in the place, and obtained the order to close it, said she had no recollection of Zuta being connected with the place. Investigators, however, said they believed Zuta had a secret interest in the inn, as he had in many saloons, vice dens and gambling houses. At the same time the investigators hoped to have a new explanation from the Daily News' city editor.

Raid on Aiello Home.

Prosecutor Rathbun, a member of THE TRIBUNE law firm placed on the staff of State's Attorney Swanson to take charge of the investigation into the murder of Alfred Lingle, was present during the raid on the Aiello home, which was made under the authority of a search warrant issued by Judge John H. Lyle of the Municipal court.

Judge Lyle accompanied the raiding party, prepared to deal summary justice to any who might seek to interfere with the detectives, or to prevent the seizure of important evidence.

A large sheaf of papers was taken, and, although the prosecutors refused to discuss the nature of this new evidence, reports were that further links had been found between politics and gangland.

The Aiello brothers were allies of the murdered Jack Zuta, and these three, with George [Bugs] Moran, who is said to have handled the strong arm and killing end of the business, were known as the bosses of the notorious Zuta-Aiello-Moran gang.

This band of north side gangsters has been charged with scheming for the murder of Lingle, with Zuta reported to have made the actual arrangements for the killing, and Investigator Roche has been following the trails of this gang in the

PISTOLS BLAZE AT SCHOOL SITE AFTER THREATS

Plumbers' Business Agent Is Slain.

Two labor union agents were shot yesterday afternoon on the site of the new Lane Technical High school on Addison street near Western avenue, where they had gone to call a plumbers' strike. One of the union officials was killed outright. The other was near death last night. The slayers escaped.

The dead man was Charles Mulcahy, 44 years old, business agent of the Chicago Journeyman Plumbers' union, who lived at 7748 Constance avenue. The wounded man is Bernard Ruberry, 35 years old, 7733 Essex avenue, a mysterious power in the union, and often referred to as Mulcahy's bodyguard.

Seek Contractor's Son.

The police last night were seeking Charles Arthur Stein, 286 Eugenie street, secretary and son of Carl John Stein, head of a plumbing contracting company bearing his name, and Charles Courchene, plumbing superintendent of the Stein firm, who lives at 7701 Maryland avenue. Both disappeared after the shooting.

Capt. Max Danner of the North Damen avenue station was also investigating Mulcahy's gangland connections, as the union is said to have been under the influence of gang chieftains ever since the days of Dean O'Banion.

Earlier in the day Mulcahy and Ruberry had threatened the elder Stein in his loop offices, Mr. Stein said. The son suddenly appeared, however, to protect his father and the two union officials departed. They were demanding that Courchene be discharged, Mr. Stein said, and he defied them. The son went to the school building job and told Courchene of the threats, Capt. Danner believes.

In Trouble with Union.

Mulcahy and Ruberry have been in considerable trouble recently, mainly with the steamfitters' union. They have been in numerous conflicts ever since the adoption of the Landis award and lately their principal efforts were directed toward putting pressure on the city council to pass an ordinance giving the plumbers jurisdiction in the inspection and installation of electrical refrigeration in preference to steamfitters, according to the police.

At one time Mulcahy and Ruberry had $700,000 worth of work in Chicago stopped through strikes because of their fight with the steamfitters' union. Capt. Danner learned, and they fought the international union of both plumbers and steamfitters and because of them the plumbers' national headquarters was moved from Chicago to Washington.

Shooting Is a Mystery.

Police were somewhat mystified when called to the scene shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday and finding Mulcahy dead and Ruberry suffering from two gunshot wounds in the abdomen, one in the arm and one in the left hip. No one present could tell what caused the shooting or what led up to it. Ruberry, who was still conscious, would not talk.

Ruberry was taken to the Martha Washington hospital, where Dr. A. S. Freeman was in attendance.

"Who shot you?" Dr. Freeman asked.

"Two men did the shooting," Ruberry said, but he wouldn't name them.

Later when Lieut. John Joyce questioned him he said:

"All I know is that I heard some one say, 'Shoot him,' and I was shot."

Witness Tells His Story.

Charles Kammerlohr, 7808 Yates avenue, a plumber working on the grounds, told the police the following story:

"I was busy calking pipes when Mulcahy and Ruberry drove in on the runway and stopped their car. Mulcahy asked me, 'How long have you been on the job?' and I said, 'Since last Friday.'

"'Why did you leave the Federal Engineering company?' Mulcahy asked me and I told them I wasn't getting enough work there. 'Who's in charge here?' he asked then and I said Courchene was, and he asked where Courchene was, and I said he was in the shanty. Both walked to the shanty and I was admiring Mulcahy's big automobile when I heard shots.

Finds Mulcahy Is Dead.

"I looked around and saw Ruberry sitting on a box over in front of the hot dog stand. He was bleeding from the stomach. I asked him what had

Shoe Prices Are Down at Chicago Stores

Back from the old vacation, body-worn from too much golf, consider your feet. With boys and girls soon to begin the school year with all the walking, running, kicking that is so tough on leather, consider their feet. The suggestion is timely. For if there is a time when feet should be uppermost in one's mind, now is it. The shoe stores quote lower prices on shoes in August than any other time. It is August at the shoe stores and the sale spirit holds sway.

Reductions this year are more than usual. If you can find your size in some lines, you may buy for less than the merchant did. And even on the new lines, just coming in from the factories, there have been reductions. Shoe buying opportunities like the present ones, do not last long. The stores say that the regular prices will prevail after Labor Day. It's a good time to anticipate the family's shoe needs for the winter.

pened and he said: 'Go and find Charley.' I went to the shanty and there was Mulcahy, on his back, and I felt his hand and found there was no pulse, so I knew he was dead. The police came a few minutes later. I didn't see any one leave.

"The last words of Mulcahy when he started toward the shanty were 'We're going to pull the job,' meaning they would call a strike."

Melvin Murray, 18 years old, 2462 Addison street, who works at the hot dog stand which fronts on Addison street, about two blocks west of Western avenue in what was formerly a part of a golf course just north of Riverview park, told Capt. Danner:

"I heard shots and saw a man running toward the fence, blood streaming from him. He tried to grab at the fence, but his fingers slipped and he slumped to the ground. Then he crawled over and sat on a box beside the stand.

Sees Two Flee in Auto.

"I ran around and saw John Wilson [superintendent of the excavation work being done on the school site, who lives at 8337 Ingleside avenue], who was in an automobile. I also saw two men running toward a Ford automobile and they got in it and it sped away. It had license No. 288,935 [owned by the Stein company]. I told Mr. Wilson what happened."

Melvin Hagrave, 4640 Harlem avenue, Downers' Grove, passing by, also saw the two men run from the shanty where Mulcahy and Ruberry were shot and escape in the flivver.

Mr. Stein, head of the construction company, was notified at his office by police and he went at once to the North Damen avenue station, where he was questioned by Capt. Danner and Deputy Chief of Detectives John Ryan.

Tells of Strike Threat.

"I didn't hear from my son or from Courchene, so I don't know what happened on the job," he said. "This morning, however, Mulcahy and Ruberry came to my offices and threatened me. They demanded that I fire Courchene. They said they would call a strike if I didn't.

"I have had a lot of trouble with those men over a period of years, but I never let them bluff me. I am chairman of the arbitration committee of the Building Construction Employers' association and if they could bluff me they could bluff the whole organization. Mulcahy always had running of the mouth and so he had today. I don't remember all he said, but it was mainly about Courchene.

"They threatened to kill Courchene when he was in charge of the work on the Stevens hotel. I don't know what their grievance against him was, but I do know that Courchene is a good man and I said I was going to keep him and I didn't care what they did about it.

Called a Good Boss.

"Courchene is an old-timer and an excellent superintendent on plumbing jobs. I knew of good work he had done on other school buildings and that's why I hired him.

"The last trouble I had with Mulcahy and Ruberry was when they wanted me to put certain plumbers to work on a north side job. I told them I was about to lay off some help. They told me I couldn't lay off a certain man because he was the steward of the job and he had to be the last man discharged.

[A steward is a union workman who inspects the cards of the other members of his craft on a job.]

"I invited them to come over to the job at 4 o'clock and watch me give the steward his time. I went to the job and notified the superintendent to call the steward and tell him to bring down his tools. I discharged him then and there and a strike was called the next day, but it was over in two days.

"If I let them get away with that order they'd be ordering all other contractors around. I had to stand pat and I did."

Didn't Join Landis Award.

Stein was asked if his trouble with the union had anything to do with the Landis award. He said at that time most of his work was outside Chicago and he couldn't be Landis award in Chicago and union outside, so he decided not to join with the Landis award contractors, and thereby incurred the displeasure of various firms of architects and big contractors and he lost many contracts thereby.

"But I have regained their good will and I have been getting all contracts I should get," he stated. "I didn't bid on the first contract for this school job. The old bids were all discarded as too high and on the second bidding I was awarded the contract directly by the school board, not through any other contractor."

Stein said he didn't know where his son or Courchene might be and he was interested in the welfare of the plumber Kammerlohr.

"Please don't lock him up," he asked. "If necessary I can schedule $500,000 or $600,000 for him."

Ald. Arthur F. Albert and his law partner, Attorney Edgar Cook, who represent Mulcahy and Ruberry and the plumbers' union, hastened to the hospital to question Ruberry, but if they obtained any information they didn't release it publicly.

The opinion was expressed at the police station that Charles Stein and Courchene would not surrender during the night, but would arrange through lawyers to be present at the county morgue this morning when the inquest is held over Mulcahy's body.

Albert Explains Visit.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, who, with Edgar Cook, is an attorney for the Plumbers' union, stated last night that Ruberry visited the school site to investigate charges that some of the contracts were excessively high.

John Wilson, superintendent for the W. E. O'Neill company, which has one of the building contracts, said he saw the men he presumed had shot Ruberry and Mulcahy and that they were running to the automobile. He didn't know either one, he said, but he believes he could identify them.

The work on the new building had reached only the stage where some of the caissons were in and the place was in readiness for the first plumbing work underground. The shanty referred to by witnesses is fifty feet east of a driveway leading into the fenced grounds and about fifty feet south of Addison street. Fifty or more workmen were at their tasks in the excavated portion of the site—half a block or more away and practically out of sight of the shanty.

Record of 30 Years' Turmoil in Chicago Plumbers' Union

BY THOMAS WREN.

Strife and turmoil, interspersed with frequent sluggings and shootings, have marked the domination of various business agents over the Chicago Journeymen Plumbers' union for the last thirty years.

The labor organization of approximately 2,700 men is classed as one of the most skilled building crafts, but during the last three decades the rank and file of the union claim they have had little voice in selection of business representatives. The officers of the plumbers' union are in a building at 1340 West Washington street, which is owned by the union and said to be valued at $245,000.

Members who have tried to voice opposition to administration policies have been ostracized. The police say more than one plumber has been beaten. Among the recent cases was that of Charles McKenna, whose forebears helped to organize the plumbers' union. McKenna spent two weeks in bed from a slugging he received for opposing what he termed an unfair assessment.

Skinney Madden in Power.

Back in 1900 Skinney Madden ruled the Chicago building trades. He had become intrenched in power through leadership exhibited in a warfare waged at the time between the steamfitters, the plumbers, and the gasfitters. Madden had organized the junior steamfitters to compete with a parent organization.

The old strife between the plumbers and steamfitters flared up recently when Business Agent Charles Mulcahy, who was slain yesterday, and his assistant, Barney Ruberry, who was wounded, attempted to seize control of all pipe work installation through the establishment of a city plumbing bureau.

O'Donnell's Rise to Leadership.

The late Simon ["Si"] O'Donnell at one time controlled the plumbers' union and his power extended from 1904 to about 1910. His associates were the late Thomas Kearney and James Garvin.

O'Donnell and Kearney later became presidents of the building trades council and when O'Donnell died, about a year ago, his estate was valued at more than $1,000,000. Kearney didn't fare so well. Both were mentioned by the Dailey investigating committee as having extorted graft from Chicago builders to prevent and call off strikes.

The late Mossy Enright was a product of the plumbers' union and his entry was made into the labor movement in 1904 when a series of strikes halted construction of the old Heisen building, now the Transportation building, at Harrison and Dearborn streets. Enright used to travel about with a gang of sluggers in an old gray colored auto and its appearance at some strike bound building was a signal for the nonunion workers to flee. Enright's car was termed the "gray ghost."

Murphy Charged with Murder.

After the storm subsided Enright was conceded the privilege of issuing union cards at a per capita rate to all members of the steam fitters, plumbers, and gasfitters. His prosperity in back of the yards district is said to have aroused the envy of the late "Big Tim" Murphy, who was charged with the murder of Enright on the evening of Feb. 7, 1920.

"Big Tim" fell before the pistol shots of a half dozen guns in front of his home in Rogers Park two years ago.

After the O'Donnell-Kearney administration had relinquished office in the plumbers' union, it was ruled by William Curran, a regular journeyman plumber. One of his chief assistants was Patrick [Paddy] Kane. Dapper Dan McCarthy defeated Kane in an election, which was guarded by the police, in 1921.

Then came the hectic Landis award days in 1922 in Chicago's building industry; sabotage reigned and many nonunion building jobs were attacked by gunmen.

All Acquitted by Jury.

In one of these attacks Police Lieut. Terrence Lyons was shot and killed when he and another policeman attempted to apprehend the gunmen. McCarthy was tried for the murder along with "Con" Shea, Frenchy Mader, John Miller, and "Big Tim" Murphy. They were acquitted by a jury. Shea has since died.

After a period of turmoil McCarthy ruled the union alone. He edged over into the alky racket and became associated with the north side gang headed by the late Dean O'Bannion, who was shot to death in his florist shop on North State street.

Ruberry became McCarthy's bodyguard and later acquired a membership in the plumbers' union. McCarthy moved to Los Angeles, while Ruberry retained power in the union.

Mulcahy had a good reputation and it was generally said he was forced to take orders from Ruberry, who in turn received them, until lately at least, from McCarthy on the west coast.

During the turmoil between the plumbers and steamfitters the officers of the former union have halted within the last year building in Chicago approximating $700,000. Builders have appealed to officials of the United Association of Steamfitters and Plumbers to adjust the local dispute, but their request has been denied.

Drug Addicts Rob Two Doctors' Offices and Flat

A pair of armed drug addicts last night invaded the office of Dr. William H. Golub, 6558 South Kedzie avenue, rounded up Dr. Golub, Mrs. Golub, and three patients, herded them into the adjoining office of Dr. Samuel D. Werch, a dentist, and then spent an hour searching for drugs. They found none, but took Dr. Golub's medicine case along. They robbed Dr. Golub of a $60 watch, $7 in cash, Dr. Werch of a $65 watch and $6 in cash, and then ransacked the Golub flat, getting $1,500 worth of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Golub.

Henry F. Weydert Dies; Ex-Chicago Fire Captain

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Henry F. Weydert, 60, former captain in the Chicago fire department, died suddenly in his room in the Crawford hotel here. Death was believed to have been caused by heart disease.

HOME OF AIELLOS RAIDED; GUNS AND PAPERS SEIZED

In addition to the documentary evidence seized by the raiders at the Aiello home, two shotguns and a rifle, a belt of shotgun shells, and a box containing more than a hundred keys of all descriptions were taken.

The wives of the two Aiellos were at home, and they protested against the seizures.

"I won't let you take those papers out of here," Mrs. Joe Aiello screamed, but she was ignored as the detectives, with Rathbun and Roche and Judge Lyle went from top to bottom of the two flat building.

One apartment is vacant. The other, in which the Aiellos' wives lived, was sumptuously furnished with oriental floor coverings and drapes, expensive pictures and modernistic furniture.

With all this luxury there was not a book in the whole house, Roche remarked.

Find Beds in Attic.

After gathering up the records, the weapons and the keys, the raiders moved to depart, but Roche suggested a search of the attic in the building. Two mattresses and bedding were found stretched out on the flooring, and there were evidences that persons had slept there. It was suggested that the Aiello brothers had come home and, fearful of police or gangster attacks, had slept in the attic.

The Aiello apartment is only one block from the bungalow home of Big Tim Murphy, labor racketeer and gangster, in front of which he was shot to death two years ago.

Hunt Gems in Zuta's Effects.

A representative of Toplis and Harding, insurance adjusters, called upon Investigator Roche yesterday and asked that the adjusters be notified if jewels of value are found among the effects of Zuta. It is possible, the adjusters declared, that Zuta might have received stolen gems, and that the company will be able to identify certain jewels as having been stolen.

Earlier reports that Mr. Roche had received information that $150,000 in stolen diamonds had been cached away by Zuta were not true, the investigator said.

The finding of 21 gold pieces of $2.50 denomination in one of the Zuta safe deposit boxes led George O. Brown, 1033 Pleasant street, Oak Park, to suspect that they might have been part of the loot taken last May from his home, then at 6425 Kenwood avenue. Exactly that number of $2.50 gold pieces was taken by the burglars, Brown told the Oak Park police.

District Attorney Herman Salen of Waukesha county, Wis., said yesterday that a diamond ring, $1,930 in cash, a wrist watch and other personal effects found on the body of Zuta after he was slain in a Delafield, Wis., resort, will be sent to H. O. Crews, Cook county public administrator.

Vote Confidence in Freeman.

Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston, whose letter asking a loan of $400 from Zuta was found in one of the gangster's secret boxes, was given a vote of confidence yesterday by members of the police department. About 70 members of the Evanston force met in the police station, and after speeches lauding Freeman were made by some of the members, the chief was given a unanimous vote of confidence. It will be submitted to the mayor and the city council.

Mayor Charles Bartlett is due to return from his vacation next Sunday, and it is generally believed that he will decide whether Freeman is to remain or be discharged because of his financial transaction with the notorious vice monger.

Former Ald. A. K. Mose of the 50th ward expressed resentment yesterday at the use of his name in a letter found in one of the Zuta boxes.

"My attention has been called to the fact that my name has been used in a letter written by Mr. Kent A. Hunter to Zuta in connection with the Fairview dog race track," Ald. Mose said in a statement. "I wish to state that the writer, Mr. Kent Hunter, is entirely unknown to me; and that neither I nor my organization have ever promised to deliver or help in the distribution, by sale or otherwise, of tickets for the Fairview dog track."

State Senator Harry W. Starr, old time Lundin henchman, who was found to have received two checks, each for $200, from Zuta, sought yesterday to add to his explanations of why he had taken the money from the gang leader.

"At the time I represented Zuta," Starr wrote in a letter to the newspapers, "I was holding no public office. Our relations were purely those of client and attorney in civil matters. I have never represented him in any criminal proceeding, nor in any case since I was elected to the state senate four years ago."

POLICEMAN SLAYS BANDIT IN FATHER'S STORE; WOUNDS ONE

Detective John A. Connerton of the Irving Park station had just awakened yesterday morning and was dressing in the rear living quarters of his father's grocery store at 1119 North Branch street. His father, James, is 60 years old.

Connerton heard voices harshly demanding, "Where's the dough?" Seizing his service revolver he ran to the door and peered into the shop. Two men were shoving his father toward a washroom and beating him over the head with the butts of their guns. One of them caught sight of the son and fired. The bullet missed.

Before either of the bandits could pull a trigger again, Connerton, an expert marksman, had dropped them both—one with a bullet in the back and the other in the jaw. The first one, identified only as "Lefty," died on the way to the Bridewell hospital. The second, who had tried to kill Connerton, said he was Joe Thieder, 27 years old, 3515 West 35th street.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock expressed pleasure at Connerton's exploit and said he would recommend him for extra compensation.

JUDGE, COPS MAP WAR ON GANGS IN CLOSED SESSION

Judge John H. Lyle met again yesterday with north side police commanders, whom he has been urging to rid their districts of hoodlums. The meeting, unlike its predecessors, was held behind closed doors at Town Hall station, reporters being excluded.

After the meeting Capt. Patrick Harding of Rogers Park station, spokesman for the policemen, said the captains were searching for some "really big gangsters to take before Judge Lyle, but we're afraid they've all cleared out." He added, "I don't believe there's a hoodlum of consequence in Chicago now, at least on the north side."

"There has been much publicity and the crooks are scared," Judge Lyle said. "We have just talked about where these hoodlums lived, what they might be expected to do next, and what we could do about it. It's been helpful." Capt. Harding declared that every hotel on the north side had been canvassed by a police captain or a trusted subordinate in search of gangsters.

CARPENTERS FIT ARENA FOR HUGE SONG FESTIVAL

Clang of Anvils Heard in Tests for Chorus.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Carpenters' overture has started on soldiers' field.

Exhilarating music of hammers and saws day and night there, preliminary to the heroic harmonies of Saturday evening.

Battalions of workmen building at the north end of the field platforms two hundred feet long and sixty feet deep for the tiers of bandsmen and choristers who will have for their sounding board the most colossal piece of Greek architecture in the modern world—the southern façade of the Field museum.

Vision that sounding board flooded on Saturday evening with many colored lights and you will have some idea of the gorgeous scenic background that Chicago provides for the Chicagoland music festival which citizens and newspapers of thirty-five cities of the middle west have been working on for ten weeks.

Looking Behind the Scenes.

Much work goes forward behind the scenes.

Tailors making aprons and red shirts for the musicians performing on the anvils in the rendition of the anvil chorus from Verdi's "Il Trovatore."

Electricians stringing quarter mile lines of wire from the conductor's stand within the stadium to the cannon on the lake shore which will boom at five second intervals for a minute and a half during the colossal imperial Russian hymn passage of Tschaikowsky's "1812" overture.

Other electricians experimenting at night with the "Trovatore" anvils to test a novel composition of shellac and steel wool that makes the anvils give off six inch sparks under the impact of the hammers.

Endless detail in the working out of this $50,000 show which you are to see and hear for a quarter that goes to charity.

Maybe, for example, you think it was easy to assemble in nearly horseless Chicago several dozen anvils for the music that opens the scene in the gypsy camp of "Il Trovatore."

Well, it wasn't.

It meant days of search.

The blacksmiths' aprons, too, have to be made for this occasion. The blacksmiths' supply houses had none.

Such is some of the detail that sounds petty but means work and will add fine touches of color to Saturday night's scene.

An Interstate Festival.

Impressive as the show is the spirit of it.

The interstate character of an occasion that will bring five commonwealths into the cozy relations of a neighborhood "sing" will be beautifully emphasized by the display of the gold embroidered state flags of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

These standards, each one accompanied by a guard of honor of state troops, will be borne to the center of Soldiers' field at 7:15 o'clock Saturday evening and will flank the line of march of the twenty-one prize bands and thirteen drum corps that will begin their grand entry into the stadium through its south gate at 7:30 o'clock and will march to the platforms at the north end.

There they will mass themselves around the Chicagoland festival band of eighty musicians, under the leadership of Victor Grabel, and will become a massed band of eleven hundred men.

The standards of the states and their guards of honor will remain on the field throughout the concert.

Behind the eleven hundred bandsmen will rise on the green slope of the north end of the field one thousand singers who have made individual applications to sing in the Hallelujah chorus from "The Messiah"; behind them one thousand colored singers will be placed, and behind and around them two thousand members of competing choral societies from throughout the five states.

Fifteen minutes of Negro spirituals will be the principal contribution of the colored choristers to the concert but they will join the special "Messiah" group in the "Hallelujah" number, as will the two thousand members of competing choral societies.

Musicians say that a man or woman who has ever sung in "The Messiah" will walk five miles on a wet night to do it again. That is the way David Noyes, Chicago business magnate, feels.

A friend asked him to join a large party that is going to the festival, adding "and we'll try to get there so early that we can have seats all together."

"Seats!" said David Noyes, "I don't want a seat. I'm going to sing in the Hallelujah Chorus. They can't keep me out of it. I'm a singer—not a sitter!"

CHOOSE WINNERS IN MUSIC FEST TOMORROW NIGHT

Radio to Carry Voices of Finalists.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is a big thing even to have entered as important an event as the soloists' contest in the Great Chicagoland Music Festival. But how would you like to be singing in the finals, knowing that while you are being judged in competition with several dozens of others in your classification you are also being heard over the radio by the folks at home?

That is the happy lot destined for some of those who will be in the singers' final contest in the audition room of the Chicago theater tomorrow night. For thirty minutes, between 8:30 and 9 p. m., the contest will be on the air over THE TRIBUNE'S station, W-G-N.

Contest Begins at 7 P. M.

The contest will begin at 7 o'clock. In the audition room will assemble all vocal soloists and the smaller vocal groups, trios, quartets, and the like. Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, a potent force in the world of Chicago music, will be in charge of the judges, and these will be privileged to have the expert advice of the famous operatic conductor, Gennaro Papi, for years a figure in the Metropolitan Opera company of New York, for years the leading Italian conductor of the Ravinia Opera company.

Be it emphasized again, the vocal soloists and the smaller vocal groups are to have their final contest at 7 o'clock in the audition room of the Chicago theater. The instrumental soloists and the smaller instrumental combinations are to appear in the same room at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day. SUPREME COURT ENDS ITS BILLINGS PARDON REHEARING ABRUPTLY

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The state Supreme court hearing on the pardon application of Warren K. Billings, convicted with Thomas Mooney of the 1916 Preparedness day parade bombing here, ended unexpectedly late today after four weeks of proceedings without precedent in American legal annals.

Chief Justice William H. Waste announced the court, sitting as an advisory commission to Gov. C. C. Young, would begin deliberations a week from next Monday.

Ten persons were killed and 40 injured in the blast for which Mooney and Billings were sent to prison for life.

HEAD OF VILLAGE IS JAILED; COURT WRIT IS OBEYED

Complying with an order of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor Jr., the village board of Phoenix lost night passed two ordinances providing for special assessments to meet payments for improvements to the village sewer system. Before the board's action Judge Taylor sentenced Joseph Smuczynski, president of the village, to the county jail for contempt of court as a result of his failure to approve the ordinances. It is expected that Smuczynski will be freed today as a result of the board's compliance.

Last March a writ of mandamus to compel the village trustees to spread the assessments was issued by Judge Taylor. The writ was issued on complaint of E. K. Ladd, a contractor, who had laid the sewer but had been unable to collect for his work.

Judge Hood ordered Smuczynski and the six trustees two weeks ago to show cause why the ordinances should not be passed and continued the hearing until yesterday. In court Smuczynski told the court he would go to jail rather than vote for the ordinances and his sentence followed.

LARGE SHIELDS TO MARK AUTOS OF DRY AGENTS

Woodcock Would Prevent More Fatal Errors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Metallic shields bearing the seal of the department of justice are to be placed on the automobiles of dry law enforcement agents under a plan made public today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock.

The purpose of the shields, the director explained, will be to provide the prohibition officers with identification insignia and at the same time to protect motorists from impostors. The shield plan, he said, was adopted at the suggestion of the Automobile Club of Maryland and the American Automobile association and is a part of his program to "remove public friction" in dry law enforcement.

Past Mistakes Sometimes Fatal.

Complaints have been numerous in the past that motorists have no way of distinguishing dry agents from highwaymen, and mistaken identity has been cited repeatedly in cases, some involving fatal shootings, in which drivers, believing they were to be robbed, failed to stop at the demand of prohibition officers.

Mr. Woodcock announced that the automobile shields will be 17x20 inches in size and designed for display on the right door on an automobile. They will be inscribed with the words "Stop —United States Official. Bureau of Prohibition." Specifications for the shields are being drawn and 1,000 will be ordered within a few days, the director stated

An alternate proposal that all prohibition agents be put in uniforms was turned down according to Mr. Woodcock on the theory that uniforms would hamper the agents by revealing their identity at all times.

Auto Association Pleased.

The American Automobile association immediately endorsed the shield arrangement as "an assurance that the rights of motorists are to be protected."

"Numerous plans have been tried in the past," said a statement issued at the A. A. A. national headquarters, "but always hair trigger methods have been allowed to creep into the enforcement program. The prompt action of Director Woodcock in suspending agents who have interfered with the rights of motorists served somewhat to restore their confidence that such invasion of private rights would not be ignored. The program to place full responsibility upon the agents will be approved by the great body of car owners."

The immediate occasion for suggestion of the shield plan was the action of two prohibition agents several days ago in stopping Edward G. Duncan, a Maryland state road engineer, on a road near Washington. Duncan complained that he had no way of telling whether the men were agents or not, and took the matter up with the Maryland Automobile club.

As a result of the Duncan incident the two agents were punished by two days' suspension without pay. Subsequently one of them has been rewarded by a letter of commendation by Director Woodcock for bravery under the fire of moonshiners.

ILLEGAL RAIDS BY CAPITAL'S POLICE CENSURED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Two policemen faced official reprimands today and a formal warning was recommended for twelve others as the result of a series of warrantless liquor raids last Sunday.

Inspector Bean proposed this action in a report of his investigation which followed the action of Assistant United States Attorney Hart in refusing to prosecute 13 of 25 charges of prohibition law violation made by police over the week-end.

"We aren't fighting the police," Hart said. "All we want is to have liquor raids made in a legal manner.'

Hart also said he would not favor the use of paid informers in prohibition cases unless they were searched before setting out to make "buys," accompanied by police to their destination, and marked money was used in their purchases.

Scores Home Run with Orphans

Hack Wilson, star Cubs' player, holding two of the orphans who were among those who attended the annual picnic in Lincoln park yesterday. Hack was the outstanding favorite with the little ones and spared no pains to amuse them. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

All Are Delighted

No one felt sorry yesterday for Cook county's young orphans and old people, at least while watching 5,000 of them frolic on the green slopes of Lincoln park. They came from homes for orphans and for the aged.

The orphans played as hilariously as pupils let loose the last day of school. The old folks sat under the trees talking with old friends.

Transporting 5,000 from 43 institutions seemed a hard task to Robert K. Sloan, president of the Orphans' Automobile Day association, when the first call went out for 1,000 volunteer automobiles and drivers. After the picnic was over he announced that more than enough cars were offered.

First on the program was Hack Wilson. He was besieged by a swarm of orphans for there were baseballs to be autographed with that magic name of Cubs baseball fame, and envelopes, paper caps, anything an orphan might happen to have in hand.

After that initial thrill came the dog and pony show, and St. Mary's Training school band, with its fifty-four pieces directed by Alfred J. De Grazia.

RECEIVER FOR LAKE SHIPPING CONCERN NAMED

Maurice Klein was appointed receiver for the Ohio and Mississippi Transit company, 59 East Van Buren street, operators of lake freighters, by Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles yesterday.

The appointment followed the filing of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, requesting adjudication and a receiver. No schedule of assets was filed, but Attorney Louis Cohen, who filed the petition, stated that the properties of the company were worth $4,000,000 and the liabilities were less than $1,000,000.

Threats of Evansville, Ind., creditors to start receivership proceedings were said to have caused the filing of the voluntary petition, which was determined upon at a meeting of the board of directors, headed by B. K. Edwards.

Pilot Killed, Student Is Hurt as Plane Crashes

CAREY INCREASES LEAD IN WYOMING SENATORIAL RACE

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Former Gov. Robert D. Carey continued to increase his lead in the Republican senatorial contest for the long and short term nominations as additional precincts reported today from yesterday's primary election.

With 439 of Wyoming's 679 precincts reported, Carey had a lead of approximately 4,000 over Charles E. Winter, his closest competitor. The vote was: Carey, 13,050; Winter, 9,054; William C. Deming, Cheyenne, 3,594; W. L. Walls, 2,146.

Returns on the short term nomination came in slowly, but the rank of the candidates was the same as in the race for the regular six year term nomination.

Only a few of the 240 precincts yet to be heard from are large city polling places and it was regarded as unlikely the present standings in the Republican contests would be materially altered by the final returns.

STATES URGED TO ADOPT U. S. AVIATION LAW

National Air Conference Closes Sessions.

Adoption by the states of federal laws regulating airports, airplanes and air transportation was recommended yesterday in committee reports adopted by the first national air conference. The conference closed its three day session in Lincoln hall on the downtown campus of Northwestern university yesterday.

The recommendation was passed with a view to securing uniformity in air laws. Those states which now have conflicting laws were urged to enact legislation which would bring these laws into conformity with the federal regulations as to air traffic rules and the licensing of aircraft and airmen.

Seek Division of Power.

In order to prevent further conflict the conference asked that a committee be appointed to study the province of the federal and state governments in matters of aviation regulation.

A third recommendation urged that states authorize municipalities to purchase, maintain and police airports and that where such airports are established outside the corporate limits the municipalities be authorized to regulate them.

Other recommendations provided that each state undertake the development of a system of airways conforming to the standards of the federal system; require by law the marking of airports as provided for in department of commerce regulations, that cities be marked for airmen and that a state officer be employed to supervise and enforce this law.

Urge National Air System.

The conference recommended the establishment of a comprehensive system of national airways, giving equal consideration to all sections without regard to population density, but giving greatest consideration where topographical conditions are unfavorable to flying.

The conference, the first of its kind ever held in this country, was attended by delegates from the state legislatures, air traffic experts, transport operators and flyers, and legal authorities. It was sponsored by the Illinois aerial navigation commission, the air law institute of Northwestern university, the Illinois commerce commission and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Col. John M. H. Nichols, vice president of the Milwaukee chapter of the National Aeronautical association; Maj. Reed Landis, and Prof. Fred D. Fagg of the air law institute, chairman of the Illinois air commission, presided at yesterday's sessions.

SEVERAL HUNDRED LANDINGS MADE BY TWO FLYERS IN DAY

Akron, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Pilots William H. Hudson and C. O. Bell of Akron today set a new sort of endurance mark for flyers to shoot at when they completed between 500 and 700 landings between dawn and sunset.

No official count was kept, and observers at Akron airport, where the freak performance was run off, varied in estimates. The flyers themselves said they were "up in the air" regarding the count, having lost track between bumps.

Hudson held the controls practically all day. The flyers said they felt no ill effects from the continuous ups and downs for 15 hours and 15 minutes.

FOREIGN TOURISTS SPEND $400,000,000 IN FRANCE IN YEAR

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The first complete French report of total tourist expenditures of all nationalities in France last year shows foreign visitors left 400 million dollars in the country, thus maintaining for the country its position as the world's premier playground.

This picture is an increase of 40 million dollars over the previous year and an increase of 100 million over 1927. Last year Americans are estimated to have spent about 130 million dollars, but, owing to the Wall street crash and a considerable drop in the number of wealthy tourists, it is admitted this year's American outlay will not exceed 100 million dollars. According to M. P. Meynial, French economist, the number of American visitors has not diminished this year. They are described as of the middle and lower middle classes and therefore travel on limited budgets.

Because of the unusual number of German tourists, who this year make up the majority of all foreign visitors, it is predicted last year's immense total will be maintained.

Former Chicago Woman Jailed on Charge of Fraud

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. M. E. Edwards, who moved here from Chicago three months ago to become secretary of the Securities Underwriters' company, is held in the county jail on three charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. Employés of Mrs. Edwards' company sold insurance and it is charged she cashed the checks they received but the policies were never delivered.

AIR TOURISTS OF STATE CHAMBER FIND GOOD PORTS

Illinois Cities Improve Landing Fields.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Moline, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Seven cities of northern Illinois today gave evidence of their faith in the destiny of aviation by greeting the second annual air tour of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce with improved and modern airports in place of makeshift landing fields.

Fifteen planes, participating in the tour of inspection, left Chicago at 9 a. m. and arrived in Moline in time for dinner after making visits of one hour each at six cities en route. Stops were made at Elgin, De Kalb, Rockford, Dixon, Sterling and Kewanee, where the business and aviation leaders taking part in the flight inspected the various airports and were tendered brief receptions by the chambers of commerce.

Tour Director Pleased.

M. C. Meigs, chairman of the Chicago aero commission and vice chairman of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, who is director of the tour, expressed extreme satisfaction over the great improvement shown in airport development and lauded the growth of "air-mindedness" among the public.

The airport at Elgin, first stop of the day's log, was cited as an example of the public's attitude toward aviation, the Elgin airport having been established within the last five months as a result of a public subscription sponsored by the Elgin Chamber of Commerce.

As a direct consequence, Elgin is now a regular stop for the air mail service between Chicago and Madison, Wis. J. C. Speed, president of the Elgin Chamber, and Frank M. McDonald, chairman of its aviation committee, were instrumental in establishing the airport.

County Airport Developed.

At De Kalb a 55 acre tract has been developed as the De Kalb County airport, equipped with two runways of 1,890 feet at right angles and another runway of 2,200 feet diagonally. It is used as an emergency air mail field and is supplied regularly with government flying and weather reports. Both the De Kalb and Sycamore Chambers of Commerce had delegations to greet the air tour.

At Rockford the tourists were given luncheon by the Rockford Chamber of Commerce. Congressman John T. Buckbee of the 12th district welcomed the flight. The Rockford airport, consisting of 130 acres, also is used as a government air mail field.

Walgreen Donates Airport.

The Dixon airport has not yet been formally opened, although it is in good condition. It was presented to the city under a long term lease by Charles R. Walgreen, Chicago drug magnate, who has an estate near Dixon. Dedication ceremonies are to take place next month.

At Sterling the Chamber of Commerce provided the city with its airport by forming the Sterling Airport association and selling stock to the citizens. The Sterling field, in its second year, is well equipped with government radio beacons and weather bureau. The Kewanee airport, new this year, was also in good shape for the tour with ample runways and landing space.

The Moline Chamber of Commerce entertained the flight crews and tourists at a banquet tonight. Tomorrow the tour proceeds to Monmouth, La Salle, Streator, Peoria, Bloomington, and Decatur.

JAIL URGED INSTEAD OF FINES FOR IOWA'S DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Jail sentences for violators of prohibition laws were urged today by John Fletcher, Iowa attorney general, to supplant a system of fines.

"Our method of assessing fines against the illicit dealers in liquor," he said, "rather than confining them for punishment is little more than licensing their illegal business.

"The imposition of a fine without the imposition of a jail or penitentiary sentence simply enables them to continue in their criminal careers. The bootlegger's business stops when he goes to jail."

Fletcher charged that lax enforcement of the prohibition laws has placed fortunes "in the hands of the criminal element."

CITY WELCOMES FAMOUS FLYERS TO RACES TODAY

Stars from Europe Will Arrive by Train.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The festivities of the 1930 national air races begin today with the arrival of famous flying men and the racing craft they will fly in the ten day tournament of the air opening Saturday at Curtiss-Wright-Reynolds airport.

Al Williams, who has the reputation of being able to get more fancy tricks out of an airplane than any living pilot, save Jimmie Doolittle, will step from the Twentieth Century Limited at 10:45 this morning with a band of celebrated European airmen in tow. And this afternoon the international flying team will begin the preparation of their planes for a daily performance before the crowd at Curtiss field.

Service Flyers on Way.

Most of the army, navy and marine corps air fighters are on their way to Chicago and the rest are due to take the air and head for Curtiss field today and tomorrow. Last night the "Red Rippers," the crack Fifth Fighting Squadron from the aircraft carrier Lexington, were in Kansas City and although their itinerary calls for arrival here over the loop during the inaugural parade tomorrow, race officials stated that the squadron may depend upon Chicago today.

Squadron 8, crack flying outfit of the marine corps, will take off from Washington this morning after attending a breakfast for the contestants in the woman's Dixie Derby to the air races. The flyers who are stationed at Quantico, Va., will act as escort to Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics, in his flight to Chicago. The squadron is commanded by First Lieut. L. H. N. Sanderson.

The army's dashing first pursuit group from Selfridge field, Mich., will be among the services units moving to Chicago.

Lieutenant Commander Frand D. Wagner, in charge of navy operations for the races, arrived yesterday to prepare for the participation of his branch of the service. A corps of navy mechanics are camped at Curtiss field waiting for the arrival of their charges.

Welcome Foreign Flyers.

The foreign flyers will be greeted this morning by large delegations of their own nationals, consuls, and consul generals of their countries, officials of the air races, and noted Chicagoans. The party will be escorted from the La Salle street station through the loop and down Michigan avenue, and later will be fêted at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

Lieut. Williams, the former navy racing ace, rounded up the foreign stunting team during a recent trip through Europe. They are Lieutenant Commander R. L. R. Atcherly, Great Britain; Marcel Doret, France [who is accompanied by Mme. Doret]; Capt. Fritz Lohse, Germany; Marshal Pietro Colombo, Italy; Lieut. Preston of the British Coldstream guards, and possibly a Polish flyer who has been the source of much speculation by the race officials.

Poland, according to rumor, has delegated a famous airman to take part in the races, but whether he is in this country or not cannot be learned by race officials who yesterday endeavored to trace him through the Polish consulate here.

Among those who will greet the foreign airmen are Consuls and Consul Generals Paul Schwartz and Warner Svhueller, Germany; Charles de Fontnouvelle, France; S. C. Lawrence, Great Britain; Dr. Antonio Ferme, Italy, and Edmund Kalenski, Poland. The air races will be represented by Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Chicago Air Race corporation; Capt. M. M. Corpening, executive director; Cliff Henderson, general manager; Maj. Reed G. Landis, and other of the race staff.

The stunting planes of the foreign team were sent on here in crates and the airmen came by rail because of insufficient time to reassemble and test them in New York prior to departure for the races.

Washington officialdom is due to arrive by air and rail today and tomorrow. Among the capitol visitors will be Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautical association, who will arrive by plane this afternoon; W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general in charge of air mails; David A. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy; Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the army air corps, and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, who will arrive this afternoon.

Noted Flyers Coming.

Celebrated American airmen, some of those who will fly in the races and others who are coming only to look on, will be on the wing, headed for Chicago today. Ruth Elder Camp, who hasn't been competing much in women's events since her marriage to Walter C. Camp Jr., and George Haldeman will fly here this afternoon. Clarence Chamberlain, trans-Atlantic flyer; Erick Nelson, and a score of others are expected to drop into Curtiss field during the day.

Provide Transportation.

Plans for handling the crowds were being perfected by traffic experts yesterday. Chicago policemen, firemen, county highway policemen, militia, and 700 special police will direct the streams of traffic to Curtiss field.

Railroads, buses, airplanes, and even motorboats will be used in transporting spectators to the race field. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad will run direct service from the Union station to the airport, the North Shore line will utilize a train and bus service, and similar arrangements are being made by the Northwestern railroad and the Rapid Transit lines. The Sky Harbor Transportation company will carry passengers by motorboat from the Michigan avenue bridge to Wilmette, from there to Sky Harbor by bus, and from the airport to Curtiss field by plane.

Plane Cracks Up

Greenwood, S. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Mae Haizlip of St. Louis, who was injured when her plane cracked up near here today, regained consciousness tonight, hospital attachés announced.

The woman flyer's condition was described by physicians as "much improved" and she was said to be "resting comfortably" late tonight.

Mrs. Haizlip was flying from Atlanta to Washington to participate in the women's "Dixie Derby." She apparently lost her way and attempted to land in a cotton field. The plane nosed over.

MRS. O'DONNELL STILL HAS LEAD IN PLANE DERBY

Men's Races to Chicago Under Way.

Roswell, N. M., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Three hops halfway across New Mexico today placed Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach unofficially twenty-six minutes and forty-eight seconds in the lead of the Long Beach Chicago national women's air Derby.

Miss Marjorie Diog, Danbury, Conn., tenaciously clung to second place. At Douglas, Ariz., last night, the Long Beach flyer led her Connecticut rival by sixteen minutes.

The unofficial elapsed time table from Long Beach to Roswell follows: Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, 6:07:08; Miss Marjorie Diog, 6:33:56; Miss Mildred Morgan, 8:34:02; Miss Jean La Rene, 8:48:58; Miss Ruth Stewart, 10:54:35; Miss Ruth Barron, 25:13:18.

The flyers will take off tomorrow morning for Lubrock, Tex., from where they will continue to Amarillo, Tex.

The women had perfect flying weather over New Mexico today. The three laps, from Douglas, Ariz., to Lordsburg, N .M., from Lordsburg to Deming and from Deming to Roswell were made without accident.

Livingston Leads from Texas.

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 20.—(AP)—John H. Livingston, Aurora, Ill., led W. G. Moore, Kansas City, into Fort Worth by one minute today in the Brownsville-Chicago Air Derby. Livingston held an advantage of more than one hour over his opponent in total elapsed time when they finished the second day of the Derby at the night control point here.

La Grange Pilot Leads.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Art Killips of La Grange, Ill., held a 14 minute advantage over Art Davis of Lansing, Mich., at the end of the first day's flight in the men's Atlantic air Derby between Miami and Chicago.

Trailing in the three cornered race was George Burell of La Grange, Ill., some 13 minutes behind Davis. The three planes hopped off at Miami this morning, going to Tampa and making this their first overnight control point.

Race officials here had no information on A. B. Stauber of Little Rock, who wired starting officials at Miami today that he would be late starting and expected to arrive here some time tonight. The race will finish at Chicago Saturday.

Spokane Race Starts Today.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Five airplanes will leave Boeing field tomorrow on the first lap of the Seattle to Chicago air Derby of the national air races.

Entries include John Blum, Seattle; Nick Mamer, Spokane; Frank Kammer, Wenatchee, and Bert Rouff, Seattle. The pilot of the fifth plane was not named.

The planes will leave Boeing field at one minute intervals, starting at 10 a. m. The first stop will be at Portland and subsequent stops will be made at Spokane, Butte, Billings; Bismarck, N. D.; Aberdeen, S. D.; Fargo, S. D.; St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Chicago. Plans were for the flight to finish Monday.

TWO MORE DERBIES TAKE OFF FOR AIR RACES HERE TODAY

Three air Derbies were flying toward Chicago yesterday and two more were preparing to take off this morning for cross-country races for prizes to be awarded in connection with the 1930 national air races which start here Saturday. Following is summarized information concerning these Derbies:

The women's Pacific Derby which started from Long Beach, Cal., Sunday afternoon landed last night at Roswell, N. M. It is due to finish at Curtiss field Monday afternoon.

The men's Pacific Derby class B landed at Fort Worth, Tex., last night. It started from Brownsville, Tex., Tuesday and is due to arrive at Curtiss field Saturday afternoon.

The men's Atlantic Derby class A landed last night at Jacksonville, Fla., on the first leg of its race from Miami where the planes left yesterday morning. The Derby is due to arrive at Curtiss field Saturday.

Two Derbies will start today. The men's Pacific Derby class A will take off from Seattle, Wash., and is due to arrive here Monday. The men's Atlantic Derby class B will start from Hartford, Conn., and is due to arrive Sunday.

The nonstop Derby from Los Angeles may start any day after Sunday, depending on the weather.

HOW GAVE AWAY NEARLY $500,000, ATTORNEY SAYS

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The fortune James Eads How, "million-aire" hobo, inherited from his mother in St. Louis had been given away before his recent death except for $125,000 which the foresighted mother left in a trust fund because of her son's philanthropic tendencies.

Nicholas Klein, attorney for How, who died in poverty recently, said all that remained of his mother's original bequest of $500,000 were $4,000 in cash, a $18,000 home in Los Angeles, and $600 interest in two empty factory buildings.

Klein said he had resigned as an executor of How's estate in order to secure annulment of How's adoption of his divorced wife's son. The boy, Holger, 11, was adopted last year. Mrs. Ingeborg S. How divorced How four days before his recent death.

One Dead in Dust Blast; One Missing; Firemen Hurt

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 20.—(AP)—A workman was killed and another was missing tonight as the result of a series of dust explosions, followed by fire, which partially wrecked a Western Maryland railroad grain elevator terminal at the harbor today.

The fire had raged for several hours and nine injured had been sent to hospitals before the body of the dead man, tentatively identified as that of Sylvan Jordan, Negro, was recovered. Other injured were treated at the scene. The loss was estimated at $250,000 by J. A. Peterson, general manager of the elevator.

NONSTOP FLYERS SEEK CHANGES IN RULES FOR RACE

Starting Field Is Chief Objection.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Five of the nation's noted pilots, all of them entered for the nonstop race from Los Angeles to Curtiss field, Chicago, as a feature of next week's national air meet there, today got together and wired a protest against the conditions of the race.

The pilots who signed the protest are Col. Arthur Goebel, Lieut. Col. Roscoe Turner, Lee Shoenhair, Wiley Post and William Brock. They represent the complete field in the race.

Their main grievance centered about the place chosen as the Los Angeles takeoff, the Los Angeles municipal airport. They voted to ask this field be changed to Metropolitan airport in the San Fernando valley region of Los Angeles.

There are low transmission wires at both ends of the municipal field—the same wires that nearly brought a major disaster to the Graf Zeppelin on its takeoff in 1928. The San Fernando field is without such wires.

The five airmen, according to Wiley Post, fear the hazard of taking off through these wires with the load of 3,000 gallons of fuel which they speed planes must carry for a nonstop flight.

The pilots also requested a second change in the race rules, allowing each pilot to select his own takeoff day, instead of all five starting together.

Planes Being Tuned.

All the racing ships were being conditioned today at the Lockheed factory in Burbank, near here, except Roscoe Turner's Air Express monoplane. Except Turner's craft all are Lockheed Vegas powered by 425 horsepower Wasp motors. Turner has a Hornet motor of 525 horsepower. All the planes are about equal in speed, with a top of around 200 miles an hour.

Richard Barnitz, manager of the municipal field and a Los Angeles leader in aviation, said he would take steps to lower the high tension wires at the end of the municipal field if this would induce the flyers to adhere to the original starting plans.

Prohibition Battle Flares at First Session.

executive committee disapproved of it and that it would be withdrawn from submission. There was no debate. The citizenship committee report was a bitter attack on President Hoover's farm board, declaring that this effort to help the farmers was foredoomed to failure.

Mr. MacCracken then brought up the prohibition referendum, which had provoked much discussion, and some criticism of the committee, he said.

"The committee," he reported, "was presented with a written request from a substantial number of members representing every section, to submit the question as to repeal of the 18th amendment at this meeting We have had other resolutions from time to time for several years past. They have all been tabled.

Seek Vote of All.

"We thought it unwise to take the position of the proponents of this resolution. There were three reasons why we did not think the referendum should be made here. Was it within the scope of the association and its objects? Was it a wise policy for the association to take an official position, in view of the political aspects and divergent views? Was it to the best interests of the association to throw it on the floor in bitter debate?

"The committee concluded that the question was so grave and important that the whole association should vote on the matter, not only those present at the convention. The committee has taken no position as to whether this is a proper subject for the association but has sought advice on a grave matter. We have taken no position for or against national prohibition.

"Within 48 hours we have had a request to recall the postcards we have sent out seeking advice on this. Fifteen thousand ballots are already in. The committee again considered it and reached the conclusion that it would adhere to its decision, that it was beyond power of recall."

There was a burst of applause through the room at this statement.

Polls to Close Oct. 15.

"The polls will close on Oct. 15. The committee has determined to open the returns to the first question on Nov. 10. If this is favorable to the referendum the second returns will be opened as soon as feasible. They were sent out at once as a matter of economy. Until the polls are closed you may recall the ballots or request new ballots."

Mr. MacCracken moved the adoption of this report.

Judge James F. Ailshie of Idaho was on his feet with this question:

"Is a vote on this to be taken as approval of the committee's action?"

"The chair rules that it would not," said President Sims.

There were a few scattering noes against the report, and then Judge Ailshie came to the platform with a resolution to the effect that the association is of the opinion that the submitting of this question is not in accord with the objects and purpose of the association and contrary to its constitution and bylaws.

Political Question, Claim.

"Retention or repeal of the 18th amendment is a political question involving highly controversial economic and moral issues to which this association should not be committed," he said.

Judge Joseph B. David moved that this resolution be tabled.

Gurney Newlin of Los Angeles, former president, came to the platform and moved a point of order. The right of the executive committee to take such action, he said, is specifically granted in the constitution, and this right cannot be taken away by a percentage of delegates in annual meeting.

Judge Ailshie said that the constitution was made and unmade by the members at will, and that they had power over the committee.

Appeal from Sims' Decision.

President Sims said the chair would recognize no one else on this resolution, that the chair needed no further advice, and ruled that the point of order was well taken, that the action of the committee could not be recalled.

Judge Ailshie appealed from this decision. The shout of the ayes was loud and that of the opposition feeble, but a division was called for and a standing vote taken which the secretary did not consider it necessary to count. It was at least 50 to 1 in favor of the chair and the referendum.

Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, former Democratic candidate for the United States senate, and a dry, made his way to the front and presented the following resolution, which was sent to the executive committee for consideration:

"That if the executive committee adheres to its plan to submit the prohibition issue to a referendum, it be requested to include in the proposition to be voted upon a substitute plan for the solution of the liquor problem."

"This is not mere irony," said Mr. Hay. "The people of the United States, when called upon to disapprove one plan, are entitled to know what plan is to take its place. This will merely throw the thing into more confusion. Mr. Morrow is for repeal and state rights. Mr. Cox says that is all bosh. Where are we going to land?"

WICKERSHAM ADDRESS

Mr. Wickersham began his address with a statement of the President's attitude, quoting from various White House utterances to show that the scope of the work must go far beyond prohibition.

"It was perhaps natural," he said, "that the press and the public should have assumed that the commission's task was primarily to investigate and report on the question of prohibition, and that somehow it would furnish a solution of that most controversial subject. But as President Hoover pointed out in his statement of June 27, statistics show that 70 per cent of all prisoners in federal prisons are there for other crimes than those arising out of prohibition, and our state prisons show about the same ratio."

After discussing the breakdown of law under the complexities of modern life he said:

"It must be confessed that the general attitude of mind of the average American is not law-abiding. Perhaps this not not unnatural. With 48 states grinding out laws annually, or biennially; with statute laws already in existence filling some 3,500 volumes of more than a million and a half pages, any general acceptance of statute law as imposing a moral obligation upon the citizen can hardly be expected.

"Penalties Not Greatest Force."

"Yet with proper guidance, an extraordinary degree of coöperation with authority in securing general observance of statutory requirements can be developed in the American public. The art of suggestion may be more potent than legislative mandates bristling with penalties for disobedience."

He discussed the theory of Brand Whitlock who said in a recent article that people do not respect a legislative enactment "unless it has the sanction of the people, is implicit in their lives, and has its roots deep down in their habits and customs."

"This pleasing theory," continued Mr. Wickersham, "with which a certain portion of our community is narcotizing its conscience, is not supported by facts." He went on to quote insurance company figures which show that in the last ten years arrests for robbery, burglary and theft increased in percentage more than ten times as much as the population, intoxication and liquor law arrests more than seven times as much as the population, and traffic law violations more than 16 times as much.

Says Minorities Must Accept.

"A society," said Mr. Wickersham, "which has adopted the inventions and applied science of the last quarter of a century and has taken into its midst millions of aliens from every country in the world, must resort to legislation in order to regulate its life, preserve order, and, so far as possible, suppress acts and habits injurious to its welfare.

"That the individual and minority groups must accept and abide by the restraints so imposed is obvious. Otherwise lawful government breaks down and we have anarchy. The remedy of those who object is to appeal to the same authority as that which enacts, for rescission or modification. There can be no individual right to elect what laws one will or will not obey."

He then told of the researches of the commission into various fields of crime, its methods and purposes. One report on the progress of the average prosecution in the courts is soon going to press, he said. It will show that in New York City only 4.7 per cent of prosecutions reach jury trial; in St. Louis, 13 per cent; Chicago, 3.8 per cent. The dismissal of prosecutions by district attorneys opens a further field for study. Dean Edith Abbott of the University of Chicago is conducting a study for the commission on criminal justice and the foreign born, he said.

Shaw Studies Environment.

Prof. Clifford R. Shaw is working on the influence of environment on criminal conduct, federal courts are being studied, and a committee on probations, prisons, and parole is at work, the speaker explained.

"We are seeking," said Mr. Wickersham, "as accurate an answer as may be obtained to the question: What is America's annual bill for the luxury of crime?"

The commission, he said, had opposed the Jones law and the Dyer act.

"It appeared to us that a speedy prosecution of minor offenses and the imposition of penalties having some relation to the character of the offense would be more likely to induce respect for law than the creation of penalties so disproportioned to the gravity of the offense as to induce resentment in reasonable minds."

He told of the bill pending in the senate which provides for trial of petty offenses before a United States commissioner without jury except under special provisions.

Follows Custom, Claim.

"Loud howls were raised on the part of those who did not want effective enforcement of the prohibition law," he said, "that these measures take from the defendant the right of trial by jury. These protestations wholly ignored the fact that in almost every state of the Union petty offenses are tried before magistrates without a jury, as they are at common law. They also ignored the fact that the accused are given in the bills a right to jury trial if they seasonably demand it."

HEAR INSTITUTE REPORT

William Draper Lewis, director of the American Law institute, reported to the convention on the work of that body on the completion and publication of a model code of criminal procedure. The institute stands ready, he said, to work with bar associations in getting the code adopted by the various states in part or in whole. The association appointed a coöperating committee from the section on criminal law and criminology, which is developing the point of view that the making of criminal laws cannot be done intelligently without an understanding of the causes of crime. It is pursuing this work in several fields under the chairmanship of Justin Miller.

Charles S. Whitman of New York presided at the evening session, where council elections were held and an address given by N. W. Rowell, K. C., of Toronto, on "Canada's Position in the British Commonwealth of Nations."

He developed this subject as a political experiment, in line with the Russian and Italian experiments in their far reaching effect on human life. The development of the empire into the commonwealth of nations, he said, is a new and great experiment in democratic government.

Traces Development.

He traced three steps in this gradual growth, during which the whole executive authority in and over Canada has passed from the British government to the government of Canada. The commonwealth, he said, is made up of "self-governing nations of equal status, though not of equal power, and India, in which self-government is in process of development. Unity is symbolized and expressed in a common sovereign, common citizenship, and a common judicial tribunal of final resort. The monarch is the keystone of the arch of empire and the succession to the throne, royal style and titles are a matter of equal concern to all."

He pleaded for closer coöperation among nations and said he hoped that Elihu Root would live to see "his life's work crowned with success by the United States becoming a member of the permanent court of international relations."

The delegates approved the election of members for the general council of the association, whose representation is from each of the states and the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico, and the Philippines. Middle west members are Illinois, George M. Wilson, Quincy; Indiana, Daniel W. Sims, Lafayette; Iowa, James A. Devitt, Oskaloosa; Wisconsin, Frank T. Boesel, Milwaukee.

Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes is to arrive today to address the representatives of foreign bars at a special session at the Civic Opera house this evening.

Personal Glimpses of Visitors at Chicago Convention of Lawyers

A special train carrying more than 200 members of the bar of England, Scotland, Ireland, France and Canada will arrive in Chicago at 7:50 o'clock this morning over the Michigan Central railroad at the 12th street station. Sir Boyd Merriman of England will be the guest of honor at a luncheon at the Covenant club at 12:15 o'clock today. Luncheons will be given at 12:30 o'clock at the Stevens hotel by graduates of the Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Chicago, Northwestern, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Vanderbilt law schools, at which distinguished foreign lawyers will be honored.

Joe F. O'Connell of Boston, who is running as a wet for the Democratic nomination for the senate, a delegate to the bar association convention, says his chief distinction is that he is the father of 12 children.

When George Brown Martin of Cattlettsburg, Ky., became a United States senator in 1918 he was the senate's youngest member. The former senator is a true Kentuckian. He is fond of horse races—and he says that not one of the Kentucky delegation of 20 at the convention is "offensively dry."

Dean Roscoe Pound of the Harvard university law school stil is a trifle footsore. He just returned from a five weeks' walking tour through Ireland, when, with the aid of a shillalah of blackthorn, he did fron 20 to 25 miles a day. He lived on mutton and cabbage and lost two pounds a week, but regrets that his figure is becoming rotund again at the rate of two pounds a week.

Judge Peter Meldrim of the Circuit court, Savannah, Ga., who has almost forgotten the number of times he has been reëlected, is a Confederate veteran. Sherman on his march to the sea made Judge Meldrim's home his headquarters for a time.

The youngest United States Circuit Court of Appeals judges in the country are attending the convention. Judge George T. McDermott of Topeka, Kas., 43 years old, who was with the 339th Field Artillery in the world war, and Judge Orie L. Phillips of Albuquerque, N. M., 44 years old. Judge McDermott is a graduate of the University of Chicago law school.

George W. Wickersham, head of President Hoover's national commission on law enforcement, is a vigorous man who appears younger than his 72 years. He explains his ruggedness by saying that he goes horseback riding every morning, and golfing three times a week, no matter how busy he is.

Judge J. Y. Brinton of Alexandria, Egypt, formerly of Philadelphia, is the only representative of the United States in the court of appeals in the mixed courts of Egypt, where he has served for nine years. He departed last night for Washington, where he will bid farewell to former Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, now ambassador to Egypt, before the latter sails to assume his new duties.

George B. Rose of Little Rock, Ark., who was admitted to the bar in 1879, has been attending conventions of the American Bar association for thirty years, and never misses a convention dance. He is a connoisseur of art and music, and has traveled extensively in the study of Renaissance art, on which he has written numerous works. His father was a lawyer; the firm of which Mr. Rose is a member is 100 years old.

George P. Bondurant, Birmingham, Ala., referee in bankruptcy, probably will be named chairman of the Democratic state executive committee in Alabama, it is reported. Slender and dark, Mr. Bondurant is of French Huguenot descent.

Among the younger lawyers who already have received prominence are Solicitor General T. D. Thatcher, who succeeded Charles Evans Hughes Jr.; G. A. Youngquist, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, and Dean Justin Miller, who this fall will launch a new law school at Duke university, Durham, N. C.

SEES NO CHANGE IN VERDICTS OF WOMAN JURORS

If women are to serve on juries—and Genevieve R. Cline, associate justice of the United States Customs court, thinks they should—it will cause little change in criminal penalties, in her opinion. Justice Cline addressed a luncheon meeting of the National Association of Women Lawyers and the Illinois Women's Bar association yesterday in the Congress hotel.

"Some women seem to think that women are more severe than men," she said in an interview. "I do not think so. I think that there is almost no difference between the mental processes of women and those of men.

"Women should serve on juries for the sake of equality of rights. There is no difference between the sexes in the matters of judgment. But if women want to serve they must take the unpleasant along with the pleasant. They must be willing to serve on coroner's juries and in murder trials."

Asked if she thought the mass of women were interested in serving on juries, she replied that so long as they were denied that right a number of them were, and should be.

The two day meeting of the women's association adjourned last night. Olive Stott Gabriel of New York was elected president.

LOVE BALM SUIT FACES PASTOR AS HONEYMOON ENDS

Butler, Pa., Aug. 20. [Special.]—A homecoming party at which more than a score of friends were welcoming the Rev. John E. Reish, 46, pastor of the West Sunbury Lutheran charge, and his 24 year old bride, formerly Margaret Aggas, back from their honeymoon last night was interrupted by Sheriff Lawrence Thompson, bearing a capais against the Rev. Mr. Reish in a $25,000 breach of promise suit filed against him by Mrs. Margaret A. Ellis, a widow.

The reception at which the Rev. Mr. Reish was arrested was at the home of his father-in-law, William Aggas, near West Sunbury. Aggas furnished the required $300 bond. Mrs. Ellis, a former newspaper woman, charged that the minister promised to to marry her in September, 1925, and several times since renewed the promise. Mr. Reish has refused to make any statement. His bride said that she would stick by her husband. "I don't believe that my husband ever promised to marry that woman," she said.

Next Winter
by putting up fruit

This year sugar is so cheap and fruit so plentiful that home canning is real economy.

For the winter diet you can't have too much canned fruit. It is wholesome for everybody and adds variety to every menu.

Since sugar is exceedingly cheap and fine fruit plentiful, you will be surprised at how many jars of fruit and glasses of jelly can be put up without taxing your present food budget. And next winter when you start using this fruit you will be away ahead financially.

In addition to putting up preserves, jellies and jams, it is decidedly worth while to make some relishes and pickles. These are zestful accompaniments for meat and fish.

Plan now to put up some fruit. Just look at the low price of sugar and fruit and you'll see that home canning is real economy. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

AIMEE'S ILLNESS STIRS FLOCK AS MA SAYS "BLAH"

It All Concerns Facial Repairs, Her Story.

Los Angeles, Aug. 20.—(AP)—More than 100 leaders of Angelus temple today adopted a resolution of confidence in their evangelist pastor, Aimee Semple McPherson, while Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, her mother, declared stories of Mrs. McPherson's illness and asserted blindness to be "just blah."

The evangelist's mother later announced she "would retire to the mountains" and sever all connections with the temple.

Mrs. Kennedy said the evangelist was recovering from a "face lifting" operation at a Malibu Beach cottage. "It was necessary to bandage her whole face, and I think this is where the blindness story started," she continued.

Rumors of Temple Discord.

Indication that all might not be entirely peaceful at Angelus temple because of developments of the case was given by "Sister" Mary E. Sullivan, however.

Sister Sullivan told the gathering of leaders that "Aimee's prison girls are all giving her support. They all are praying for her, but I am having a hard time keeping them from forming a league against Ma Kennedy."

Sister Sullivan refused to answer newspaper men's queries concerning the identity of the "prison girls."

At the beach cottage it was variously stated Mrs. McPherson was suffering from a face lifting operation, a nervous collapse, blindness, and need of a rest. Mrs. McPherson herself was quoted as saying:

Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, psychiatrist and nerve specialist, after visiting Mrs. McPherson, said:

"She is much improved. Another day of rest and she will be all right. There's nothing the matter with her eyes. She has not had bandages on her face or eyes since last night."

Ma Kennedy Speaks Freely.

Most of the talking for publication today about Mrs. McPherson's condition was done by Mrs. Kennedy. She reiterated her reference to a fist fight in which she said she was "floored" by her daughter, with the result the mother had to go to the Brentwood sanitarium to have some face lifting done over near her nose. Mrs. McPherson denied she hit her mother.

Mrs. Kennedy also said Mrs. McPherson had had her face lifted and would admit it and that she left the Brentwood sanitarium when Mrs. Kennedy arrived. According to Mrs. Kennedy Mrs. McPherson had her face partly lifted in Budapest and Mrs. Kennedy had hers lifted here. Mrs. McPherson liked the job done on her mother's face better than her own, the mother averred, and decided to have the job finished.

GROCERS CHARGE MILK PRICES IN NEW YORK FIXED

New York, Aug. 20. — (AP) — Small neighborhood grocers today testified large milk companies prevented them from selling milk cheaply, even though it was available and they could do so at a fair profit.

Samuel Volkman of Brooklyn said at a state investigation into alleged price fixing that he stopped taking milk from the Brooklyn plant of the Dairyman's league when an independent dealer offered him inducements permitting him to lower his price, but the independent dealer was "chased out of town."

A dozen other grocers from Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx testified that on Aug. 11 the price of their milk for which they had been paying from $3 to $3.60 per 40 quarts was raised to $4 to $4.40. When some of them protested they said they were allowed a slight reduction.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The stockingless fad for young girls was deplored as an "un-Christian practice" in a resolution on dress reform passed here today by the National Catholic Women's union.

"The necessary result of this un-Christian practice," the resolution continued, "is the complete loss of the sense of modesty in these young girls growing up who in later years will not understand what this virtue means to them."

Mrs. Sophia C. Wavering of Quincy, Ill., was reelected president of the union today.

INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed and some information about the writer of the letter.

Letter received by Jonathan David, 237 Menominee street, Chicago, Ill.

"I received this letter from Mr. Bentley, who is head of the American mission at Hamadan, Persia," Mr. David writes. "Hamadan, or the ancient Tscabanta, capital of Media, is one of the oldest cities in Persia.

"Those familiar with the Bible (the Book of Esther) will remember Hamadan as the seat of the great Emperor Ahasuerus and his general, Aman. During this time orders were issued to massacre all the Jews, but they were saved by Esther, who had been warned by her uncle, Mordecai.

"Hamadan also was made famous by the invading armies of Alexander the Great when he was conquering Persia. During the world war it was the center of British operations in Persia.

"Hamadan is a beautiful city, situated below the hills, with many charming minarets and mosques."

Hamadan is the capital of the Persian province bearing its name. The province has many fertile, well watered plains, producing great quantities of grain. The capital is situated about 190 miles southwest of Teheran. It is on an elevation at the base of Mount Elvend, which rises to a height of 11,900 feet.

It is a thriving commercial center, famous throughout the country for its leather, which is exported in quantity to other provinces. The principal industries are tanning leather and manufacturing saddles, harnesses, and trunks. The streets are narrow, and by a system established long ago each section of the city is shut off from its neighbors by gates, which are closed during local disorders and regularly at night.

CIGARET PRICE WAR GIVES SIGNS OF TAMING DOWN

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—A new attempt to end the price war in the retail cigaret trade was made today by the United Cigar Stores and the Schulte company. Both advanced prices for package cigarets of leading brands in New England, the middle west and northern New York.

Prices of leading brands have been advanced to 12½ cents a package, $1.19 per carton and 30 cents a tin of fifty. Former prices were 12 cents a package, $1.15 a carton and 27 cents a tin of fifty.

In other words, in the large retail tobacco chain stores outside New York city cigarets are now back again on the two-for-a-quarter level. So far there has been no change in prices in Greater New York.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Setting a new state record, a team of horses owned by Wiliam Ott of Dahonda, lifted 2,750 pounds 27½ feet in the horse pulling contest at the Illinois state fair today. The team broke the record made at Tuscola by a team owned by Ralph Reeder of Atwood, which lifted 2,725 pounds 27½ feet.

NEGRO COUPLE'S ADOPTION PLEA WINS BABY NAME

Parents Reconciled; Will Take Back Child.

A childless Negro couple filed a petition last Tuesday to adopt the white baby boy they had cared for as their own since his illegitimate birth seven months ago. Yesterday, although faced with the loss of the smiling, red haired child they had learned to love, they effected a reconciliation between the unmarried parents of the baby and obtained a promise that he will be given a name.

William Linder, a colored contractor, and his wife, Mary, filed the adoption petition in the County court. It was the first case in Cook county in which the question of race had arisen in adoption proceedings, according to officials. The baby's name, the petition stated, is Joseph Julian, son of Mrs. Rose Julian, a widow, and of Joseph A. Murphy, who live at 5120 South La Salle street. The Linders live at 5222 South La Salle street.

The petition stated that the father had disclaimed responsibility for the child, and the mother felt she could not care for the baby. The petition was to be heard by County Judge Jarecki on his return from Springfield.

Petition May Be Dropped.

It is unlikely now that the petition will be heard. Mrs. Julian said she expected to take the infant to her home today. She and Murphy plan to be married. Mrs. Linder is willing, she said, that the child go back to its mother, provided that Mrs. Julian will give the baby proper care.

"I've had Joseph since he was born," said Mrs. Linder. "His mother asked me to keep him. She didn't want people to know about him nor did the baby's father. So I brought him here and watched over him. See how strong and fat he's getting? He's never been sick a day in his life. He hardly ever cries.

"Now the baby's father will take him and give him a name. I feel that the baby should have his mother if she really wants him and can take care of him."

Will Take Baby Back.

"I'm going to take my baby back," said Mrs. Julian. "I've got three other children here to take care of."

"Will Murphy allow the child to be brought here?" she was asked.

"He says we can take it," Mrs. Julian replied. "We plan to get married and give the boy a name."

Page & Shaw Candy Firm Bankrupt; Owes $300,000

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Page & Shaw, Inc., candy manufacturers, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the federal court here. Otis E. Dunham, president of the firm, with 17 other persons, was indicted last May on charges growing out of alleged irregularities in the sale of stock in the company worth $2,000,000. The bankruptcy petition showed the firm's liabilities would exceed $300,000 and that its assets totaled about $200,000.

POLICE ATTACK INDIA RIOTERS; HUNDREDS HURT

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Nine women and twenty boys were arrested following a charge by police upon an excited crowd in front of a government school for girls today. Early reports said that hundreds of persons were injured and taken to hospitals.

The trouble began when girl students attempted to hoist the nationalist flag in the schoolyard, despite police prohibition. A crowd soon gathered and police broke up the ensuing disturbance. Pundit Malaviya and V. J. Patel, former president of the legislative assembly, arrived soon after the charge of the constabulary.

at HENRICI'S

A young man of appearance and personality exemplifying the high type of intelligence to which the operation of Henrici's appeals was engaged by the manager of Henrici's in conversation one evening. With a view to possible information useful in some detail of operation the manager asked him for the reasons leading to his patronage of Henrici's. The answer was:

"Heavy demands upon a light income necessitate that I economize in every practicable way and so I eat breakfast and luncheon in cheap restaurants but at dinner time every evening I come to Henrici's, because health and efficiency require one substantial, fully satisfying meal of quality food every day and I find such values greater here than in any other restaurant I know."

Surely this young man's thoughts on food are food for thought.

COMMISSIONS IN CITY TRAILER DEAL ARE LISTED

Indorsers of Checks Are Known, Lawyers Say.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

More details regarding the payment of $500,000 in commissions in connection with the city's purchase of 905 garbage trailers from the Highway Trailer company of Edgerton, Wis., were made available yesterday. This $500,000 was paid to three sales agencies, but Robert M. Telfer Jr., in his suit in the federal court, claims that these "co-partnerships were simply a means of covering up payments to various persons."

Telfer's suit, which revealed the payments, was brought against the Fruehauf Trailer company of Detroit, asking $100,000 for compensation and expenses. He says part of his work was the "elimination of unfair competition," and that in the course of this task he discovered the payments.

Asked to supply information to show that the $500,000 was actually paid, Mr. Telfer's attorneys, the law firm of Mecartney and Duft, said that the sum was supplied the sales agencies in 38 or more payments, and they gave the date of each check, the amount of each and the voucher numbers of 30 of the checks.

Have Names of Indorsers.

They added that they can show the bank at which each check was cashed and the indorser of each check, but refrained from making public this information. One check for $21,903.62, they said, was indorsed by a person who is not known as a partner in any of the sales agencies and was cashed by a Milwaukee bank. It was explained, however, that this indorser has a close relationship with a Chicago partner in one sales agency.

Mr. Telfer charges that these sales agencies "were not legitimate dealers nor did they have any dealings with the city of Chicago, nor did they make any sales thereto."

James W. Menhall, head of the Highway Trailer company, which paid the cash, claims the payments were made to legitimate agents and that the company's contract with each agent called for a commission on business done within the territories of the agents.

No Deal with Agencies.

City officials have asserted in writing that none of the sales agencies obtained the city's business, nor negotiated any of the three contracts, which are under fire in the Telfer suit. They did not even collect the checks for the payments of the trailers. The contracts were made with the Highway Trailer company direct and the warrants were made payable to that company and it cashed them. Later it gave its checks to the sales agencies. The dates, amounts, and voucher numbers of those checks, according to the firm of Mecartney & Duft, are as follows:

$10,000 REWARD For a Salesman

SOMEWHERE there is a man who can measure up. He is now a sales manager, owns his own business, or is a star salesman. He can sell. He can close. He is keenly observant. He is dynamic, active and pleasing to meet. He has character, resourcefulness, mentality, personality, and the—"3 G's."

He is a man who is experienced in presenting cold facts in a forceful manner to the chief executives of large businesses. Our clients, sales counsellors and trainers of national prominence, seek him. We propose to find him. And when we do he will be presented with a $10,000 job, the opportunity of contacting the biggest executives in big business, operating from the finest suite of offices in Chicago.

Don't reply unless you have earned at least $5,000 a year selling. We'll double it if you click. If you measure up, we want you—badly. If you can't, don't reply. Details please, briefly, by letter only.

DROUGHT LOAN PLANS WORKED OUT IN CAPITA

State Credit Corporation Are Proposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Tentative plans for a system of financial drought relief machinery with the federal intermediate credit bank system as the principal agency were outlined today at President Hoover's first conference with members of the national drought committee headed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

The plans call, first, for the creation of state and local credit corporations by bankers and business men through which farmers may obtain seed and feed loans. The corporations will discount the notes over to the credit banks, which will advance the capital obtained from the flotation of debentures on the investment market.

Secretary Hyde estimated roughly that a maximum of $20,000,000 would be required of the credit banks, but that however more is needed coming from private sources.

Money Question Chief Obstacle.

Virtually all of the White House conference, which occupied an entire day, was devoted to the monetary situation, which now is the chief problem confronting the relief organizers. Besides the members, including Chairman Hyde, Bestor of the federal farm loan board, and Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, were present, with the exception of Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, who has not yet arrived in Washington.

The next step toward putting the financial plan into operation will be the assembly of banking representatives of the various state committees at the White House next Tuesday. At that time the details will be perfected with a view to putting the plan into the hands of needy farmers with all possible speed.

Like Flood Aid Plan.

Secretary Hyde, explaining the proposed credit organization, pointed out that it closely resembles that formed by President Hoover, then secretary of commerce, to aid sufferers in the Mississippi flood of 1927.

Although the plan involves no direct appropriation or layout of money from the federal treasury, the intermediate credit banks which are formed with the federal farm loan board will be the major factors. The farmers' collateral insufficient for ordinary bank loans will go to the office of the local corporation, where he will sign a note for the money he needs, obtaining it probably at 6 per cent interest.

The local or state credit corporations capitalized by responsible persons who indorse the notes and rediscount them to the intermediate credit banks, securing up to ten times the capitalization of the corporation. The corporations will receive their money at low government interest rates, probably 4 per cent, having the advantage of a 2 per cent for operating expenses. Estimation of tax free debentures which the public will then reimburse the intermediate banks.

Notes Promptly Paid.

Secretary Hyde declared that the flood relief program not only would help business men in the stricken areas but would readily, but that a "remarkable proportion" of the beneficiaries would pay their notes on time.

As an incidental but important feature of the financial program, Secretary Hyde announced that the department of agriculture will make available for seed loans approximately $300,000 remaining from a $ appropriation provided by congress. The use of this money, however, is limited to specified areas and will be distributed largely in Indiana, Virginia, Missouri, and Montana.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross and a member of the federal committee following the conference that organization has $5,000,000 available for seed loans and emergency work and does not template an appeal to the public at least until the fund is exhausted. The heaviest drain on the Red Cross, he said, will not come for two or three months.

Governors Name Committee.

Carrying out the organization program, agreed upon at their meeting with President Hoover a week ago, seven of the thirteen governors most seriously affected states were named today to have appointed state committees. The White House received the names of the committees for Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Kentucky today. Those previously

DROUGHT LOAN PLANS WORKED OUT IN CAPITAL

State Credit Corporations Are Proposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Tentative plans for a setup of financial drought relief machinery, with the federal intermediate credit bank system as the principal unit, were outlined today at President Hoover's first conference with members of the national drought committee headed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde.

The plans call, first, for the creation of state and local credit corporations by bankers and business men through which farmers may obtain seed and feed loans. The corporations will sign the notes over to the credit banks, which will advance the capital obtained from the flotation of debentures on the investment market.

Secretary Hyde estimated roughly that a maximum of $20,000,000 will be required of the credit banks, whatever more is needed coming from private sources.

Money Question Chief One.

Virtually all of the White House conference, which occupied an hour, was devoted to the monetary situation, which now is the chief problem confronting the relief organizers. All of the members, including Chairman Paul Bestor of the federal farm loan board and Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, were present, with the exception of Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, who has not yet arrived in Washington.

The next step toward putting the financial plan into operation will be the assembly of banking representatives of the various state committees at the White House next Tuesday. At that time the details will be perfected with a view to putting cash into the hands of needy farmers with all possible speed.

As an incidental but important feature of the financial program, Secretary Hyde announced that the department of agriculture will make available for seed loans approximately $300,000 remaining from a $6,000,000 appropriation provided by congress. The use of this money, however, is limited to specified areas and will be distributed largely in Indiana, Ohio, Virginia, Missouri, and Montana.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross and a member of the federal committee, said following the conference that his organization has $5,000,000 available for emergency work and does not contemplate an appeal to the public, at least until the fund is exhausted. Governors Name Committees.

Carrying out the organization program, agreed upon at their meeting with President Hoover a week ago, seven of the thirteen governors of the seriously affected states were reported today to have appointed state relief committees. The White House received the names of the committees for Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, and Kentucky today. Those previously announced were for Illinois, Virginia, and Kansas.

Another list of 86 counties in which special half rail rates on feed and live stock will be applicable were specified by the department of agriculture. They comprised 51 in Mississippi, 23 in Alabama, 4 in Ohio, 5 in Texas, 2 in Maryland, and 1 in Virginia, bringing the grand total up to 646 counties in 18 states.

RAIN ENDS DROUGHT, ALSO RHUMMY GAME TO LAST UNTIL IT CAME

Fairmont, Minn., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Rain did things to Fairmont today.

It broke a seven weeks drought and broke up a card game of rhummy started Monday by members of the Fairmont Recreation club.

Club members vowed to play rummy night and day, in relays, until rain fell to break the drought. Early today nearly half an inch of rain fell and the players, farmers and business men, went home to breakfast.

Lack Rain Powder "Squirter."

Alexandria, Va., Aug. 20.—(AP)—An attempt by the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce to break the drought in this vicinity by means of rain powder is being held up by lack of a "squirter."

Two hundred pounds of powder, imported from New Mexico, is available, along with an airplane to carry it aloft to spray upon the clouds. But the chamber of commerce has nothing to use as a "squirter."

A search is being made elsewhere and meanwhile Alexandrians are hoping mother nature will send a plentiful supply of rain of her own accord.

OFFICIAL DENIES SPEED TRAP IN NORTH RIVERSIDE

Alonzo T. Ulrich, police magistrate of North Riverside, was questioned yesterday by Assistant State's Attorneys William A. Rittenhouse and Robert Donigan about charges made by the Chicago Motor club that a speed trap was operated in the western suburb. The magistrate denied that motorists arrested for automobile violations did not receive fair open court trials or that they were arrested when in fact they had not been speeding.

The magistrate produced the records of the cases passed on by him and they will be examined by the prosecutors. He is to return Monday along with Chief of Police Otto Martinek and Lieut. Edward Emons.

Attorney Joseph H. Braun of the motor club said that he will be able to produce many witnesses to show that a "kangaroo court" was operated in the suburb. He charged that the police refused to take legitimate real estate bonds and locked motorists up unless they could produce cash.

RANDOLPH CO. HIT HARDEST BY LONG DROUGHT

Corn Is Only Knee High; No Rain in Months.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Belleville, Ill., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Randolph county, one of the oldest settled parts of the state, where old Kaskaskia once sat on the river bank under the British flag until George Rogers Clark came along with his riflemen and won the northwest territory, is accounted the spot in all Egypt hardest hit by the drought. Washington county is placed next. Hardly a shower in more than three months, and the sun has burned the crops and the Mississippi too.

On the road to Sparta, a town made famous by the Hunter boys, who held the airplane sitting record for a few days, the traveler strikes areas of corn devastation. Some fields are sickly, only knee high, with tassels but no ears. Others, miles of them, are fired, yellow and dry as an old fashioned corn husk bed. The last heavy rain of consequence fell March 8, and many an office calendar displays a red ring around the date. Down in the river bottoms, as elsewhere, corn is not so bad. On the high ground it's a loss.

Farmers Take It Philosophically.

Cisterns have run dry, but wells are holding out. Some are hauling water in tanks eight or nine miles from the Okaw river, as the natives call the Kaskaskia. Salable live stock is being shipped out, but farmers say in general the dairy herds are not being sacrificed, as loans for feed purchase are being arranged to be paid for out of the milk checks.

Farmers seem to take it quite philosophically. "Last year my corn ran 70 bushels to the acre. This year I'll be lucky to get 70 ears to the acre on high ground," remarked one farmer at the Sparta filling station. "This is on treated land, phosphated and built up. We had a good wheat crop, but most had to sell low at 75 cents, because they needed the money. O well, we're used to reverses, and it's no use kicking."

Mississippi Has Shrunk.

Over towards the historic sections of the river, the bottom lands are fat with corn, but the Mississippi is looking like a magnified mud creek. At old Fort Kaskaskia, on the bluffs last night, the river for miles in either direction, was a panorama of sand flats and caked muds on the shores.

The ferry across to Fort Gage has stopped running because it couldn't land, half a mile and more of dried mud projecting into the river bed. Up and down the stream skeletons of rip-rap work piers and breakwaters are high and dry above the water. In the middle of the stream, a great sand bar where normally is water, stretches in front of the old home of Pierre Menard, first lieutenant governor of Illinois, whose tomb is on Garrison hill.

Low Water Reveal Sunken Ships.

Up the river at Kimmswick, near St. Louis, the water receding from the bluffs has uncovered the hull of a federal gun boat, sunk during the civil war and since concealed from view save at unusual times of low water. Local tradition is that the boat, whose name no one now recalls, was wrecked in an ice jam and was abandoned after its machinery was removed.

At another point the receding river is reported to have uncovered a sunken coal barge, and farmers are mining the hulk and taking the cargo away.

Low water and sand bars have caused havoc with the operation of the federal barge lines out of St. Louis. Tugs are able to haul only three barges instead of six on account of the narrow channel, while the low level permits each barge to be loaded only to 40 per cent of capacity.

The drought and low water hits the barges at the peak of the season when plenty of traffic in wheat, tobacco, cotton and sugar is ready for hauling and more of the barges are tied up idle. Last month the barge lines notified shippers it could accept no shipments except subject to delay. Schedules cannot be maintained and in the case of some shipments such as construction material, the time element counts.

Reports from down river yesterday were that a steamer which left New Orleans for St. Louis nineteen days ago was thirty miles below Memphis and that part of the trip ordinarily takes only about eight days.

The experts at St. Louis, waiting for the extra 6,000 cubic second feet from Lake Michigan to reach that point, figure that it will accomplish more than many expect for the river channel is now so constructed that the extra water will be confined to a comparatively narrow width and will not go wandering off into lakes and bayous and backwaters. And, they point out every six inches of increased depth means 150 tons more cargo per barge.

The interference to navigation, the engineers say, extends all the way down the river to below New Orleans.

At Belleville, the capital of St. Clair county, the second largest in the state, crop conditions are reported not so bad as further south in Egypt, although the south half of the county is as burned as Randolph county. In Belleville itself, business is reported better than in many other towns, and about $1,500,000 worth of building is progressing now which is estimated as more than is being done from the whole region from here to Cairo.

Eat Toadstools Mistaken for Mushrooms; May Die

Against the advice of their wives, James Matto, 1124 Tilden avenue, and Nicholas Guard, 2323 Taylor street, late Tuesday night ate a quantity of toadstools, which they thought were mushrooms, picked along the Fox river, near Wauconda, where they had been vacationing. They were in a critical condition yesterday, as was also Matto's 6 year old son, George, who had eaten with them. They are being attended by Dr. J. A. Ross of Wauconda.

DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION GO SOLIDLY "WET"

Repeal Plank Is Adopted Unanimously.

only one that approached in length the anti-prohibition utterance was the plank against "improper campaign expenditures," directed at Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee.

"The Republican party's nominee for United States senator has confessed before a special investigating committee that she expended over $250,000 in the primary alone and that others expended an additional $67,000 for her, or a total of over $317,000," said the resolution. "We urge the electorate to contrast this enormous corruption fund with the expenditure of $195,000 by Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, a sum which the senate condemned as contrary to public policy and harmful to the perpetuity of free government.

"We believe this debauchery by excessive wealth excludes men and women of moderate means from participation in elections. We believe this form of corruption has a tendency to discredit the primary. The precedent established by the United States senate in cases involving Vare, Smith and Newberry indicates that the Republican nominee from Illinois will not be seated even if elected."

Blames Hoover for Unemployment.

A third long plank concerned unemployment.

"Two years ago," it said, "the people were led to believe if Mr. Hoover were elected the country would enjoy a period of unexampled and unprecedented prosperity. Instead the country has seen President Hoover sit supinely by while there has been a panic unheard of in the history of our country, with unemployment the rule rather than the exception, when banks have failed and an intolerable situation has come.

"During all this time the President has failed to take prompt and decisive action to avert or remedy the situation as a Cleveland, a Roosevelt, or a Wilson would have done, but instead has merely appointed a commission, thus delaying a remedy until it is too late to save the situation."

What started out as a plank against the state income tax amendment developed into a denunciation of the administration of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson for extravagance, which, "despite its sponsoring of the proposed amendment," has devised no remedy for existing conditions.

The plank for a greater local share of the gasoline tax became merely a demand for a more equitable distribution of the funds derived.

Lewis Alleges "Near Revolt."

Former Senator Lewis' address was almost entirely a denunciation of conditions under prohibition. He declared the nation is close to revolt.

"For the immediate action of our countrymen," he said, "we call to attention that in the pursuit of riches in the maladministration of the national prohibition law, the enriched bandits who, under the name of law, infest the republic, debauching officials and disgracing the nation, have brought this United States nearer to open revolt than our country ever has known since the rebellion under the alien and sedition laws of President John Adams.

"In the language of Theodore Roosevelt, 'Bring this government back to the people or the people will take the government back through force to its destruction.'"

The candidate's plea for state rights was repeated several times in various forms.

As a general outcome of prohibition enforcement methods former Senator Lewis listed:

"Daily dozen of murders in every city and center of activity; robbery of homes and highways; brigandage and banditry on every byway and thoroughfare; all laws flouted and scorned; no authority respected; every order of church and state, for home and country, sneered at on the streets and scoffed in the house; crime and dishonor whirling our republic to its damnation by mankind as civilization cries out against us as the national leper: 'Unclean!'"

Other Candidates Speak.

Other speakers included Walter Nesbit and William H. Dieterich, nominees for congressman-at-large; Mrs. Eva Batterton, nominee for superintendent of public instruction; Congressman Henry T. Rainey, and the party's two most recent nominees for governor, Floyd Thompson and Judge Norman L. Jones. A. J. Cermak, chairman of the Cook county managing committee, wound up the program.

The nominees for university trustees were Walter Williams of Benton, C. A. Ewing of Decatur, and M. C. Zacharias and Mrs. Marjorie Robbins Hopkins of Chicago.

GUNMEN HOLD UP STORE.

Threatening Philip H. Cohen, manager, and Harold Hagaman, clerk, with revolvers, two bandits yesterday held up a variety store at 3548 Irving Park boulevard, obtaining $600.

AL SMITH PREDICTS DEMOCRATS SOON TO BE BACK IN POWER

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith predicted today that the Democratic party "will soon be in national control."

His statement was contained in a message to the Joel Parker association expressing regret at his inability to attend its 52d annual outing, which was held today at West Orange, N. J. The message said:

"To my mind, the Democratic party will soon be in national control and will make this a happy as well as a prosperous nation.

"The Democratic party is still the party of the people not against class, nor against creed, but always looking for the common good, and opposing oppressive laws and national sumptuary acts."

HOTEL SUED BY OPERA STAR AND HER HUSBAND

Dr. Munns Asks $100,000 Damages.

The Edgewater Beach hotel was named defendant in two suits for $50,000 damages each filed in Circuit court yesterday by Cyrena Van Gordon, Civic Opera star, and her husband, Dr. Shirley Bogart Munns. The action is the result of the arrest of Dr. Munns on a disorderly conduct charge brought by James McAlvaney, assistant manager of the hotel, who accused the physician of kicking in a glass door of the hotel.

Attorney George Schein, who drew up the bills, said the basis of Dr. Munns' suit is false arrest and imprisonment while that of the opera star is for "damage to her reputation and standing by reason of the notoriety occasioned by the disturbance."

According to the suits, McAlvaney, accompanied by two policemen, went to the home of Dr. Munns and Miss Van Gordon at 69 East Division street in the early morning of Aug. 10 to demand $40 for the alleged damage to the hotel property. They created a disturbance which lasted for three hours, the suits state. Dr. Munns refused to pay the sum and at 5 a. m. he was taken to a police station in a squad car, although the officers lacked a warrant.

The charges against Dr. Munns were dismissed on Aug. 13 by Municipal Judge Lyle in Town Hall court when it appeared there was no evidence to sustain the complaint. The opera singer was in court with her husband.

Lake Co. G. O. P. Names Candidates for Judgeship

Sixty-four of Lake county's 69 Republican precinct committeemen, balloting yesterday at the Waukegan courthouse, nominated Attorney Ralph J. Dady as candidate at the Nov. 4 election to succeed Claire C. Edwards as circuit judge of the 17th judicial district. It comprises the counties of Lake, Winnebago, McHenry and Boone. The action virtually assures Mr. Dady's election as there will be no Democratic candidate. Mr. Daly is a law partner of Mr. Edwards and served two terms as state's attorney of Lake county.

PLANES ABANDON SEA SEARCH FOR VAN LEAR BLACK

Open Inquiry Into Death of Publisher Today.

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Airplanes were withdrawn today from the search for the body of Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who disappeared on Monday evening from his yacht, the Sabalo, off the Jersey coast, and presumably was drowned. The Sabalo, aided by coast guard vessels and other craft, continued the search for a while, however.

The abandonment of the hunt by air came after three planes had circled for three hours today over the course which the Sabalo was traveling when Mr. Black disappeared—about eight miles southwest of Shrewsbury Rock bouy, off the Jersey shore.

Little Hope For Finding Body.

The aviators reported that there was such a strong tide out at sea and that ocean currents were moving away from shore in such volume that little hope remained that the body would be found near the coast line.

The withdrawal of the planes and the announcement that the Sabalo itself intended soon to leave the vicinity in which the search was being made were taken as indications that all hope of finding the body had been abandoned, for the present, anyway.

Open Inquiry Today.

Capt. John M. Kelley of the Sabola appeared at the customs house today and filed with the steamboat inspectors his formal report of the accident. This report, it was explained, could not be made public until it had reached the hands of the investigating body.

J. L. Crone, head of the second division of the steamboat inspectors' department, said today that an investigation would be begun tomorrow by that body to determine whether or not the death of Mr. Black was in any sense due to the criminal negligence of any licensed members of the crew of the yacht. Capt. Kelley and such members of the crew as are thought to be in possession of information tending to throw light upon the disappearance of Mr. Black will be ordered to appear, Mr. Crone stated.

WITNESS TELLS HOW SWIFT SHOT SELF TO DEATH

Balked His First Attempt at Suicide, He Says.

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—At a medical examiner's hearing today the head of the Park Avenue sanitarium, where William E. Swift, Chicago packer's son, killed himself last Saturday night, angrily accused a deputy state attorney general of trying to injure his reputation. The hearing was the day's development in an investigation of the circumstances surrounding Swift's suicide.

Sol. Ullman, a deputy attorney general representing the state board of medical examiners, appeared at the hearing conducted by Dr. Charles G. Norris, chief medical examiner, and questioned Dr. Edward S. Cowles, head of the sanitarium.

Dr. Cowles became impatient as Ullman grew persistent in his demands for an explanation why Swift's death was not reported to the medical examiner until 11:22 p. m., although it had occurred an hour earlier.

"Are you trying to get information or hurt my reputation?" Dr. Cowles demanded a few minutes later as Ullman asked him if there had been any suicides previously in his sanitarium.

Issues a Statement.

Before he left the stand Dr. Cowles received permission to make a statement in which he denied and resented "the implication in the public press and in the questions at this hearing that drugs were being used in an unlawful manner in the institution."

After the hearing Dr. Norris said a stenographic report of the proceedings would be forwarded to the district attorney's office, and Ullman announced he would continue his investigation of the sanitarium.

Dr. Cowles, Rudolph Heitmanek, the attendant with Swift when he shot himself, and Miss Inger Engel, a nurse, told the story of the suicide.

Miss Engel said Swift returned to the sanitarium intoxicated at 4 a. m., two days before his death. On Saturday, she said, she caught a glimpse of a gun under his mattress. This she reported to Dr. Cowles, who instructed Heitmanek to remain in the room with Swift Saturday night until he was asleep and then take the gun.

Saw Swift Kill Himself.

Heitmanek said he was in the room for an hour before Swift shot himself. "Keeping my eyes on him, I quietly looked about also for the gun," Heitmanek said, "but didn't find it. Swift was lying on the bed in his pajamas and dressing gown. Suddenly he swung himself off the bed, saying: 'I'm going out that window, and you can't stop me.'"

"I caught him, pushed him back on to the bed, and had just let go of him and turned away when he said: 'I'm going out.'

"As I turned back I saw the gun. He had the muzzle over his heart. I jumped back and was standing over him when it went off."

BABY TRADE FAILS TO SATISFY WATKINS; HE ASKS COURT VERDICT

The Watkins-Bamberger baby controversy bobbed up again yesterday after it had been supposedly settled for all time on Tuesday night with the exchange of the babies. William Watkins, father of one of the boys, announced that he will press the court fight to get a legal decision on the parentage of the babies before Superior Judge Sabath next Monday even though he is now sure that he has his child.

Watkins, however, insisted that one motive of the Bambergers in exchanging the babies was to protect the Englewood hospital, where the alleged mixup occurred.

Meanwhile, preparations were being made at the Bamberger home to give the child hitherto known as Charles Evan Watkins a Catholic baptism and the name of George Edward Bamberger. The name of the baby who was previously christened George Edward Bamberger will be changed to Charles Evan Watkins without the formality of baptism, Watkins said.

"The baptism doesn't bother me," Watkins said. "I am satisfied that I have the right child. It looks like my wife. But I don't like the way the swap was made. I was not at home at the time; I want the thing settled in court so that there won't be any question about it."

Attorney Barratt O'Hara, representing Watkins, charged collusion between the hospital, Health Commissioner Kegel and the Bambergers in exchanging the babies before a legal adjudication.

"We want to get everything on record to show the carelessness of the hospital to press our $100,000 damage suit," Attorney O'Hara said.

Attorney Joseph P. Power, representing the Bambergers, said his clients also will bring suit against the hospital.

George M. Willetts, vice president of Armour & Co., was in a serious condition at the Mercy hospital last night as the result of injuries received earlier in the day when his automobile crashed into a Greyhound motor bus at South Park avenue and 23d street. Mr. Willetts, whose homeis at 423 Wellington avenue, was being driven to his office in the stockyards by his chauffeur, Joseph Albright, when their machine collided with the loaded bus while making a left turn into South Park avenue. Twenty passengers on the bus, which had come from Kalamazoo, Mich., and was bound for the loop, were shaken up. A. A. UNDERTAKERS BATTLE OVER BODY; BOTH GET FEES BY COMPROMISE

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Difficulties between two Lexington undertaking firms over possession of the body of Walter Downs, Fayette county constable, who died Monday night at Lexington, ended in a compromise in Franklin Circuit court here this afternoon.

Kerr Brothers, undertakers, applied for an injunction ordering the undertaking firm of Anglin & Boden to turn Downs' body over to them on the basis of a note found on Downs' body, offered for probate as his will, in which he asked that Kerr Brothers conduct the funeral. But the other firm had already taken the body on orders from the dead man's sister.

Under terms of the agreement Kerr Brothers will be given the corpse and the funeral services will be held at their parlors. Anglin & Boden, having supplied the coffin and embalmed the body, will be paid $576 for their services by the administratrix, Mrs. V. F. Wilcoxson, sister of Downs, out of a United States Veterans' Insurance policy left by Downs. Kerr Brothers will be paid for their services from what is left of a $900 fund which Downs specified in the note found on his body should be the cost of his funeral.

Lafon Fisher and Leonard Shadlow, both colored, who were under sentence to die at midnight tonight, were granted a reprieve until Sept. 5 yesterday by Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Criminal court. The stay order was granted so that the record in the case can be submitted to the Supreme court. The men were convicted more than two years ago for the murder of Martin French, guard at the Franklin Trust and Savings bank. They have tried every possible appeal to escape the electric chair and recently filed insanity proceedings. They, however, were found sane. Leon Brown, also colored, and the third member of the gang, is yet to be tried for his sanity.

Evanston Police Nab Pair in Auto Chase

Frank Russo, 21 years old, 737 De Koven street, and Joseph Zito, 23 years old, 902 Forquer street, were being held by the Evanston police last night for investigation. They were arrested after an auto chase in Sheridan road. A revolver was tossed from their car, police said, and a .38 caliber cartridge was found in Zito's pocket by Sergt. Otto Brey. Sergt. Brey said he would question William Wick, a baker, 237 West 47th street, Chicago, who was robbed by three men last January. He identified one as a Frank Russo, 3235 Wentworth avenue. He said he was threatened and warned not to prosecute Russo.

A LITTLE RELIEF FOR US, TOO.

The President's energetic measures to meet the drought situation and forestall as far as possible the suffering which must follow in the worst stricken districts are deserving of the gratitude of the west and of the nation generally. They have been as acceptable as the efforts to give relief to the victims of the flood.

While appreciating and indorsing this action by the government, we would express the hope that some special needs of this region be not overlooked. The Illinois waterway, a public improvement long overdue and of great consequence to the midwest, has frequently shown signs of going aground, as the barges on the Mississippi are doing these days. It has run on bars of political complications and into shoals of official indifference, and we hope it will now be kept afloat and promptly brought to port. Then there is the new Chicago postoffice, so urgently needed for years in the second postal center of the nation. The delay in this project is an outstanding example of official inertia and red tape. The latest news from Washington reports that actual work on the postoffice is still eight months away. Part of the responsibility for the delay in this improvement may be chargeable to our own representatives, but Chicago has repeatedly begged for action. After years of petitions and special pilgrimages to Washington, we still are told that so large and important a public improvement must be thoroughly studied, and we hear that meetings of departmental committees are to be held for further discussion of plans. If the improvement is large and of great importance, as it unquestionably is, it should have been studied and built long ago. The conditions at the old postoffice are notorious and outrageous and have called for prompt relief for years.

We hope, therefore, that the government's zeal will not be exhausted by drought relief but that we may have some relief in Chicago without more procrastination.

A DIVIDED AIR FORCE.

The President is seeking to bring about an understanding between the army and navy commands regarding the flying activities of the two services. He desires standardization of equipment, so far as it can be obtained, for the sake of economy in purchases and maintenance costs. He is also eager to bring about an understanding regarding the aerial defenses of the Canal Zone and other outlying points. Both services claim the right to defend these points from the air.

When these differences have been settled there will still remain another of much greater importance to the safety of the nation. As matters stand today, the army aviation service is not prepared to coöperate fully with the navy, nor is the naval air service trained to coöperate in land warfare. It is easy to foresee a time when the combined army and navy air services, acting in concert with the fleet, might give the United States mastery in the air and thereby win a critical naval engagement, though no such overwhelming strength in the air could be achieved if only naval planes were employed. Our army planes should be designed for service with the fleet should occasion arise and our army flyers should be indoctrinated with the principles of naval aviation. And vice versa. Our naval aviation in coöperation with our army planes might give us control of the air for the support of the army.

The British, with their independent air force, have had a flying service trained to coöperate with either army or navy as occasion demanded. We have no such mobile force. There is real danger that if war came our army planes would be stationed in San Antonio when they were needed with the fleet and that our naval planes would be found with the fleet when they might be of critical value on a land front. The solution need not be an independent air force, but by one means or another there should be provision for the concentration of the flying forces of the army and navy at the point of danger.

DR. KEGEL GOES HOLLYWOOD.

Dr. Kegel, the health commissioner, has had a bright summer with the baby mystery and, the season having had its hot spells, no one will say that he was not entitled to a little relief. Of recent years there has been a disposition to regard the Chicago health department as the first step to a career, although it is not apparent in what profession.

The Hollywood producers would recognize in the Chicago baby mixup a first rate human interest story, and it seems to have been as such rather than as a problem in public health that it engaged the activities of the health commissioner. There is a general hope that the parents of the children will finally get the possession of their own offspring and will be entirely satisfied that each baby is in the right home. Then the health office will have no distractions. It will be able to give its time to thumb printing the malarial mosquito and hold itself in readiness for the winter itch. Public health in Chicago has been given such a degree of security that the city is free to draw heavily on the department for public entertainment.

WHILE CHICAGO EATS CINDERS.

A recent dispatch from New York reports the progress of electrification along the eastern seaboard. The Pennsylvania is spending $100,000,000 electrifying its line from New York to Washington, D. C., and it has just opened the final link of the electrified suburban service in the Philadelphia region. The New York Central is spending $20,000,000 in completing the electrification of its tracks in the vicinity of New York. The Reading is spending another $20,000,000. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western will complete the electrification of 67 suburban lines in New Jersey by the end of this year at a cost of $18,000,000.

The New York Central and the Pennsylvania no longer find it necessary to befoul the air breathed by their directors in New York and Philadelphia. The indifference of these directors to the comfort and health of their patrons in Chicago is in striking contrast.

The neglect of Chicago by the eastern lines is matched by the western. The Burlington affords a striking instance. This railroad serves a large suburban public and if its service was improved it would inevitably attract a much larger business, because the railroad runs through as attractive a countryside as is to be found in the Chicago region. The Burlington is among the most prosperous railroads in the country. In June this year, despite the prevailing depression in business, its net operating income was larger than in any June since 1926. It has ample credit to obtain the money needed for electrification and it can expect to earn a fair return on the investment as surely as railroads which have electrified their suburban services in smaller metropolitan areas in the east have found profit in doing so.

THE JOYS OF THE TENNIS LIFE.

George Lott, the Chicago tennis star, Davis cup team player, one of the national doubles champions and in the first ten ranking for three years, says he will quit the game after this season, and in giving his reasons is quoted as saying that he does not want to become a tennis bum like some of the fellows he knows. "I want to make something of myself instead of being a parasite all my life."

Mr. Lott's associates in the game may think he might have phrased his vale without calling them bums and parasites, but if he is leaving it he may have felt he needn't be reticent about the reasons. Even if a bum's life it must have its attractions. It is professionalism wonderfully dressed up as amateur sport. No other sport has all its subtle inhibitions and none can approach it for offering a means of livelihood in the most pleasant circumstances without any visible means of support.

A tennis champion or contender who makes the grand tour finds his journey through the year taking him to the regions in flower where leisure and wealth have their ease and enjoy their comforts. There is song, dance and golden mirth, and the tennis player is the only one enjoying it who doesn't have to have a dime of his own and who is virtually debarred from trying to earn one. If he had a cent in his pocket and had to admit that it came there by any effort of his aside from tennis he might be fired out of amateur standing.

It may not be a heroic economic life, but it must be alluring, and nothing in professional games, not even pugilism at its best, offers so much as does this amateur sport, which cannot touch money and can't do without it.

GINGER SHY KANSAS.

One of Senator Capper's publications reports that Kansas is a dead market for anything which bears the name of ginger. The state shies away even from ginger ale, not because of ale but because of ginger. The ginger jake paralysis has so worked upon the apprehensions of Carrie Nation's bands of hope that no good dry would take even a bottle of beer if it were labeled ginger beer.

Jake ginger was making prohibition brighter and better in Kansas until the drys began to lose the use of their legs. It could be had at the soda fountain on a banana split or as a shot in a double chocolate malted. After two rounds of milk shakes or maple sundaes a vestryman could go out and feel like yoo-hooing up the street. All ways were getting to be great white ways in Kansas and the life was virtuous and spirituous.

Unfortunately, Kansas had not found the answer to the noble experiment. It was too good to be true. The blushful Hippocrene proved to be something worse than canned heat as a beverage and Kansas now counts its leg aches. There ought to be a moral in the experience. Probably it is that little vices and large virtues do not combine well enough to make a distinctive morality.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO'S BIRTHDAY.

[Providence (R. I.) Bulletin.]

America's wayward, gifted child, Chicago, was one hundred years old yesterday. Just a century ago Fort Dearborn became "Chicago" (Indian for "wild onion") on James Thompson's plat of the town.

In many respects the development of this modern city from trading post to the most mechanized, unreal community in the world has been the most remarkable in history.

One hundred years from a settlement of seven families to one as large as Rhode Island! And such a settlement. There is something tremendously inspiring about Chicago. Nothing seems to faze them out there. They try everything from grand opera to organized murder, both of human beings and lower animals, and make a go of it. From the beginning they have been adventurers. Their politics today are in a marvelously adventuresome state.

Geography has conspired against Chicago's innocence. The shrewdest traders of pioneer days gathered there. The ablest land promoters followed them. Railways—it is the greatest railway center in America—fought some of their most strategic battles there. Industry early began to make it headquarters for national agitation.

Fire has leveled it, but it has risen triumphantly from its ashes. Its furious growth has brought about staggering problems, but Chicago refuses to be staggered. Even though the subsoil is unsuitable for tall buildings, they build them just the same. They convert rivers into sewage systems, and whenever they feel like it arbitrarily fix the boundaries of the lake.

Keyserling says that the voracious spirit of the place is destined to absorb the entire country. And out there they probably look upon this as a logical deduction. We hope that it isn't. We wouldn't be Chicago for all the money in the world. But that doesn't keep us from admiring it tremendously and regarding it in many ways as our greatest city.

GREENS.

THE leaf of plants is the factory in which sunlight does its work. The roots draw up nutriment and water from the soil, but they do but little manufacturing. When they are sources of human food supply it is because of substances such as starches, sugars, and oil stored in them. The seed is the factory for the production of a new plant.

It is the end product of the plant which produced it. With the work of the producing plant it had little to do. It serves the next generation of plants and not the present one. Since the seed is the food bag of the new plant, to which it is bound, the substances stored in it are well balanced. They comprise vitamins, minerals, oil, starches, and protein. When animals eat seed they get a comprehensive food supply, provided they eat all parts of it.

The flowers are for the purpose of serving the seed. Rarely is anything of intrinsic value stored in them. They are not often used as food for animals. The stalks or stems of plants are apt to be composed largely of a firm, matured starch product called cellulose. The digestive organs of man cannot get the food values out of cellulose and chemists, bacteriologists, and cooks have all fallen down in trying to make this substance of value as a food.

The leaves are sometimes rich in starches and sugars. Some of them contain considerable protein and some contain oils. However, the principal reason man eats the leaves of plants is that he may get from them minerals, vitamins, and pigments. In the main, when we speak of leaves in terms of human foods, we have in mind salads and greens. For the purposes for which they are intended, there are no better foods than salads and greens. There is some advantage in eating them raw, but the practice is not a safe one unless we can be certain that they have been well washed, and even that may not be enough. We should know that they have not been dangerously sprayed with insecticides nor polluted with filth while growing.

The vitamins and minerals of greens and salads stand canning very well. There is no great loss of these ingredients in the process of cooking, provided three requirements are met. No soda should be added, the amount of water should be kept at the very minimum and, lastly, the cooking water or liquor should be served with the greens or made into a soup.

PAINFUL TEETH.

Miss I. K. writes:

1. Would adenoids make one's nose become wider?
2. Will daily massage reduce a fleshy nose?
3. Can painful teeth lead to pyorrhea?
4. Can painful teeth be cured?

REPLY.

1. It is conceded that persisting enlarged adenoids can change the shape of the face, but I do not see how they could widen the nose.
2. I doubt it.
3. If you mean sensitive dentine, I do not think so. If you mean pain caused by sensitive gums, that is pyorrhea.
4. Sensitive dentine is relieved by painting the painful tooth with iodine or silver.

THROBBING IN THE HEAD.

M. H. B. writes: I had a most unpleasant throbbing in my head; had many physical examinations, but nothing was found. Finally a physician attributed my symptoms to wax in the ears. He advised washing the ear canals with a warm solution of soda. I followed the advice and relief followed the treatments. Others should know of this possible explanation for and method of relief from throbbing in the head.

PARTNER WORKS A RACKET.

Park Ridge, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am in business with another party and I have furnished most all the money. I opened up a bank account in the firm's name with only my name listed at the bank as authorized to sign checks in the firm's name.

I now find out that some of the checks that we receive from outside concerns made out in the firm's name are being signed and cashed by the other party and he has kept the money in several cases. I have never given him any authority to do this and would like to know if this is forgery and what steps should I take to stop it.

We haven't any written agreement regarding our business. E. F. S.

The mere fact that he is not authorized to sign checks would not prove that his indorsement of checks was a forgery. His right in this respect would depend upon the partnership contract. If there is no written agreement it would depend on the oral agreement. The ordinary remedy where partners are unable to agree is for them to dissolve the partnership. If they cannot agree upon this step, either one can enforce it by employing a lawyer.

"UNMESSED."

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—The lot in back of the building at Crawford and Melrose is used for dumping all kinds of refuse and sometimes the janitor will start a fire in it and it will smoke for hours and we get all the smoke. It draws flies and it's an awful mess to look at.

SUPPORT OF THE CHILDREN.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Mr. and Mrs. "A" have two children and are now divorced. There was no mention of alimony in the decree and Mrs. "A" has had no assistance from Mr. "A." Mrs. "A" is now married to Mr. "B."

1. Is Mr. "A" required by law to contribute to the support of the children?
2. Does Mr. "B" have this responsibility? C. P.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

NOW THEY'VE GOT TO SAVE HIM SOME MORE.

When the drought was at its droughtiest they took steps down at Washington to hustle around and help the farmer. Governors from all the afflicted states hustled around and held meetings and relief expeditions were started out to march night and day. Which was all right, and even the white collared class cheered lustily, even though they stopped yelling now and then over the high prices they had to pay for chuck steak and also because they had lost their jobs. But now it's raining, raining all over the place, rain pouring down everywhere, and the farmer is getting soaking wet, and nothing has been done about it yet. But there will be; you wait! All the governors will be called to Washington and asked how many farmers there are in their states and how many have umbrellas. It's likely that very few of the farmers have umbrellas, and so trainloads of umbrellas will be rushed to the stricken sections at once. If a farmer hasn't got an umbrella, then they'll give him a parasol. And if he gets mad and won't carry the damn thing, then the life savers will strap it on his back and put a marine behind him with a bayonet to make him stay under it. Gosh! They have an awful time at Washington saving the farmer. But it's wonderful the way they stick to it.

POSTLUDE.

No need for hiding
The sign of pain,
Time is dividing
The chast'ning rain:
Warm rains for you,
The cold for me;
This is our due
For ecstasy.

No need for turning
The other cheek,
Now that we're learning
How much the meek
Inherit of peace
When night's caress
Brings no release
From loneliness.

"U. S. SURVEY Shows Better Times Are Due in Fall."—Chiamurikin. Due in the fall? Gosh o' hemlocks! They were due in the winter, and due in the spring, and due in the summer. They are due in the fall, all right, but will they get in? Maybe the darned thing's been wrecked or run out of coal, or there might be a cow on the track. Due next fall! We'll tell the cock-eyed world that better times are due next fall.

SAY WHAT you will, a slight nervousness and a considerable increase in the buying of railroad tickets to points remote from Chicago are going to continue until the last of the late Mr. Zuta's strong boxes are opened and examined. In the name of jumping catamounts, how many strong boxes did Mr. Zuta have, anyhow? Not that we care at all, but the suspense of the thing is getting on our nerves!

RESIGNATION.

Put away your yearning—
For things that cannot be,
Shut your ears to the song of the wind.
Face reality.

Put away your lovely dreams,
Set yourself to duty.
Hands like these were meant for toil,
And not for beauty.

"WOMEN Best Lawyers, Say Portias Here."—Chiherex. And if there is a headline writer on a Chicago newspaper who has not referred to the women lawyers now in convention in Chicago as Portias we have still to find it out. The girls have made great progress in the legal profession and are now admitted to the bar in every state in the country. But one thing they haven't succeeded in doing yet is to make the newspapers stop calling 'em Portias. And gosh! how they love it. Lykell, lykell, lykell!

SISTER AIMEE McPherson's ma says her daughter swatted her viciously on the snoot the other day, knocking her down and causing great pain in the afflicted beak. As we recall the Ten Commandments there was something in them about not swatting one's mamma in the beak, but will the zealots who worship at Sister Aimee's temple think any the less of their pastoress because of what mamma says? Not at all; they'll be back in their pews next Sunday shouting hallelujah louder than ever.

SUMMER IS ENDED.

Summer is ended . . . I'm sorry . . .
Now they take down the moon,
Drift of a dream is passing,
We shall be lonely soon.

Nights in the cool, still water,
Love on a star-strewn beach,
Something of silvered loveliness
Passes beyond our reach.

I shall remember you, never fear.
What if your face grows dim?
You shall be registered on my list . . .
"Men who have taught me to swim."

LAGNIAPPE.

TALKING ABOUT the high cost of living and the steady sneakin' up in the prices of the necessities of life, we read an afternoon paper yesterday and got a blow that sent us staggering to the window for air: "Cigaret Prices Boosted by United." Hel-lup! Hel-lup! Great Scott, we've got to live!

WE USED to be opposed to a President having more than two terms, but after reading Cal Coolidge's column for some time we are rather in favor of a President having four or five terms. Anything to keep him from writing a daily column.

GETTING HIS PAST READ

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 21, 1914.

PARIS.—Brussels has fallen into the hands of the Germans. Cavalrymen of the kaiser's huge invading army entered the city from the south while the Belgians retreated in an orderly manner on Antwerp. King Albert's forces evacuated their capital to prevent its bombardment and unnecessary loss of life among civilians. Previous to the retreat the burgomaster disarmed all civil guards and warned citizens not to fire on the invaders. A statement issued says that Antwerp is "capable of indefinite resistance." Its defenses consist of a triple line of fortifications.

LONDON.—A Brussels dispatch says that a long line of burning villages marked the German advance on the capital.

LONDON.—The Japanese embassy here states that no reply has been received to Japan's ultimatum to Germany.

LONDON.—The Standard's correspondent in Paris says a telegram tells of a forward movement of the Russian colossus two weeks sooner than was expected. A communique issued at St. Petersburg says several columns have crossed the frontier and assumed the offensive "along the whole line." In East Prussia the latest news is that the Russians already have occupied Gombinnon and Islyk, two very important positions, and have forced the first German division to fall back.

ROME.—The body of Pope Pius X. has been laid out in state for thousands to view. Preparations went forward in the Vatican for the funeral services, which will be of a simple nature, and for the holding of the conclave for the election of a new pope, probably early in September. Among candidates mentioned are Cardinals Maffi, De Lai, Ferrata, Agliardi, Pompili, and Serafini.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 21, 1900.

CHICAGO.—The federal census bureau in Washington announced the population of Chicago to be 1,698,575. The Thirtieth is the banner ward with a population of 106,124. It extends from State street west to the city limits, between 47th and 63d streets.

PEKING [via Shanghai].—United States Minister Conger says: "If the relieving column had not arrived when it did we should probably have succumbed. They tried to annihilate us the day before you got in. Prince Ching, president of the Tsung-li-Yamen, sent word that his officers had received orders to cease firing on us under pain of death. The same evening the Chinese opened fire and this continued all day. The Americans lost seven marines killed and fifteen wounded and one child killed. The whole movement is purely a governmental one. The Boxers are only a pretense, having no guns."

SHEBOYGAN, Wis.—Two hundred buildings were wrecked by a tornado which cut a path through this city today.

CHICAGO.—Sol Bloom, music publisher, sued Herman Weber, proprietor of the Union restaurant, for $50,000 damages because he was not permitted to eat in the restaurant while dressed in a resplendent blue striped shirtwaist, minus a coat.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 21, 1865.

FATHER POINT.—The steamship Belgium brings news from Europe. Queen Victoria and junior members of the English royal family had arrived at Antwerp on a visit to the king of the Belgians. At a meeting of the Atlantic Cable company in London, J. T. Fortley, the chairman, said he had no further news of the reported loss of the cable by the steamship Great Eastern, but it was resolved to issue additional capital of £80,000 to complete the present cable and to construct and lay down a second.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Gen. Beauregard's home was surrounded by the military a few nights ago and with others he was held in a cotton press until morning. It was supposed that Gen. Kirby Smith was concealed in his house. Gen. Beauregard complained to Gen. Sheridan of the invasion. Sheridan was greatly annoyed at the occurrence and righted the matter with the former confederate leader.

THE TRACTION REORGANIZATION.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—I am one of the many holders of the local traction bonds who are waiting for some information about a settlement. The ordinance was passed and certainly will be accepted by the new company. The amount of new securities to be issued has been published and a feature story has been written about the consolidation managers, but not a single holder of traction bonds [except maybe the insiders] know what they will receive for their bonds or when they will receive it.

This is not fair treatment to the holders of these securities.

I suppose I can not expect to be paid in full, but I would like to know how much cash I will receive and how much new securities and most of all I would like to know if any cash now belonging to the traction company will be used to pay up the elevated company bonds or stocks. DISCOURAGED.

GEORGE E. COLE.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—In the death of George E. Cole the state of Illinois and particularly Chicago lost one of her really great men, truly great in courage, intelligence and ideals. Not often do we meet men holding their citizenship with the sense of responsibility which he had. Strong in his love of the quiet and peace of private life he never permitted it or the responsibilities of a growing prosperous business to monopolize his time and talents or prevent his taking an intelligent interest in public affairs. He was a splendid type of that American who inspired De Tocqueville with great hopes when he visited our shores some 80 years ago—a real democrat enamored of American ideals and willing to fight for them without considering the probable cost to himself. Though in manner and deportment kindly and pacific it is doubtful if any man armed with legal power, whether as police, prosecutor or judge, could fill with more fear and respect the hearts of public enemies than could this simple citizen who never sought a public office.

A. V. CANNING.

FISH WITH HIS BEER.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Would you believe that last night I had put my siphon in the crock, when, lo and behold, floating peacefully on the top of my potential happy days was a cute little fish whose soul had passed on to commune with those of its ancestors?

Last winter it was mud; in the spring we had delicious, sparkling chlorine, and now I am living in mortal fear of getting a combination of all three, fish, mud and chlorine in one batch of beer. Drinking such a mixture would make a fellow go home and rob his own trunk or chew off his wife's ears.

Can't you use your influence and help us to at least get good water with which to make our beer until we can legally buy the amber fluid?

MARTIN UMBACH JR.

MORAN.

Maywood, Ill., Aug. 16.—The writer has been given to understand on good authority that Bugs Moran is not of Irish extraction. In justice to a great many honest and law abiding citizens that happen to bear that name, would you kindly verify this information? The Irish have plenty to answer for without taking on any other nationality's sins.

F. J. MORAN.

ELECTRIFICATION.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—We are certain that the action taken by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in filing suit before the Illinois commerce commission against 11 railroads demanding the building of suitable terminals and electrification of their lines in the Chicago area has met with unanimous approval of all the citizens of Chicago.

This question has been discussed for over fifteen years between city officials and the officials of the various railroad companies, but today it is no further advanced than it was then. The proper growth and development of our city has been retarded by the iron band of railroad tracks just south of the loop, between Van Buren stree and Roosevelt road and State street and the Chicago river. It's a great many years since negotiations were started for the opening of streets through this area. Engineers stated this work must be accomplished in three separate and distinct operations:

1. Straightening of the Chicago river.
2. Opening of streets through terminal area.
3. Building new railway terminals.

The straightening of the river will be completed during 1930. Up to the present time there has been absolutely no activity in the connection with the second and third units of this project.

The railroads show very little consideration for the interests of Chicago and its citizens in modernizing their properties in the same manner which they have in other cities. They have stalled along until they have gained the ill-will of a majority of our citizens and brought upon themselves the institution of the suit which your company is so generously fighting in behalf of the interests of all Chicagoans.

In their negotiations with city officials they have pleaded poverty, loss of business, excessive finance charges, and other reasons for not going ahead with the building of a new terminal and electrification of their lines in this city, while at the same time they are spending millions upon millions of dollars for the erection of new terminals at Cleveland, Buffalo, and Cincinnati, and in the electrification of their lines in Philadelphia and in New York.

We feel the time is now at hand when the officials of these railroads must be treated by the citizenship of this city in the same bold manner in which they have treated them. We feel the action taken by THE TRIBUNE in filing this suit before the Illinois commerce commission is a step in the right direction and congratulate you upon it.

ELMER RICH,
President South Central Association.

BASICALLY.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Apropos the discussion concerning the adverb "basically," it occurred to me that I might contribute an example of use to further clarify its meaning.

In the advertising columns of our public conveyances there has appeared, over a period of many months, a series of utterances by men of more or less prominence to the effect that "our financial and industrial conditions are 'basically' sound."

It is apparent, therefore, that "basically" sound financial and industrial conditions are conditions which produce an almost unparalleled period of business depression and unemployment. G. H. B.

DIVORCES MEND, DON'T RUIN, LIVES, SAYS CHURCHMAN

Stupidity, False Modesty Blamed for Unhappiness

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 20.—The necessity of divorce as a means of mending rather than ruining broken lives was stressed at the modern churchmen's conference at Oxford today by Dr. Douglas White, a member of the archbishop's commission on sex relationships. His talk followed that of Dr. H. D. A. Major, who urged that the church itself take up the task of giving instruction on sex problems.

Already thrown into a heated debate over the recent approval by the archbishops and bishops of the Anglican church at the Lambeth conference of the use of contraceptives, the defenders of strict canonical law were further disturbed by Dr. White's assertions.

Marriages Are Ruined.

"The stupidity of the male or the false modesty of the woman ruin many marriages," Dr. White said. "Unhappy unions result from the rosy views taken by lovers and by the real changes taking place in men and women after physical maturity. Hence divorce is necessary and is not forbidden by Christ. It is all but impossible for young men and women to form dispassionate judgment in marriage, in which passion both is and ought to be the predominant factor.

"The main argument against divorce is that it breaks up the whole family and is bad for the children. But if a family union is broken by divorce, it is worse under permanent judicial separation, which the opponents of divorce do not oppose. This talk of the sanctity of marriage—that is best secured by putting an end to marriages that are a disgrace to the name."

Dr. White said the single standard is necessary under monogamy, if there is a balance between the numbers of sexes.

Hits Church Attitude on Sex.

"The dual standard has for long been sought as justification on the grounds that there are greater and more urgent sexual impulses in males," he continued. "This plea has been advanced by the male. But now women's tongues have become untied—I mean of course on this subject—and we find them saying that the female impulses is just as strong."

Dr. Major condemned the church attitude on sex.

"Church discipline doesn't educate but irritates," he said. "The church must give more instruction about sex problems in a modern, scientific and attractive form. It ought to institute definite training for marriage. Health, happiness and Christian marriage—that is what the church needs to present to mankind. Prohibitions, denunciations and excommunications are in vain."

FARMER ILL; KILLS HIMSELF.

REDS BURN TOWN

HANKOW, Aug. 21 (Thursday).—(AP)—Chinese press dispatches today said Kiangsi provincial troops scored a crushing victory over communists in the western part of that province, killing 4,000 Reds and capturing 2,000 rifles.

The torch of communism flared again yesterday in China to burn the town of Wusueh, 27 miles from the Yangtze river city of Kiukiang, with its large foreign settlement.

A Red band charged down through the hills about Wusueh, looted its population of 6,000 and ruthlessly destroyed the town. As the communists approached, refugees streamed out upon the countryside, fearing for their lives and abandoning their property. A Japanese gunboat was ordered to Wusueh to protect foreigners. The town is a market for rock salt, mined nearby.

The civil war itself has lagged, hampered by torrential rains. The issue remains undecided. Temporarily, at least, the Nationalists have the advantage, having thrust the rebels from Tsinan.

HOME OF BRITISH PRIME MINISTERS NEAR COLLAPSE

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Following the recent heavy rains bad basement leaks have appeared at No. 10 Downing street, for the last two centuries official home of British prime ministers. Leaks also appeared next door at No. 11, which is the official residence of the chancellor of the exchequer. Masons are now at work relining the cellar walls with waterproof bricks. But government engineers have also discovered sagging of various window sills, due to the outer walls being out of plumb, requiring shoring up with girders. Rebuilding in the no distant future may be necessary.

There is a remote association between America and Downing street long antedating the modern political relations of the two countries.

George Downing, British soldier and diplomat, born about 1624, was the son of Lucy Winthrop Downing, a sister of John Winthrop, Puritan governor of the Massachusetts Bay colony. He was taken to Salem as a small boy and studied at Harvard. He returned to England and became a member of the Cromwell parliament, but managed to win the favor of Charles II. after the restoration by renouncing his former principles. The king knighted him, gave him a tellership in the exchequer, and presented him with a tract of land, which site is the present No. 10 Downing street.

WIFE DIVORCES HARRY L. SMITH, FORMER PASTOR

Ex-Chicagoans Figure in Long Controversy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The disputed marital affairs of Harry Lee Smith, formerly Presbyterian missionary to China, assistant pastor at the Fourth Presbyterian church in Chicago, and curate at Grace Episcopal church in Oak Park, Ill., and his wife, the former Celestine Brown of Lake View, Chicago, were terminated today in an interlocutory decree of divorce entered in the wife's favor by Superior Judge Robert Scott.

The decree, awarding Mrs. Smith alimony of $70 a month, custody of the couple's two sons, aged 10 and 8, and ratifying a community property division which took place in the autumn of 1928, was handed down in spite of a cross bill filed by the ex-preacher, who accused his wife of numerous marital omissions.

Married in Chicago in 1916.

The couple, who were married in Chicago July 29, 1916, when she was 19 and he was 27, spent the first three years of their married life in a Presbyterian mission at Pa Ting, China, and separated in Los Angeles in January, 1928, and thereafter exchanged actions in a fashion which enlivened divorce courts in California, Nevada, and Mexico.

Mrs. Smith secured a separate maintenance decree in Los Angeles in December, 1928. Following this action, Smith, who resigned from the Episcopal church on leaving his Oak Park charge, went to Las Vegas, Nev., and filed an action for divorce. He dropped the Nevada suit later.

He next filed suit in Nogales, Mexico, in December, 1928. Mrs. Smith objected to what she called "a mail order divorce," and filed an action in the Los Angeles courts in July, 1929. In her Los Angeles divorce plea she waived grounds which had been included in her first action for separate maintenance, in which she accused her husband of overfamiliarity with a maid at Oak Park, Ill., and demanded a decree on grounds that her husband was indifferent, unloving and had struck her.

Cross Complaint Filed.

Smith filed a cross complaint in Los Angeles July 23, 1929, which asserted that his wife stayed out late, overspent his income, called him "cad" and "tightwad," declined to cook meals, or care for the children. He also charged that she declined to permit his friends and parishioners in their Oak Park home.

Smith did not press any of these counter charges during trial of the case before Judge Scott yesterday. He is now in the real estate business in Los Angeles with V. C. Smith, his brother.

DANDRUFF
what it is . . how to remove it quick relief for infected, burning and itching scalp

Great dermatologists declare that a normal, healthy scalp is extremely rare. Some go as far as to say that there is no scalp that is not troubled in some way, to some degree.

The most common—and humiliating—condition is loose dandruff.

Infection makes fat glands overactive

Dandruff is caused by overactivity of the fat glands of the scalp—which expel a greasy whitish substance known as sebum.

This overactivity is the result of infection, many dermatologists claim. They advise immediate treatment. Whatever the cause, this activity should be checked lest the condition continue and cause eczema, falling hair, and baldness.

Why Listerine checks dandruff

Frequent shampoo, vigorous massage, and the use of an antiseptic constitute effective treatment for ordinary cases of loose dandruff.

The success of Listerine in combating this condition is due to certain unusual qualities.

Since it is a safe though powerful germicide* Listerine combats any irritation that may be present on the scalp.

It dissolves and removes incrustations of sebum from the hair and scalp, assuring antiseptic cleanliness. It produces on the scalp an astringent effect, exhilarates and invigorates the tissue around the hair roots.

It allays itching, and soothes inflammation and eruption frequently associated with dandruff.

Results achieved quickly

You simply use Listerine as a part of the shampoo, or independent of it. Douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously.

Keep the treatment up, using a little olive oil if the scalp is excessively dry.

You will be delighted to see how quickly you get results. Frequently loose dandruff disappears after one or two treatments. Sometimes however, if the case is stubborn, a week or two and perhaps more will be required. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Germicidal Power—with safety

*Though safe to use in any body cavity, full strength Listerine kills even the resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. (Fastest time science has accurately recorded.)

BEGIN FIGHT FOR LITTLE NAVY BY TREATY'S TERMS

Fix 300 Millions in Next Five Years as Limit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—The fight is already under way to prevent adoption of a naval construction program building up the fleet to the maximum tonnage limits allowed by the London naval treaty by 1936.

Chairman Burton L. French [Rep., Idaho] of a naval appropriations subcommittee of the house stated today that, while he would approve legislation authorizing what he termed "a moderate" new building program, he was opposed to any bill which called for the construction of all the fighting ships allowed the United States by the treaty.

In the opinion of Mr. French, the United States should not approve any program calling for expenditure of more than 300 million dollars on new construction during the next five years. To build the fleet up to the treaty maximum in modern ships under the age limits, Mr. French said, would cost in the neighborhood of a billion dollars. The Idaho representative favors holding down the annual appropriations for new construction to approximately $30,000,000 a year.

Has "Moderate" Program.

Under Mr. French's plan the nation would continue construction of the 8 inch gun cruisers permitted by the treaty and in addition would begin a "moderate" program of submarine and destroyer replacement. He favors construction of the 13,800 ton aircraft carrier now authorized and would not oppose appropriations for one of the new 6 inch gun cruisers with landing decks which may be built under the treaty.

Washington pacifist organizations which riddled the 1927 naval construction bill are already massing for an attack on any replacement program advanced by the navy department. These organizations, headed by Frederick J. Libby of the national council for prevention of war, are on record against even the small program advanced by Representative French.

The general board of the navy is working on a naval building program for submission to Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and eventually to President Hoover. This program will include ships already authorized and building as well as ships which the board considers must be built under the treaty. One of its tasks will be the formulation of a naval authorization bill for congress, carrying such ships as the board considers should be added to the vessels already appropriated for and building.

What Statistics Show.

Naval statistics disclose that it would cost approximately 967 million dollars to equip the navy by 1936, the expiration date of the London treaty, with all the modern ships allowed this country by the past. At present vessels costing 170 million dollars to complete are authorized or building. The additional ships necessary to build the fleet up to its maximum treaty strength by 1936 would cost 800 million dollars more.

The navy department expects to recommend an authorization bill carrying ships costing between 400 and 500 million dollars. This, tentatively, would cover the five years before the treaty expires. Ships it provided would be laid down, but all probably would not be completed before two or three years after the treaty. The cut from 800 millions to below 500 millions would be effective by delaying replacement of 100,000 tons of destroyers beyond 1936. The cost of these ships would total around 300 million.

It is likely the navy will recommend laying down of all the 6 inch gun cruisers prior to 1936.

GEN. PERSHING SAILS FOR U. S. TO SETTLE ROW OVER WAR SHAFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 20.—The unexpected departure of Gen. John J. Pershing on the Ile de France yesterday is reported today to have resulted from the storm stirred up in America by his stand in the squabble over the monument of the 316th Infantry regiment at Sivry sur Meuse, near Verdun.

It is understood that Gen. Pershing is making a personal issue out of the monument conflict and is returning to face the attacks of Senator David A. Reed, who has rallied to the defense of the Pennsylvania veterans in the capacity of honorary president of the association of the 316th Infantry. It is believed here that Gen. Pershing will place the matter before President Hoover.

The row broke out when the veterans of the regiment made a pilgrimage to France to attend the dedication of the memorial and Gen. Pershing refused to attend the ceremonies.

Since then it has become a national and international question, for Premier Andre Tardieu, as minister of the interior, has been formally requested by Gen. Pershing to tear down the monument.

It is recalled that the trouble started when the battle monument commission refused the veterans permission to erect the monument because of the ruling of the commission against anything smaller than divisional memorials. The wily soldiers then turned the money over to the French, who built the monument.

LATVIA MATCHES FOREIGN GRAIN POUND FOR POUND

Millers to Use 50% Native Wheat in Flour.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 20.—The practical advantages of a farmer's government for a farming people is illustrated by a decree just issued by the Latvian government which, it is expected, will save the farmers from low prices due to the competition of cheap foreign grain.

This decree orders all millers to use 50 per cent native grain in all flours and provides machinery of the simplest kind for its execution. The plan was described this morning by Hugo Celminisch, prime minister, who is also the leader of the peasant party. M. Celminisch told how the prosperity of Latvia produced a farm crisis, which demanded a prompt solution, if the government policy for building up the independent peasant was to be a success.

Pound for Pound Decree.

"The population of Latvia is about 2,000,000, with about 600,000 living in the towns," he said. "Formerly the country fed itself and grain was imported to feed the towns at a cost of about $6,000,000 annually. Then came improved cultivation and the settlement of peasants on their own land. In the last two years the crops were bountiful, but American, German, and Polish grain was cheaper than ours and our farmers were crowded out of the market.

"We have decreed that for every pound of foreign grain milled, there must also be a pound of Latvian grain milled. In this way we hope to solve the farm problem by reducing the imports of foreign grain 50 per cent."

Every grain importer who secures a permit for 100 pounds of foreign grain must show a receipt for the purchase of 100 pounds of Latvian grain. The crop this year is again unusually good, but some fear is expressed as a result of the heavy rains last week in the middle of the harvest.

Fight Adverse Trade Balance.

The prime minister also declared that the government was trying to reduce the adverse trade balance this year, which amounted to $18,000,000 last year, the imports totaling $72,000,000 and the exports $54,000,000.

He described relations with Russia as good. Under a trade past Russia has agreed to import $8,000,000 worth of Latvian products annually and in the first two years it kept its contract. This year the orders are a little late, but it is expected that the full amount will be reached. The transit trade promised by Russia through Latvian ports exceeds both the promises and expectations.

The thing that impressed me most on revisiting the Baltic after some years was the disappearance of all fear of reabsorption by Russia of the small states carved out of the old Russian empire. At the same time they still realize the necessity for mutual help.

The Latvian prime minister, in discussing this, said the first step was taken in a defensive alliance between Latvia and Esthonia, and the next step, now in progress, is the negotiation of a trade agreement with Lithuania, which it is hoped will lead to a military treaty. After that Finland will be the next step, and then Poland, he said.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement, vicar of a country village in England, at luncheon tells his wife, Griselda, and young nephew, Dennis, who lives with them, that any one who murders Col. Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service. The colonel enjoys making life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, and fusses about the running of the parish. He suspects that there are defalcations in the church accounts and is coming over the next evening to go over them with the vicar. Griselda, nearly twenty years younger than her husband, refuses to take anything, including the parish, seriously.

Four of the female parishioners call at the vicarage in the afternoon for tea and scandal. Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage, hints that there may be something between Griselda and Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a studio on the vicarage grounds and for whom Griselda is sitting.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A SHOCKING DISCOVERY.

Griselda paused a minute and then said, with a quick sidelong glance at me. "You do believe me, don't you? I mean, that there's nothing between Lawrence and me."

"My dear Griselda," I said surprised. "Of course."

My wife came across and kissed me.

"I wish you weren't so terribly easy to deceive, Len. You'd believe me whatever I said."

"I should hope so. But, my dear, I do beg of you to guard your tongue and be careful what you say. These women are singularly deficient in humor, remember, and take everything seriously."

"What they need," said Griselda, "is a little immorality in their lives. Then they wouldn't be so busy looking for it in other people's."

And on this she left the room, and glancing at my watch I hurried out to pay some visits that ought to have been made earlier in the day.

The Wednesday evening service was sparsely attended as usual but when I came out through the church, after disrobing in the vestry, it was empty save for a woman who stood staring up at one of our windows. We have some rather fine old stained glass, and indeed the church itself is well worth looking at. She turned at my footsteps, and I saw that it was Mrs. Lestrange.

We both hesitated a moment and then I said:

"I hope you like our little church."

"I've been admiring the screen," she said.

Her voice was pleasant, low, yet very distinct, with a clear cut enunciation. She added:

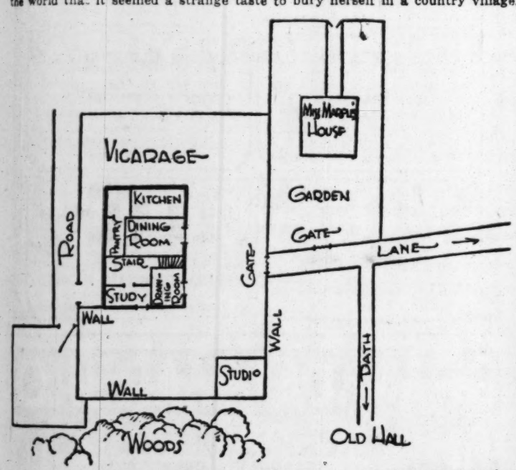
"I'm so sorry to have missed your wife yesterday."

We talked a few minutes longer about the church. She was evidently a cultured woman who knew something of church history and architecture. We left the building together and walked down the road, since one way to the vicarage led past her house. As we arrived at the gate, she said pleasantly:

"Come in, won't you? And tell me what you think of what I have done."

I accepted the invitation. Little Gates had formerly belonged to an Anglo-Indian colonel and I could not help feeling relieved by the disappearance of the brass tables and the Burmese idols. It was furnished now very simply but in exquisite taste. There was a sense of harmony and rest about it.

Yet I wondered more and more what had brought such a woman as Mrs. Lestrange to St. Mary Mead. She was so very clearly a woman of the world that it seemed a strange taste to bury herself in a country village.



In the clear light of her drawing room I had an opportunity of observing her closely for the first time.

She was a very tall woman. Her hair was gold with a tinge of red in it. Her eyebrows and eyelashes were dark, whether by art or by nature I could not decide. If she was, as I thought, made up, it was done very artistically. There was something sphinxlike about her face when it was in repose, and she had the most curious eyes I have ever seen—they were almost golden in shade.

Her clothes were perfect and she had all the ease of manner of a well bred woman, and yet there was something about her that was incongruous and baffling. You felt that she was a mystery. The word Griselda had used occurred to me—sinister. Absurd, of course, and yet—was it so absurd? The thought sprang unbidden into my mind: "This woman would stick at nothing."

Our talk was on most normal lines—pictures, books, old churches. Yet somehow I got very strongly the impression that there was something else—something of quite a different nature that Mrs. Lestrange wanted to say to me.

I caught her eyes on me once or twice, looking at me with a curious hesitancy, as though she were unable to make up her mind. She kept the talk, I noticed, strictly to impersonal subjects. She made no mention of a husband, or of friends or relations.

But all the time there was that strange urgent appeal in her glance. It seemed to say: "Shall I tell you? I want to. Can't you help me?"

On an impulse I said:

"If there is anything I can do——"

She said doubtfully: "It's very kind of you——"

We were both silent. Then she said:

"I wish I knew. It's very difficult. No, I don't think any one can help me. But thank you for offering to do so."

That seemed final, so I went. But as I did so, I wondered. We are not used to mysteries in St. Mary Mead.

So much is this the case that as I emerged from the gate I was pounced upon. Miss Hartnell is very good at pouncing in a heavy and cumbrous way.

"I saw you!" she exclaimed with ponderous humor. "And I was so excited. Now you can tell us all about the mysterious lady! Is she a widow or has she a husband somewhere?"

"I really couldn't say. She didn't tell me."

"How very peculiar. Tell me, has she known Dr. Haydock long?"

"She didn't mention him, so I don't know."

Taking advantage of a momentary hesitation on Miss Hartnell's part as to how to proceed next, I bade her good night and walked rapidly away.

I called in at a house further down the village and returned to the vicarage by the garden gate, passing, as I did so, the danger point of Miss Marple's garden.

As I latched the gate, it occurred to me that I would just step down to the shed in the garden which young Lawrence Redding was using as a studio, and see for myself how Griselda's portrait was progressing.

I have drawn a rough sketch above, which will be useful in the light of after happenings, only sketching in such details as are necessary.

I had no idea there was any one in the studio. There had been no voices from within to warn me, and I suppose that my own footsteps made no noise upon the grass.

I opened the door and then stepped awkwardly on the threshold. For there were two people in the studio, and the man's arms were round the woman and he was kissing her passionately.

The two people were the artist, Lawrence Redding, and Mrs. Protheroe.

I backed out precipitately and beat a retreat to my study. There I sat down in a chair and thought things over. The discovery had come as a great shock to me. Especially since my conversation with Lettice that afternoon, I had felt fairly certain that there was some kind of understanding growing up between her and the young man. Moreover, I was convinced that she herself thought so. I felt positive that she had no idea of the artist's feelings for her stepmother.

A nasty tangle. I paid a grudging tribute to Miss Marple. She had not been deceived but had evidently suspected the true state of things with a fair amount of accuracy. I had entirely misread her meaning glance at Griselda.

I had never dreamed of considering Mrs. Protheroe in the matter. There was always been rather a suggestion of Caesar's wife about Mrs. Protheroe—a quiet self-contained woman whom one would not suspect of any great depths of feeling.

I had got to this point in my meditations when a tap on my study window roused me. I got up and went to it. Mrs. Protheroe was standing outside. I opened the window and she came in, not waiting for an invitation on my part. She crossed the room in a breathless sort of way and dropped down on the sofa.

I had the feeling that I had never really seen her before. The quiet self-contained woman that I knew had vanished. In her place was a quick breathing desperate creature. For the first time I realized that Anne Protheroe was beautiful.

Good morning!

There is much doing at the box office and more on the screen over at McVicker's where Mrs. Marx's silly sons are holding forth.

"Animal Crackers" has more life than wit. There's something doing, or saying, and usually both, every minute. O, well, if the production IS often more rowdy than humorous, one can't, to quote Groucho, expect "ALL the jokes to be funny." One thing is certain, children will think the picture a riot.

The most comical incident in the whole show is Chico's piano solo. The cavortings of his funny paws over the ivories, inspire laughter hearty and prolonged. He can make music, too, this Chico! So can, and does, Harpo. On a harp. The antics and sayings of Harpo and Groucho bring considerable happiness to their audience.

As to the general layout—Mrs. Rittenhouse [charmingly played by Margaret Dumont], is giving a week-end party at her country house in honor of Capt. Jeffrey Spaulding [Groucho] just come home from an exploring trip in darkest Africa or some other dark place thereabouts. A feature of the event is to be the unveiling by the great picture connoisseur, Roscoe Chandler, of his newly purchased Beaugarde painting "After the Hunt." Mrs. Rittenhouse is very grateful to Mr. Chandler for this grand gesture of respect to her famous guest. Item: Mr. Chandler loves Mrs. Rittenhouse with a passion that may be said to be practically unrequited. Another item: Mr. Chandler was once a fish merchant, well known to the Marxes in the country honored by their birth—but the picture shall tell you more of that.

A jealous society matron and her friend find Mrs. Rittenhouse's social success more than they can bear with equanimity. They decide that when the Beaugarde is unveiled lo, it shall not be the Beaugarde, but a copy made by the friend while studying art in Paris. . . .!

Well, it transpires that the artist fiancé of Mrs. Rittenhouse's daughter also has made a copy. The three paintings have a hectic time of it amongst the Marxes et al.

The players supporting the stars have been well chosen. Direction, sound and photography are good. The story is the hitch. It isn't up to "The Cocoanuts."

See you soon.

SCIENCE DISCLOSES AMERICAN TRAITS OF 3,000 YEARS AGO

Evidence has been found of three distinct ancient American civilizations, the oldest about 3,000 years, in the Lowry ruin, southwestern Colorado. The excavations were made by a Field museum archeological expedition under Dr. Paul S. Martin.

Two large kivas, best described as large single rooms, were unearthed, Dr. Martin reports. One was constructed on the ruins of the other. Material then found with that from several large burial places will be sent to the museum for a new hall of archeology. The ruins are the largest in the southwest and were untouched by previous explorers.

On the walls of the kivas were paintings, depicting the religion and domestic habits of the people.

"Great was our surprise," writes Dr. Martin, "to find fragments of perfect paintings still adhering to the walls of the upper room. They probably had not been exposed to the light of day for 3,000 years. All were perfectly geometric and were executed in black and white.

"The information obtained from the lower room was of even more importance. The paintings were in better condition and were similar in design to ancient pottery, representing lightning, rain, and clouds. This is the first time such designs have been found on kiva walls."

With the wall paneling on the way to the museum are thirty pieces of pottery dealing with the same subject matter. Ten men are now working on the ruins, removing 21 tons of debris daily. Mine dump cars have been installed to facilitate the work.

Home Secretary's Job Is Conducted Near Glamis Castle

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Home Secretary Clynes is conducting his duties as cabinet minister from Airlie castle while waiting for the arrival of the Duchess of York's second child, now expected for nearly three weeks.

The Duke of York continues to participate in local festivals and sports events and today he and his father-in-law, the Earl of Strathmore, attended a shooting party in the glen of Denoon, where the local unemployed were engaged as game beaters.

Sightseers every day climb to the top of Hunters hill to view the beacon of fagots and logs which will be lit to announce the birth of the child. A tarpaulin has been placed over the wood to protect it from rain and souvenir hunters.

Every morning the newspapers are scanned for the news from Glamis castle. There is never any mention of the duchess herself, and under the circumstances no news is taken to be good news while the empire awaits the arrival of another royal heir.

Fred Stone in Chicago, Lively as in Old Days

Fred Stone, actor, who played in "The Wizard of Oz" and who very nearly lost his legs when he took to wings a couple of years ago, cavorted about the train shed of the Chicago and North Western station yesterday to show reporters that his dancing apparatus is just as good as new. With him were his wife and Paula and Carol Stone, his daughters. Mr. Stone had been to the Yosemite valley and to Lake Tahoe with the Will Rogers family, and thought Will "one grand fellow." In fact, he said, Will taught him all he knows about roping. Mr. Stone is on his way to New York for the opening of the Broadway show, "Ripples." The actor was injured in his first solo flight and for months was in plaster casts.

A resolution to that effect was adopted yesterday at the 11th annual convention of cosmeticians and hair artists, which closed last night at the Hotel Sherman. The resolution was drawn by the executive committee after conference with Dr. Robert P. Shepherd of the World's Fair staff.

Banker Tells Plans for Book Business Survey

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Whether apartments are so small nowadays that people haven't room for libraries and book collections—

Whether the radio and the motor car and the movies keep people from reading as much as they used to—

These are a couple of the things which O. H. Cheney, banker and economist, expects to find out in a survey he has undertaken for the American Association of Book Publishers and allied interests.

"The survey is not planned to fight any one or anything, except those uneconomic conditions and practices which hamper author, publisher, manufacturer, and retailer alike," Cheney said today. It will be concerned with book costs; merchandising methods, and sales promotion.

3 Generations Enjoy Drifting Down Rivers

But Drought Cuts Their Voyage Short.

Three generations of adventurers returned to Chicago yesterday after a month's tour of Illinois waterways in a 16 by 6 foot, homemade houseboat of rough pine boards. During the trip the younger members studied plant and insect life abounding in the swamps.

Aboard the boat were a 72 year old man, his son and his grandson. They are Francis F. Livingston, Janesville, Wis.; William F. Livingston, 44 years old, science teacher in Herzl Junior High school; and Bill, 18 years old, a student at Crane Technical High school. Bill and his father live at 222 South Albany avenue.

Bill, who is going to be a naturalist, added more than a hundred specimens to his insect collection. The prize catch of the trip was a rare specimen of Basilona Imperialis, a moth commonly called the Golden Emperor. It was captured beneath a street light in Lacon, Ill. Bill's father explored the river banks for rare and beautiful flowers, while the patriarch of the party slept and fished. Bill also did the cooking and necessary dishwashing.

The expedition shipped anchor at the sanitary district docks at 31st street and Western avenue, June 10. Drifting with the current, they went down the drainage canal, through the Illinois-Michigan canal into the Illinois river, hoping ultimately to reach New Orleans via the Mississippi. The craft behaved as per schedule until Beardstown was reached on the Illinois river.

Low water had reduced the current until a speed of one mile an hour was all the doughty little craft could make. With such prospects of hard labor the boat was sold for $5 to a river fisherman. The party abandoned the rest of the trip and returned to Chicago in a sleeping car.

Aside from the scientific interest the greatest feature of the trip, according to young Bill, was a show boat just above Beardstown. The play seen was entitled "Gangsters," and depicted the life of Chicago as seen by downstaters.

"The play was full of blood and thunder," Bill said, "and was certainly interesting enough, but I was unable to recognize my home city in the presentation."

BRITON TELLS YANKEES INDIA OFFERS NOVEL PROBLEM OF CONTROL

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Lord Meston of Agra and Dunottar, former lieutenant governor of the united provinces of India, asserted before the Institute of Politics tonight that any future constitution for India "will have to be one of a type entirely novel."

Touching on possible measures "to generate a true spirit of nationalism," he said, "We arrive inevitably at the question of what form of constitution will give India the freest play for its own genius and the greatest facility for drawing into its own mechanism whatever it can usefully take and adapt from western methods and practices."

Three propositions are essential to clarify the issue, he explained. The constitution "must be one which ultimately makes for national freedom"; it "must be so framed as to give all the people of India the opportunity of deciding how far and how fast they wish to convert orthodox Hinduism into a genuine nationalism"; moreover, it will "have to be of a type entirely novel in history."

"A unique type of federalism is needed in India," he said, "where there are 75,000 square miles with 65,000,000 inhabitants not under British rule." "These," he explained, "comprise 200 different states, ruled by chiefs and princes, with varying degrees of sovereignty. Nationalism has made very little impression on those states, and the presence of those large and powerful autocracies" in the midst of British India will not make for simplicity in the constitution, he said.

Mahatma Gandhi, Lord Meston said, "has been almost consistently used as a catspaw by cleverer and less scrupulous brains in the orthodox camp."

Summarizing the Simon commission recommendations, Lord Meston said he did not agree that the boycott and lawlessnes sof the last six months are answers to the question how the report appeals to the peoples of India.

Nurse Travels 12,000 Miles to Wed Her Former Patient

Noblesville, Ind., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—After traveling 12,000 miles from Manila, Philippine islands, where she was head of a training school for nurses, Miss Fannie Higay and Clayde Dougherty of Franklin, Va., were married this evening on the campus of the Indiana Seventh Day Adventist academy here. One thousand students witnessed the ceremony. The romance began while the bride was head nurse in the Adventist sanitarium at Washington, D. C., where the bridegroom was a patient.

Germans Cheer Stock and Sowerby During Bavarian Festival

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Aug. 20.—In the course of the Munich annual music festival, Frederick Stock, of the Chicago symphony orchestra, was the first American to conduct the Bavarian state orchestra. He was showered with applauses by the international assembly.

Mr. Stock was presented with a huge laurel wreath, and the young American composer, Leo Sowerby, whose "Northland" suite was played for the first time in Germany, was called a score of times by the enthusiastic crowd. Critics found "deep feeling for nature and a fine romantic sense" in Sowerby's music, while they were unstinting in their praise of Mr. Stock's mastery of the Third Symphony by Brahms and Richard Strauss' "Heldenleben."

MUNICH, Bavaria, Germany, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Frederick Stock told the Associated Press he was an enthusiastic admirer of the Bavarian State opera and its orchestra.

"It is true that the New York and Chicago opera companies give excellent presentations," he said, "but here in Munich one finds the true interpretation, both as to staging and execution, of the Wagnerian tradition which is nowhere excelled."

Faversham Laments the Fact Australians Prefer Outdoor Sport

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Australia is deplored by William Faversham, the actor, as "The Bad Boy of the British Empire."

Returning last night from a tour of the antipodes, the veteran actor lamented that "a country which once had a fine theatrical tradition is losing complete interest in any form of theatrical entertainment, even the movies."

"Only a social revolution," he said, "can save Australia from complete ruin and bankruptcy. All the people seem to care about is King Sport. Football, cricket, and horse racing flourish at the expense of business and industry.

"What I feel Australia needs is a group of shrewd capitalists to go in and clean the country up, start things all over again, and put her upon an altogether new footing."

May Halt Use Washington's Face on Tires

Alexandrians Resent a Promotion Device.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Use of George Washington's portrait as a decoration for cushions or automobile tire covers was condemned as undignified today by the historic Washington society of Alexandria, Va., the home town of the nation's first President. The protest was prompted by the use of Washington's portrait on tire covers as a part of the advertising campaign now being put on in advance of the celebration in 1932 of the bicentenary of Gen. Washington.

The use of the portraits in the advertising campaign bears the stamp of approval of Representative Sol Bloom [Dem., N. Y.], associate director of the George Washington bicentennial commission. Congressional attacks on the Bloom advertising methods some months ago failed to stop use of the portraits when complaint was made by the Alexandria society, an organization formed by personal friends of the first President a few months after his death. The society's resolution states that "such use of Washington's portrait is beneath the dignity of the man and of the event."

"The opinion was general among the membership that Washington's portrait should never be used where it would be improper to use the flag; and also that while in every American home Washington's picture should be accorded a place of honor, the spare tire of the family automobile is not that place."

Former Health Official Urges Men Revolt and Change Own Fashions

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—To compete with women, who have emancipated themselves by wearing light clothing, men must do likewise, Dr. Thomas Darlington, former health commissioner, said over the radio today. While speaking Dr. Darlington was clad in the garments he advocates for summer wear, a buff colored operating jacket over a light undershirt, with no shirt, collar, or cravat, and summer weight long trousers of darker material.

Man's present heavy clothing, with cravat, waistcoat, and coat and trousers, keeps the air and light from his skin, he said, prevents the skin from performing its functions, causes heat to remain in the body, and invites sunstroke and heat prostration.

Million Dollar Clubhouse Planned for the K. of C.

Eight of the largest Roman Catholic parishes of the west side are developing a program for the building of a $1,000,000 Knights of Columbus club house and community center at 4755 West Madison street. This was announced last night in connection with a benefit outing to be held at Kolze grove, Irving Park boulevard and Narragansett avenue, Saturday afternoon.

The proposed club house, with its gymnasium, swimming pool, hand ball courts, bowling alleys, and parlors will be the center of Catholic activities on the west side, the announcement stated.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Election of supreme directors and presentation of awards marked the annual convention today of the Knights of Columbus. Five supreme directors were either elected to office or reelected to posts now held. They were: Daniel A. Tobin of Brooklyn, N. Y., reelected; William J. Gusts of New Orleans, reelected; Francis Fanteux of Montreal, state deputy; John Heavel of Asheville, N. C., state deputy, and James H. Carroll of Lewiston, Me., past state deputy.

Austria to Permit Sale of Gutenberg Bible to U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The state department was advised today by American Minister Stockton that he had concluded successfully negotiations for the removal of a collection of rare old books, including the Gutenberg Bible, from Austria. Congress has appropriated $1,500,000 for the collection for the congressional library. Reports from Austria were that the government there had semi-officially objected to the sale and removal of the Gutenberg Bible.

Skipping the Rope Is Guaranteed to Trim Down the Fatted Calf

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

For the last few days I have been giving exercises for various weighty sections of the body, the upper arms and shoulders, hips and thighs, double chins and so on. But no reference to an exercise program is complete without consideration being given large calves and ankles.

In fact, the average woman is more constructively interested in calf and ankle exercise than she is in any other single feature. With reason enough, you agree.

In connection with the advice on large hip and thigh reducing, I recommended rope skipping, which advice I should like to extend to the stout of calf and ankle weight bound. But I must advise that only those sound of heart and organs take hold of the skipping rope.

Also, there is a right and wrong way of employing the rope. Amateurs crunch up their shoulders, tighten the neck and arm muscles, which is exactly what they should not do. If the word relax is needed in any exercise, it is needed in the rope skipping one. Stop and "untie" the muscles every minute or so. But the jumping is good for the large calves and ankles. Without a rope you can go through the movement of skipping quite well.

Now here is another exercise guaranteed to trim down the fatted calf right to the angle bone. Stand erect and jump on one foot, then the other, kicking back and up with the heels as if you were running. It's a bit strenuous performance, so at first you'd better not overindulge in your anxiety to get the legs down to grade A line of symmetry.

Look into tap dancing if it is possible for you to get lessons. It is grand for the ankles and calves. A pleasant way, indeed to shake off the poundage from the nether extremities. If you can't learn the more intricate steps, learn a couple of the beginning ones and keep at them to music for five or ten minutes a day for awhile. By awhile don't think a couple of weeks enough. It takes about two months before any appreciable difference can be made in ankle girth once the section has thickened.

In His Grandmother's Coat.

One day last winter when I thought I was about the best dressed young man in Chicago with my new dog coat, no hat and my hair slicked down, I got on an L going downtown. A little girl about 3 years old saw me and started to yell.

"O, look, he has his grandmother's coat on."

She didn't say it only once, but kept it up. My thoughts of myself surely did come down on that ride to the loop which seemed to last forever.

There Was a Difference.

I spied a ring on a lady's finger, held up my own beside it and compared them. They seemed as similar as two peas in a pod. I laughed and said:

"Our thirty-nine cent rings."

Boy! Fancy how you would have felt to have heard her say:

"Why, my dear, mine is a black diamond. I paid $25 for the mounting alone!

Miss Picher and J.D. Purcell Jr. Are Engaged

BY THALIA

Mrs. Oliver S. Picher of 226 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods, is to announce the engagement of her daughter, Charlotte, to Joseph D. Purcell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Purcell of 1920 North State street, today.

The young people are not planning to let much time elapse before their wedding, and already have set Sept. 12 as the date. Miss Picher was graduated from Westover in 1927, and went to Miss Nixon's in Florence, Italy, the following year, making her debut in the fall of 1928.

Mr. Purcell went to the Hill school at Pottstown, and was graduated from the Foreign Service school in Washington, D. C., in 1926. The couple have participated actively in the affairs of the younger set, of which they are popular members.

The wedding is to be attended only by the immediate members of the two families and is to take place at Mrs. Picher's residence. The date is set for early in the month so that it will be over in time for Miss Picher's younger sister, Muriel, and her brother, Stanton, to get back to their respective schools. The Picher family returned only last week from a trip of several months to Honolulu.

The wedding will be the second one in the Purcell family within a few months, as the prospective groom's sister, the former Jean Purcell, and John Valentine were married in Boston in July. They only recently returned from their wedding trip, and will reside at 1350 Astor street.

One of the numerous social affairs being given concomitantly with the tennis matches during tennis week now current at Newport is a dance to be given this evening by Frazier Jelke. Tennis week marks the climax of the summer gayeties at the fashionable resort.

Andrew R. Sherriff is to be hostess for a group of the English lawyers and their wives who are here for the meeting of the American Bar association at dinner at the Blackstone this evening. As Mrs. Sherriff is away, visiting in the east, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Shoremaker of Cincinnati are to assist Mr. Sherriff.

Service club rehearsals in preparation for the club's annual musical revue benefit begin on Sept. 18, and are to take place this year at the Drake hotel. The performance is to be given on Oct. 18 at the Civic Opera house.

This year's debutantes, all of whom are invited to appear in the revue, and the older girls who have come out in the last few years will be required to go through a strenuous course of training and instruction during the month between the start of rehearsals and the performance itself. Some of the executive committees, including the ticket committee, which Miss Roberta Harvey and Miss Elizabeth Drake have in charge, already are functioning.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson are at Mackinac island.

Mrs. Allan M. Clement of 209 Lake Shore drive returned this week from the east. She and Mrs. George M. Reynolds had been making their annual visit with Mrs. Joseph H. De Frees at the latter's summer place in Maine, and they remained in the east for a short time after the termination of their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Aldis and their four grandchildren, the Graham Aldises' children, departed day before yesterday for York Harbor. They are to visit Mr. Aldis' sister, Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, there. The youngsters are to "stay put" for several weeks while Mr. and Mrs. Aldis make some eastern visits, and they are all to come back some time in September. The Graham Aldises are planning a trip also, but have not definitely decided on its direction or their destination.

Mr. and Mrs. Culbreth Sudler of 1401 Astor street have been on a trip through the Canadian Rockies and were recently guests at the Banff Springs hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Brentano have returned from an eight months' European trip and are with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Rustad Meyer of 423 Barry avenue. Mr. Brentano was formerly United States minister to Hungary.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Peabody and two of their four children, Howard Jr. and Jean, are in the west at a ranch near Glacier National park for several weeks.

Friends in Poverty Seem to Flee When Prosperity Arrives

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Have you ever noticed that people can be much kinder to you if you are down and out than if you strike gold? I haven't exactly struck gold, but my husband had the good fortune to put over a big deal that put us out of the debt-harried class for the time being, at least.

"My best friend, who has to get along on a comparatively small income, has become an entirely different person since our stroke of luck. Certainly, there has been no change in my attitude toward her, but she seems to be resentful and avoids me now as though I had some contagious disease. JESSIE."

It is a noticeable phase of most human psychology that it can accept the misfortune of friends better than it can accept their good luck. Did you see Marie Dressler in "Caught Short" and the gorgeous bit of work she gave when her old friend Polly broke the news of her stock market winnings? The attempt of the clever comedian to take the news of her old pal's luck in the spirit to which she felt she ought to rise was a rare tribute to the very piece of psychology under discussion. When the old friend was in trouble, or it was thought she was, the hospitable home doors were thrown wide open, but with the friend's fortune to face all the jealousy and the cussedness of human nature came out.

"I suppose the reason for it is that we all love to play the rôle of the good Samaritan or Lady Bountiful, and if the pleasure is denied us we are apt to go a little sour. We are cheated of an opportunity to express the great good self we are all pretty sure we possess.

It's a bigger person who can triumph with a friend's good fortune than one who can rise to playing the helping hand rôle in an emergency of distress. So, when confronted with the changed attitude of a friend in the face of one's good fortune, one must simply try to realize that it is a common weakness and that because of one's superior luck one must be just a little kinder, a little more understanding and make the necessary allowances.

Exiles' Descendents Visit Acadia After Lapse of 175 Years

GRAND PRE, N. S., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The American descendants of those Norman-capped and kirtled Acadians who, with the immortalized "Evangeline" were scattered abroad in 1755, returned today to gather under the ancient willows of Grand Pre.

Headed by Dudley J. Le Blanc of Lafayette, La., president of the Louisiana Acadian association, a party of forty men and women, most of them from Louisiana, celebrated the 175th anniversary of the deportation of their forbears from Acadia.

The village was transformed for the day into a beautiful park. Evangeline's well, the memorial church, and other landmarks made famous by Longfellow's epic were thronged by the modern Acadians. Residents of the town played hosts in true Norman fashion.

When the visitors debarked at Yarmouth yesterday they were greeted by the children of those exiles who returned to Novia Scotia, but settled short of their original habitation. Their trip here was marked by the color and enthusiasm of cheering thousands.

All along the Bay of Fundy shore, from Yarmouth to Annapolis, the travelers viewed constant reminders that they were among their kinfolk at last. At Church point, Digby, Major's Point, and Annapolis Royal, redolent with memories of the French pioneers they paid homage. The shrine over the grave of the first Acadians to return after the expulsion became the mecca of the party.

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

Fall is the desirable season for transplanting trees and shrubs over most of the area east of the Mississippi river and south of the great lakes, according to Furman Lloyd Mulford, of the United States department of agriculture.

The essentials for successful transplanting, he says, are:

"A good plant, including a well developed root system, and a healthy top.

"Moving at the proper season, deciduous plants while dormant and evergreens when the ground is sufficiently warm and moist to stimulate root formation.

"Proper digging, dormant deciduous plants to be dug with a minimum of injury to the roots, but without soil; evergreens with a ball of earth about the roots.

"Well protected roots—that is, kept covered and moist, and the ball, if any, unbroken.

"An adequate hole, wider and deeper than the spread of the roots.

"Proper setting: Set at the depth at which it formerly grew, and with roots well spread.

"Suitable soil as to moisture, texture, and fertility.

"Correct planting: The soil to be brought into close contact with the roots.

"Top pruning, to balance the loss of roots or other injury.

"Maintenance or adequate soil moisture until plant is reëstablished."

Another advantage of fall planting, according to August Kock, chief florist for the Garfield park conservatory, is that nurseries follow a practice of digging trees and shubs in the fall, even for spring sales and planting.

A Psychologist Makes a Mistake About Americans

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

If you want to enjoy nature with your children write to Mrs. Bevans for a list of books on the outdoor world, which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

From the lecture platform, not long ago, Dr. Alfred Adler voiced his hopelessness of "getting over" to mothers the big, underlying ideas of the new psychology of childhood. He thinks it is only through the schools that it can be done—and he emphasizes this point.

Now, teaching is one of the highest callings in the world. We already have some teachers who are a blessing to childhood. As time goes on I hope only the gifted and specially trained will teach.

But to give up the thought of reaching parents is, at least in this country, quite ridiculous. In Vienna, from which Adler comes, conditions are different. In fact, Europe's attitude toward and accomplishment in the field of parent education, taken as a whole, is far behind America's. I give you this statement not alone on my own, but as a quotation from a comparative investigation that has been made.

Europe is more tradition-bound than we are. So, in Vienna there are not the many avenues of approach to parents. But in America there are. So, to say in this country that the only way to spread the new gospel of child guidance is through the schools is absurd.

The schools do offer a wonderful opportunity. But they cannot do it all alone. I have seen schools of a rarely high type try to rehabilitate a child, but fail. Why? Because the home had failed.

If Dr. Adler could know America as I do, if he could read the thousands of letters from eager, intelligent, often deeply intellectual men and women who are hungry for the best and newest in child guidance—who often acknowledge a complete revolution of thought—he would not say, at least of America, that there is no way to reach the parents.

Sally Picks Letters Today for Theater Party; Tells Sunday

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Today's the day, boys and girls, on which the fate of your letters will be decided and my hundred young guests for our party at McVicker's theater to see "Animal Crackers" will be selected. I hope every letter reaches me in time to be read. You shall have to wait until Sunday, though, to discover whether or not you have been a successful writer for it is then that the list of winners will be printed.

There is an afternoon of fun to be looked forward to by the winning boys and girls, for the Four Marx Brothers provide entertainment as no one else can. And this picture, I think, is an especially good one.

Invitations have been mailed to the Jack and Jill winners for our party on Saturday, and you should receive them by tomorrow at the latest. If, by any chance, yours doesn't arrive, let me know at once. I don't want you to miss this party, because it's going to be such a good one.

Food Talk.

As golden as unadulterated sunshine, soft as down, light as a feather and delicious as any confection. That is perfect sponge cake, one of the important members of the butterless cake family.

Angel food is food for the gods, but it requires the whites of at least eight eggs, and there are the yolks which must be cared for in some other way. Lowlier sponge cake requires fewer eggs, takes care of both whites and yolks, and at the same time has many of the finer qualities of angel food.

Sponge cake, too, is easier for the inexperienced cook to make. Where we hear tales of angel food failure, no reports are available for "bad luck" with sponge cake.

In this hot weather especially the demand for a simply prepared, plain, wholesome dessert is ably met by sponge cake. The preparation is simple and the finished product may be used in a number of ways. Baked in a round tube or square tin, we have a cake that may be covered with any simple fluffy icing or with whipped cream and berries. Baked in layer tins, we can make Boston cream pies of as many varieties as we can think of fillings. Plain cream, cocoanut cream, chocolate, orange cream, lemon cream.

Cooked in a shallow rectangular pan or on a baking sheet, one can make a jelly roll. An interesting way, though not much used in the home, is to drop the batter in narrow strips about 4 inches long on a shallow pan for lady fingers, which have a long list of uses, and any ingenious person can devise new and unique ways of serving them.

Like angel food, sponge cake should always be baked in an ungreased pan. The delicate texture is not strong enough to support rising in a tin, the sides of which are slipping, due to oiling.

SPONGE CAKE.

1 cup cake flour.
1 cup fine granulated sugar.
5 eggs.
¼ teaspoon salt.
¾ teaspoon cream tartar.
3 tablespoons boiling water.
½ teaspoon vanilla.

Assemble the ingredients. Light the oven; set it at 300 degrees Farenheit. Do not oil the baking pans. Sift flour, then measure. Resift with half the sugar. Separate eggs. Beat yolks with rotary beater about 2 minutes, or until they are so stiff that the beater is difficult to turn. Add sugar in four portions. After each addition beat until mixture thickens. When all the sugar has been added, the mixture should be so stiff that it will hold its shape. Add boiling water, a tablespoon at a time, beating after each addition.

Let mixture cool. Sift salt and cream of tartar over surface of egg whites. Beat until stiff, but not until they have lost their shiny appearance. Again beat yolk mixture until very stiff. Add flour-sugar mixture in about five portions. Stir with a wooden spoon until dry ingredients are dampened, then beat a few seconds.

Repeat until all flour and sugar are used. Fold the egg whites and vanilla into yolk mixture carefully. Turn the batter into the pan immediately. Bake for about 1 hour. Turn upside down and cool in tins.

BAKED STUFFED PEPPERS.

1 cup canned or fresh corn
1 medium sized onion, chopped
½ cup finely diced celery
1 cup chopped tomato
Salt
Pepper
1 teaspoon sugar

Cut slice from top of each pepper and remove seeds. Combine the corn, onion, celery, and tomato and mix and sugar. Stuff the peppers with the mixture, dot with butter, and rethoroughly. Season with salt, pepper, place the caps.

Arrange in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes. Serve hot.

Organdy Shows a New Silhouette.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Organdy evening frocks simply stopped the big show that was the Grande Semaine of this Paris season and they are going right on carrying all before them at the casinos and dance clubs of the smart summer resorts.

Chanel first launched organdy as an evening material and it was eagerly taken up by all the other couturiers, who vied with each other in creating diverse forms of sophistication for this simple country cousin among textiles. Lanvin uses it in pastel shades over metal foundations; Louiseboulanger likes it in shaded dark tones and drapes it over lace; Chantal combines it with taffeta slips. Every one has his or her own particular version.

Chanel has made her organdy frocks of all tints and shapes, but she particularly favors white organdy trimmed with lace like the evening gown sketched above, which is Directoire in feeling.

Its scanty bodice is edged with lace and held up by narrow white organdy shoulder straps. It's closely fitted to just below the hips where the circular skirt, which finishes in a cascade at the right side, is mounted. Four graduated, flaring flounces of white lace lend a brand new line to the silhouette. The narrowest one at the top indicates a high waist line. The lowest and widest one hides the meeting of skirt and top. These flounces tie into lace bow knots at the right side. The skirt affects the new shorter length, stopping just at the ankles.

Silver slippers and wheat colored stockings are worn with this frock. The lace edge of the decolleté makes a necklace seem superfluous, but you may wear one or two diamond bracelets, if you have them.

ADMITS KILLING WOMAN TO PAY $82 AUTO DEBT

Man Forces Writing Two Checks to Him.

Carson City, Mich., Aug. 20.—(AP)—William H. Davis, 25, was arrested tonight on a charge of murdering Mrs. Doris Loree, who was shot to death in her home near here yesterday. Officers announced that he confessed. He formerly was employed by Mrs. Loree.

Davis, who lived half a mile from the Loree home, was quoted by Sheriff Francis M. Waldo as saying that he forced Mrs. Loree to write two checks to him and then shot her to prevent her stopping payment on them.

Owed $82 on Car.

One check for $200 was cashed at a bank in the village of Fenwick late yesterday. The other for $100 was found in Davis' possession, the sheriff said.

Davis told the sheriff and state police, they said, that he was prompted to commit the crime by a debt of $82 on his automobile, for which he was pressed by a finance company.

The prisoner was quoted as saying that he took his mother, father and sweetheart to Grand Rapids, where he made the payment on the car. When he returned tonight to his home he was arrested.

Mrs. Loree's body was found last night by relatives, who had gone to visit her.

Dies with Pen in Hand.

Her check book was open before her, and a pen was in her hand.

Davis, as a former employé, knew, officers said, that Mrs. Loree kept little money in the house and for that reason chose to force her to write a check.

Woman Says Chef Fired 6 Shots at Her and Fled

Mrs. Frances Denhner, 33 years old, a divorcee, of 3843 West End avenue, last night reported to the Fillmore police that as she was walking near Garfield park last night with her 11 year old daughter, Marion, six shots were fired at her by Chris Koulirs, chef in a restaurant at 1622 West Madison street. She said Koulirs was infatuated with her. Koulirs fled after emptying his revolver, the woman said, and the police could find no trace of him.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The oldest navy vessel in active service today was awarded the battle efficiency pennant for cruisers. This honor, given for excellence in gunnery, engineering, and communications, went to the Rochester, which was constructed thirty-seven years ago and later used as flagship for Rear Admiral Sampson in the Spanish-American war.

Italy Fights Anglo-French Rule of League of Nations

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 20.—Preparations are being made here for a strenuous fight at Geneva next month, when an effort will be made to insure wider distribution of bureaucratic powers in the permanent secretariat of the league of nations. The Mussolini government having backed the minority report on the reorganization of the secretariat, Italy is marshalling her arguments in the hope of winning the support of a majority of European countries.

The fact that Foreign Minister Dino Grandi has been conferring in Venice with Nicolas Titulesco, Rumanian minister to London, is regarded as significant here as Mr. Titulesco has been mentioned as a likely choice for the next president of the league.

Fight Anglo-French Control.

Italians claim that France and England are holding an inordinate amount of power in the league because of the constitution of the secretariat and that this will be increased if the present majority plan for its organization goes into effect. To center the control of the league in the hands of two countries through bureaucratic arrangements, they point out, threatens to defeat the whole purpose of the league.

Italy, curiously enough, also raises the specter of the league developing into a dictatorship. Her fear really is that the secretariat will be so arranged in favor of France that such proposals as revision of frontiers will never get consideration.

Suggest Five Assistant Secretaries.

Virginio Gayda, director of the Roman newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia, a paper which often expresses the government's policies, tonight presents Italy's case and alleges the necessity of having a council of five assistant secretaries to advise the secretary general. There are as yet no such persons as "citizens of the world," asserts Sig. Gayda, and any man occupying the position of secretary general is bound to be biased in favor of his own country.

The majority proposal, says Sig. Gayda, "tends to develop and consolidate into something like a political dictatorship the office of the league's general secretary.

"Such a dictatorship contrasts unfavorably with the spirit of the league. Such a contingency would mean that particular nations and not the whole league would be served. The man who is fortunate enough to dominate this formidable international organization is naturally going to think of and defend his country's needs, for we do not yet know of any abstract citizenship imbued with the world spirit.

GOV. ROOSEVELT IS FOR GENERAL BENCH INQUIRY

Healy, "Borrower" from Ewald, Resigns.

New York, Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt was reported tonight to have determined upon a general investigation into the manner of appointment and conduct upon the bench of all New York City magistrates as Attorney General Hamilton Ward's assistants gathered data for the inquiry the governor already has ordered into the Ewald case. A statement on his policy, it was understood, probably will be issued in Albany tomorrow.

Meanwhile in New York City, although both grand juries investigating charges that former Magistrate George F. Ewald paid more than $10,000 to Tammany politicians for his appointment in 1927 were at a standstill—one because it no longer had jurisdiction and the other because of recalcitrant witnesses—developments came rapidly.

Healy Resigns Job.

Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader of the Nineteenth assembly district, who borrowed $10,000 from Mrs. Bertha E. Ewald without interest or security just before her husband was elevated to the magistracy, resigned as first deputy commissioner of plant and structures.

In the forenoon Healy, Mrs. Ewald and Thomas T. Tommaney, chief clerk in Sheriff Farley's office and the man who arranged the loan, appeared before the federal grand jury investigating tax phases of the transaction and refused to repeat testimony they had already given before the New York county grand jury on the ground that it might incriminate and degrade them.

United States Attorney Tuttle promptly took all three before Federal Judge Burrows and asked that the court order them to answer or hold them in contempt. Judge Burrows reserved decision and directed that briefs be submitted by both sides tomorrow.

Five Children Homeless; All Their Elders in Cells

West Plains, Mo., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—With their father in the penitentiary, their mother and grandfather in jail and their maternal grandmother out on bond, five children of Mrs. Rose Eillison were brought before the Howell county Juvenile court Tuesday to be taken from the custody of their parents and placed in the legal custody of County Welfare Officer A. E. Bridge.

Judge Will H. D. Green deferred action in the case until Monday, pending word from relatives who may come here to adopt some of the children.

Today's round can be considered as little more than a warm up as the scores have no bearing on the championship play which will begin tomorrow. Hagen and Farrell would have been just as well off had they taken 84, for that was what qualified. There were 118 places to be filled and only 134 were required to play in the preliminary round. So all of today's play accomplished no more than the elimination of 13 contestants, as those who were tied for 118th place brought the total number of qualifiers to 121.

Thirty-two more who earned places in the championship fold by virtue of their showing in last year's event will join the battle tomorrow. Then the real fight will begin, with Tommy Armour defending his crown against the assaults of Horton Smith, Gene Sarazen, Jock Hutchison, the two Espinosa, and many other consistent campaigners.

There can be no doubt now that Hagen means business, for, as a background to his 67 of today, he has the course record of 66, which he set yesterday. For the first time since 1914 Hagen is without an important title.

Only Hagen, Farrell, and a few other topnotchers have shown what they really can do on this course. Horton Smith, Armour, and the others have been shooting practice rounds, for which they kept no score.

Starts with an Eagle.

An eighteen hole round will be played tomorrow, another one on Friday, and then all but the low 64 will drop out. The reduced field will shoot 36 holes on Saturday and the player with the lowest 72 hole score will be the western open champion.

Hagen began his pace setting round today by whaling a long brassie shot to the first green and dropping a 25 foot putt for an eagle. He holed a 20 footer on the second for a birdie and then shot par all the way to the turn, which he reached in 32.

On the eleventh, he laid his approach six feet from the pin and putted for a birdie. He made another on the twelfth by reaching the green with a drive and a brassie.

Hagen went one over par for the first and only time on the thirteenth when his tee shot landed to the left of the green and he required a chip and two putts to get down. But he birdied the next with a ten foot putt and again was five under par. On the last hole, it seemed that he would fail to beat Farrell's 68, for his second shot went off the fairway and landed directly behind a tree. But Hagen pitched over the top, chipped to within six feet of the pin and holed out for a par five.

Those exempt from today's round were:

Attendance Up, Betting Off at Hawthorne Track

Attendance records may be broken at Hawthorne's summer racing season, which ends Saturday, if the crowds continue to grow for the next three days, John C. Schank, president of the Hawthorne association, said last night.

"Our daily crowds have averaged about 12,000 and the Saturday attendance has been at the 20,000 mark. We are just about even with the record we hung up last year," Mr. Schank said at the close of yesterday"s program.

"Every day for more than a week the crowds have gradually increased," he continued. "If this keeps up through Saturday, we have a chance to go ahead of last year's mark."

The betting is from 20 to 30 per cent lighter than last year, Mr. Schank declared. "The big players, the fellows who a year ago were wagering hundreds of dollars on a race, seem to have been carried away with the stock market crash," he said.

Mr. Schank did not know what the attendance mark had been at the other tracks which have operated in Chicago this year. "But they won't be much higher than us on a general average for the meeting," he declared.

McGuire and Dawson Lead Antlers' Golf

Warren Dawson of Glen Oak and M. J. McGuire, club champion, tied for low gross at the Pow Wow of the Antlers club yesterday, each shooting 42—40—82. Par on this 6,897 course is 74. Dawson won the playoff on the second extra hole by sinking a ten foot putt for a birdie. Third place went to R. Kearsley, with 84.

A. B. Maiwurm's 86—19—67 won low net, E. F. Fitzgerald was second with 98—29—69, and N. Harris third with 100—30—70. A field of 150 were out. Scores:

MARTIE FLYNN'S DASH IN STRETCH BEATS MY DANDY

Wins $5,000 Illinois Handicap by Neck.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Martie Flynn, Stuyvesant Peabody's son of Sweep On-Rosa Lee, captured the first running of the Illinois Owners' handicap, worth $5,000, at Hawthorne yesterday.

BOB FINNERTY.

Coming with a terrific burst of speed after heading into the stretch, he conquered My Dandy, the early leader, a sixteenth from home and hung on long enough to win by a neck. Who Win, the good 3 year old in the stable of Ald. John J. Coughlin, was two lengths back of the two leaders, but landed third money. Golden Prince was fourth.

Martie Flynn was ridden by Jockey Bob Finnerty, who has developed into quite a stake race star this season. The Peabody color bearer ran close up all the way, but when the run down the stretch started he had two jobs to accomplish.

Leaves Golden Prince Behind.

First he had to shake off Golden Prince, which had run head and head with him back of My Dandy for the first three-quarters of a mile. Martie did that just after he had started the run down the straightaway. He whipped Golden Prince so thoroughly that the Prince dropped back suddenly and soon was out of all contention.

Then Martie took after My Dandy, which was leading him by two lengths and apparently running easier than any other horse in the race.

It wasn't an easy job to catch up with this fleet fellow from Belleville which was the favorite. But Martie wore him down stride by stride and when he got his head in front showed more gameness than in any other race he has run here this year. Martie kept busily at his job and while My Dandy tried to stage a belated rally he was run out and could not get up.

Martie Pays $7.92.

Martie found heavy backing just at post time and in the mutuels paid $7.92 to win, $4.06 to place, and $3.18 to show. My Dandy was $4.30 to place and $3.20 to show. Who Win paid $4.98 to show. Martie Flynn ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:44 3-5 which was just four-fifths of a second off the track record.

The race had a gross value of $5,800 and was worth $4,050 to Owner Peabody. It is understood this feature will be renewed next year and increased in value.

My Dandy was not the only favorite to fall during the afternoon. Edward R. Bradley's Beaming Over was the shortest priced favorite of the day, but Galaday trimmed her by five lengths and was laughing back at her all through the stretch run of the Berwyn purse.

Takes Early Lead, Keeps It.

Galaday rushed to the front soon after the field left the barrier and was never headed, while Beaming Over always ran second. Galaday drew away from Beaming Over and the others all the way down the stretch and was in the lap of Jockey Marcum throughout the late stages.

In the betting Galaday paid $9.40 to win. It is the first good race the daughter of Sir Galahad III.-Sunstep has shown in Chicago this year, although she was a great star while racing here as a two year old last season. She ran the mile and 70 yards in 1:42 1-5, a second slower than the track record, but if urged hard in the late stages might have stepped over the route a second or so faster.

LENGTH OF HOME RUNS.

WHENEVER a contributor asks us a baseball question upon which we are hazy or which requires going far back into the tomes for reference, we summon to our aid Harry P. Edwards, statistician of the American league. Brother Edwards was a baseball writer for so long he remembers almost everything, but, better still, he jotted down for reference most of those happenings.

Therefore when Helper C. A. T. asked the longest home run, what was easier than to consult Sir Henry, who replied: "Few home runs have been measured. I can tell you, however, about two home runs players allege are the longest they ever saw. A year ago Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics hit a ball over the double deck left field stand at Shibe park.

"The stand is 350 feet from the plate. It is 60 feet deep. The street is 40 feet across. Foxx's drive not only cleared the stand and street but struck on top of a house and bounded to the street, having an actual carry of 467 feet without any allowance for height.

"During the present season Ruth hit a homer over the right field wall at Shibe park. The wall is 331 feet from the plate. The ball carried past the wall, street, two story apartment house opposite and landed on top of a house facing on the second street, an actual carry through the air of 481 feet. Wildcat spectators on the roof marked the spot where the ball struck and the distance was measured the following day."

Mixing Golf and Homework Is Easy: Just Ask Mrs. Zech

The woman golfer who has been bunkered by the idea that to attain proficiency in her game meant the sacrifice of her interest in her home and her family needn't worry over that mental hazard any longer.

For championships and domesticity can go hand in hand, according to Mrs. Lillian Zech, women's state golf champion, who is defending her title in the state tournament at Lincoln park. Mrs. Zech yesterday pointed to her own career as an example of the ease with which golf and home may be mixed to the benefit of both.

Advises Tournament Play.

In fact she recommended that the woman golfer go further than the daily or semi-weekly round of golf and take up tournament play, both as a means of improving her golf game and of developing a sense of sportsmanship and fair play. Mrs. Zech spoke as an authority, combining as she does the task of holding several golf championships and of being a doting mother to an 11 year old son, who shows promise of rivaling his mother as a golfer. Among the titles she holds are the championships in the women's division of THE TRIBUNE public links tournament and the Miami Beach championship.

It was tournament play which brought Mrs. Zech to the peak of her game, she said. Before she started playing in championship tournaments, she lacked the steadiness which she has developed through many years of competition with large galleries looking on. Once she had conquered her "gallery fright," however, she began to show the improvement which led her into the championship ranks.

Fans Are Her Friends.

"I always think of galleries as my friends, now," Mrs. Zech said. "I never play against my opponent. I merely strive for a low score, and if it is low enough I win.

"It takes women much longer to lose their gallery shyness than it does a man, because, I guess, we are such vain creatures, but tournaments are a greater inducement to women to play golf than to men, as there is

Mary Sager Beats Mrs. Demaree in State Golf Meet

Miss Mary Sager of Lincoln park defeated Mrs. A. Demaree, also of Lincoln park, 3 and 2 in the most spectacular match of the second round of the women's state golf tournament on the Lincoln park course yesterday. Her victory sent Miss Sager into the quarter finals, where she will meet Mrs. Lillian Zech, the defending champion, today.

Miss Sager had defeated Mrs. J. Galavan, 7 and 6, in a first round match on Tuesday.

Mrs. Zech advanced to the quarter-finals by eliminating Mrs. Rose Long of Jackson park, 7 and 6. Mrs. Long failed to win a hole, and halved only five of the first twelve.

Miss S. Lee, unattached, a contestant in first flight play, has won both of her matches by scores of 9 and 8, and has established herself as one of the favorites in her first appearance in tournament competition.

An added attraction of the tourney was the approaching and putting contest, which was won by Mrs. Zech with Miss Ann Conroy of Jackson park a close second.

Mrs. L. Zech, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. R. Long, Jackson, 7 and 6.
Mrs. M. Sager, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. J. Galavan, Lincoln, 3 and 2.
Mrs. M. C. Lubin, Jackson, defeated Mrs. V. S. Cooper, Lincoln, 3 and 2.
Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. R. F. Albery, Pistakee Heights, 5 and 4.
Mrs. R. Marshall, Marquette, defeated Mrs. N. McDonald, Jackson, 7 and 6.
Mrs. D. Fitzgerald, Marquette, defeated Mrs. T. Langer, 4 and 3.
Miss M. Rosslein, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. M. Aldrich, unattached, 6 and 5.
Mrs. B. Hoffman, Lincoln, defeated Miss E. Sullivan, unattached, 6 and 5.

Mrs. Zech vs. Mrs. Sager.
Mrs. M. C. Lubin vs. Mrs. C. N. Wheeler.
Mrs. R. Marshall vs. Mrs. D Fitzgerald.
Miss R. Rosslein vs. Mrs. B. Hoffman.

HIRE ATHLETES? NOT AT SCHOOLS WITH TRADITION

Romantic Attraction and Honor Are Lures.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—A young man named Brown Nicholson, who takes his opinions and his responsibilities seriously, has been addressing the Lions' club of Macon, Ga., on the subject of professionalism in intercollegiate football. This is the first football story of the season, so far as my observation goes, and it is rather abrupt of Mr. Nicholson to say that the Mercer college football team must be hired on a strictly professional basis.

Still, as president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Macon, this young man insists that Mercer college, which is a religious institution, must hire mercenaries to play football and, in hiring them, must outbid the University of Georgia and Georgia Tech.

I do not know exactly what a junior chamber of commerce is, but from the name I infer that it is an offshoot of the senior chamber of commerce and somewhat similar to those organizations of precocious journalistic pests who infest the office of the leading newspapers in the high minor leagues around the country, every now and again, purporting to take over the responsibilities of the editors and staffs.

Babble to Hear Voices.

If my judgment as to the character and responsibility of junior chambers of commerce is correct, the members are only apprentices to life and experience, and they babble their speeches only to test their voices. Certainly their friends, the incipient journalists, are not up to much as journalists and require the most attentive nursing during their occasional days of make believe, lest they miss the principal news of the day or involve their patient hosts in libel actions of tremendous size.

It happens that when Mr. Nicholson was addressing the Lions of Macon, Ga., I was interviewing Frank Wandle, the man with the protuberant abdomen and the black satchel, who used to go jogging onto the football fields of many a stadium, east and west, as trainer of the West Point football team to stick the injured cadets together with courtplaster.

I asked him what he thought of any school so poor in tradition, honor and romantic attraction that the football players actually must be hired to go there and do their doings, and he said:

Typical West Pointer.

"It may not cover the case fully, but I think Firpo Schmidt was a typical West Point football player, and I do not believed he could have been hired to play football for any college in the world. He made up his mind to go to the military academy as a kid when he was to all intents and purposes an orphan and a public charge in a public institution. You could have offered him a thousand dollars a week to go to Yale or Harvard or Mercer, but he would have turned you down because he had set his ambition to become a West Point cadet and an officer in the army.

"As a child Firpo was entrusted to an institution in New York, and when he was old enough to stand physical labor he was sent out to work on a farm in Iowa. After a year or so of this Firpo became convinced that he never could qualify for the West Point examination under this farmer because he was not receiving the schooling that had been promised him when he took the job.

"So Firpo quit and returned to the asylum in New York to wait for another job. After a while he was sent out to another farmer and this one was all right. He kept his part of the contract, and when the time came for Firpo's entrance he had enough education to make the grade.

"One night after a game in New York we were taking the cadets to the

"TOUGH, BUT—"

"They're tough, but we can lick 'em, boys." That's the way Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs feels about the four game series with the Giants.

Giants Lead Cubs, 9 to 6, in Season Series

Having disposed of the Brooklyn Robins as an immediate threat to their chances of winning the National league pennant, the Cubs will open another battle in defense of first place at Wrigley field today, when the New York Giants appear for the first of a four game series. At the end of the troublesome Philadelphia series last night the Cubs were leading the Giants by a margin of three games.

The Giants hold a three game margin over the Cubs in the fifteen contests in which they have met this season, having won nine while dropping six to Chicago.

If statistics count, the Giants will enter the series with a slight edge over the Cubs, both in batting and fielding. The Giants are batting .321 to the Cubs' .313. They hold a two point margin in fielding averages with .973 to .971. The two teams as they will line up today, however, are more evenly matched at the plate, with the Cubs averaging about two points more than the Giants.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Those paradoxical Phillies yesterday smacked out no fewer than five homers as their comment on Manager J. Vince McCarthy's foxy plan to skin by with a third string pitcher in the final game of the 72 inning Chicago-Philadelphia series. The score was: Phillies, 10; Cubs, 8.

Of course, J. Vince's scheme, which was worth trying at that, was to give his first line throwers a rest in preparation for the big Giants series which opens today at Wrigley field. How was he to know that Lynn Nelson was going to pitch four homers and Bob Osborn one? And if he had known that his third choice, Al Shealy, was going to be an airtight performer, he could have started Al. But how was he to know that?

Hurst was the first to hit a homer. He did it to start the second inning when the Cubs were leading, 4 to 0. Davis, who had two homers for the day, knocked his first one in the second inning, also.

Big Home Run Inning.

But the seventh was the big homer inning. O'Doul slammed Nelson's first pitch into the right field stands and Lynn's second pitch of the inning was a fast one which Mr. Klein slapped to the same place for his No. 30 of the year. Then Osborn went in. Bob gradually warmed up to his home run pitching. He walked Hurst and held Whitney and Thevenow to mere singles before he buzzed his homer ball up to Davis. This homer was the most productive of all, for it scored three runs. It would have scored four, but Hurst previously was foolish enough to try to reach third from first on Whitney's single in front of Cuyler, and was thrown out.

After Davis' second homer Shealy went in and fanned Benge and Brickell, and then held the enemy hitless for two more innings.

Mr. McCarthy's pitcher resting technique did not cost the Cubs any of their pennant race advantage, for they remained three games ahead of the Giants, who come to town this morning. And they gained a half game on the third place Robins.

Blake to Face Giants.

The three game margin over the Giants means that the New York club will have to sweep their four game series here to leave Chicago in first place. Blake, Malone, Root, and Bush will oppose this idea in the order named. Walker, Mitchell, Hubbell, and Fitzsimmons, three lefties and one right hander, will, in the order named, see what they can do in behalf of the New Yorkers. Reducing the prospects a bit, it may be said that Blake will oppose Walker in the opener today.

With all the home run hitting going on yesterday you might have thought Hack Wilson would get all stirred up to the point of executing his 44th of the year for a new National league record and a tie with Babe Ruth. But the game was an added starter and only 8,000 could rearrange their plans so's to get out to the park. Though Hack tried his best, the inspiration wasn't sufficient. And, besides, think how much more fun it will be to ring up the new record against his old team, the Giants.

Bruins Pile Up 17 Hits.

Nothing short of the terrific home run barrage would have beaten the Cubs yesterday, for they made 17 hits four more than the Phils got. But Cuyler's triple in the ninth was the highest calibered shot for the McCarthys, and there were only three doubles, one by Kelly, one by Nelson, and one by Dan Taylor.

The way things started off you'd have thought the Cubs were fixing to score a million. Blair led off the Chicago attack with a single back of first base and went to second when Thompson threw past Hurst. English flied to Klein, but Cuyler singled to right scoring Blair. Wilson walked. Then D. Taylor singled to center, scoring Cuyler and putting Wilson on third. Kelly doubled, Wilson scoring and D. Taylor stopping at third. D. Taylor scored while Thevenow was throwing

BREAKING 100'S A DREAM FOR HALF TRIBUNE GOLFERS

Other Half Shoots Better, but All Have Fun.

Score cards for the fifth round of THE TRIBUNE golf tournament are already coming in from golfers in Chicago and from those playing vacation rounds on distant courses. The fifth round may be played anytime before a week from tomorrow. All cards must be in the hands of the golf editor by next Friday evening.

The tournament is unique in that under the system of pairing players shooting similar scores, everyone has a chance to win his match.

Many contestants have asked what is the relative percentage of duffers and good golfers in THE TRIBUNE tourney. Here are the figures, showing the percentage in graduated groups:

Scores from 70 to 80, 6 per cent; from 80 to 90, 16 per cent; from 90 to 100, 28 per cent; from 100 to 110, 37 per cent; over 110, 13 per cent.

Thus it may be seen that while there are a number of excellent golfers in the meet, half the group is made up of players above the 100 mark.

Following are the remaining fifth round pairings:

WHITE SOX OPEN CELLAR SERIES IN BOSTON TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 20.—In the process of getting along toward the conclusion of the season, the White Sox will spend the next four days in the region of culture and unpainted houses. During the four days they hope to play as many games with the Red Sox, and they also hope to take the majority of the engagements as a means of avoiding residence in the American league cellar. Just now the Red Sox are occupying the quarters, but they claim to be dissatisfied.

For the first of the series, tomorrow, Manager Donie Bush will pitch Tommy Thomas against the scarlet hose.

The eastern tour thus far has netted only two victories in twelve starts. Both were contributed by Faber. Thus, even if the Sox could win four here and follow with five at Cleveland, they still would be under the .500 per cent mark since leaving home. After the Cleveland visit, the Chicagoans will go back to their own yard, there to pass the last few weeks of the season.

There were the Hurst and Davis homers in the second inning, which made the score 4 to 2, and the visitors iled it up with runs in the fourth and fifth.

In the sixth the Cubs made the score 6 to 4 in their favor when English and Cuyler singled and came home on D. Taylor's double.

Each club scored in the sixth. Then came that home run festival which gave the Phils a 10 to 7 lead. In the eighth English struck out and got chased for sassing Umpire Scott. Then Cuyler tripled and scored on Wilson's sacrifice fly. That ended the scoring for the day.

CARDS SCORE 2 IN 7TH; DEFEAT GIANTS, 5 TO

Fitzsimmons' and Hogan Errors Costly.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Fitzsimmons' wildness in the seventh inning today cost him a chance for his ninth straight victory and lost the New York Giants an opportunity to make a big gain in the National league pennant race, as the Cardinals won the final game of the series, 5 to 4.

Fitzsimmons made a wild pitch in the seventh which allowed the tying run to score and the Cardinals pushed over the winning tally in the same inning when Catcher Hogan dropped a throw. Hogan tried to block Jimmy Wilson away from the plate as he scored on Adams' grounder, but the Cards' catcher catapulted himself against Hogan, who lost the ball on the collision.

REDS BEAT ROBINS TWICE

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Reds broke their long losing streak today by extending Brooklyn's string of defeats and sent the Robins deeper into third place in the National league standing with a pair of 2 to 1 defeats.

Benny Frey got the best of Adolfo Luque in the first game, holding the Robins to five hits, while Cincinnati made a little better use of seven blows. The second contest was a drawn battle between Ray Kolp and Ray Phelps until the ninth inning, when Red Lucas came in as a pinch hitter with two on base and doubled to drive in Heilman with the winning run.

CARDS SCORE 2 IN 7TH; DEFEAT GIANTS, 5 TO 4

Fitzsimmons' and Hogan's Errors Costly.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Fred Fitzsimmons' wildness in the seventh inning today cost him a chance for his ninth straight victory and lost the New York Giants an opportunity to make a big gain in the National league pennant race, as the Cardinals won the final game of the series, 5 to 4.

Fitzsimmons made a wild pitch in the seventh which allowed the tying run to score and the Cardinals put over the winning tally in the same inning when Catcher Hogan dropped a throw. Hogan tried to block Jimmy Wilson away from the plate as he soared on Adams' grounder, but the Cards' catcher catapulted himself against Hogan, who lost the ball in the collision.

REDS BEAT ROBINS TWICE.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Reds broke their long losing streak today by extending Brooklyn's series of defeats and sent the Robins deeper into third place in the National league standing with a pair of 2 to 1 defeats.

Benny Frey got the best of old Adolfo Luque in the first game, holding the Robins to five hits, while Cincinnati made a little better use of even blows. The second contest was a drawn battle between Ray Kolp and Ray Phelps until the ninth inning, when Red Lucas came in as a pinch hitter with two on base and doubled to drive in Heilman with the winning run.

HITCHCOCK TEAM BEATS REDS, 19-16

Locust Valley, N. Y., Aug. 20.—(AP)—In a ragged but spectacular polo match Capt. Tommy Hitchcock led his reorganized Whites to victory by 19 to 16 today over the Reds in the latest test for the international team played at the Piping Rock club.

Since the Reds benefited from a seven goal handicap concession, the actual margin of the winning forces was 19 to 9, but, except in the fourth and eighth chukkers, Hitchcock's quartet was played to a standstill by the hard riding and fighting reserve forces.

In these two periods, however, the Whites, with W. (Rube) Williams, the Texas cowpuncher, replacing Earle Hopping for the first time, looked like the best combination yet put together in the test matches. Eric Pedley, after a letdown last Sunday, regained his sharpshooting eye and led the scoring with nine goals. The lineup:

WHITES [19].	REDS [16].
E. Pedley.....No. 1	G. H. Bostwick
H. W. Williams...No. 2	E. A. Hopping
T. Hitchcock Jr...No. 3	Capt. Smith

theater. We were short one ticket and the crowd drew lots to see who would have to sit in the lobby or Central park or simply do the best he could to pass the evening. Firpo Schmidt drew the blank, but when the squad went to the show on Broadway that evening, Firpo went with us. He had no ticket, but he fell in as the crowd went past the ticket taker and got into the house all right.

"During the show Earl Carroll came by and asked him why he wasn't sitting with the squad. Firpo said he wasn't on the squad and didn't rate a seat, but Carroll said, 'Well, come on with me, we will look at the show in back.'

"Of course Firpo told our young men all about the way Carroll ran his show and one thing and another about the girls. That season he got a lot of letters from ladies in the show who met him that night. But Firpo just minded his business.

Entertained by Wealthy Family.

"Then, in his last spring at West Point, he went to Philadelphia with us as a member of the lacrosse team. After the game he came to me and asked permission to spend the night at the home of some friends. I said, 'Who are they?' He said, 'Well, she's out here.' So I said, 'You'd better introduce me.' I was thinking of that night in New York, but when Firpo did introduce me, the girl turned out to be the daughter of one of the rich old Philadelphia families and her parents were there. So I O. K.'d the visit and a few days later word spread around school that Firpo was engaged to an heiress.

"It looked soft for Firpo, but, when June week came, here I met him at the Point walking down the line with a little blonde girl, with his shoulders way back and a mile wide grin on his face.

"'Frank,' he said, 'I want you to have the pleasure of meeting the O. A. O.'

"'The one and only?' I said.

"'That's right,' Firpo said, and he introduced me to a girl from the country that he had been in love with all the time. They got married after graduation. Soon he went flying to Mexico City with two sergeants and an observer in a big bomber. The machine caught fire, but Firpo kept it going until the two sergeants and the observer could take the air with parachutes. They landed all right, but Firpo burned up in the wreck, leaving the O. A. O. with a baby girl."

COURT DECLARES PINCHOT WINNER IN PENNSYLVANIA

Nomination for Governor Finally Legalized.

Four justices of the state Supreme court ended months of litigations and political turmoil by affirming the decision of the Common Pleas court of Luzerne county, legalizing the 60,000 votes of that county.

Charge Ballots Mutilated.

Attorneys for Francis Shunk Brown, Pinchot's principal opponent for the nomination, had made an appeal, which, if granted, would have given the nomination to Brown by 6,000 votes. This appeal, argument on which was heard by the Supreme court yesterday, was based on the perforation of paper ballots cast in Luzerne at the May primary. Counsel for Brown maintained the perforations, ordered by the county court in an effort to prevent fraud, constituted mutilation and therefore the ballots were illegal and should be thrown out. Pinchot carried the entire state by 20,000 plurality and Luzerne county by 26,000.

Reason Held Insufficient.

Although holding that the Luzerne court had exceeded its legal powers by ordering the perforations, the Supreme court found that this was not sufficient reason for throwing out the paper ballots.

Never before in the history of the state had the verdict of a primary depended upon the decision of a court.

Anticipating a possible reversal of the lower court, Pinchot aids had preempted the Square Deal party title, and on this the former governor would have campaigned had Brown won the nomination. This title will not now be used and Pinchot will campaign solely as the Republican candidate.

MANY OFFICIALS AT FUNERAL FOR SENATOR JOYCE

State Senator John T. Joyce was buried in All Saints cemetery yesterday after a solemn requiem high mass had been celebrated in Holy Name cathedral. Public officials, judges, and fellow legislators attended the services. The body was escorted to the cemetery by a police motorcycle detail and was met at the grave by a firing squad from Taylor post of the American Legion, which fired a salute.

Senator Joyce died suddenly Saturday from poisoning, and a chemist's analysis of the poison is expected to be ready by the end of the week. His death came the day after he had appeared before the grand jury, supposedly telling the story of alleged election terrorism in the 42d ward last primary day. He made the charges before County Judge Jarecki in the Maguire-Case ouster hearings, and is believed to have elaborated upon them before the grand jury.

Active pallbearers were: Ald. Dorsey R. Crowe and Ald. William V. Pacelli; State Representatives Lawrence C. O'Brien, E. W. Turner, and John R. McSweeney, and Michael Durso.

New Idea in Rent Cutting.

Following the downward trend in commodity prices, the realty world yesterday gave an exhibition in what can be done in price cutting when Louis C. Wagner voluntarily reduced the rental in a ninety-nine year lease on property at 732-40 East 63d street to Albert B. Anderson and Perry K. Gilson, lessees.

The lease is dated Aug. 1, 1923, and calls for the following rental: $8,000 for one year, then $8,500 for one year, $9,000 for the next year, and $9,500 for the fourth year. From 1927 to the end of the term the annual rental is placed at $10,000. There is now due and owing, up to Aug. 15, 1930, the sum of $15,000, according to the county records.

Mr. Wagner, the lessor, has reduced the rental for a five year period to $6,000 a year, with provision that the $15,000 due be paid over this period in monthly installments of $250, with interest at 6 per cent. At the end of five years the annual rental shall revert to $10,000.

The twenty-four flats at 1421 Birchwood avenue were given as part payment. Le Roy V. Penwell was attorney for Mr. Michalove. Pritzker & Pritzker represented the corporation in a legal way.

FINANCIAL NOTES

The refunding operation which will relieve the City of Bergen, Norway, of an 8 per cent obligation contracted ten years ago is being carried out today through an offering of $2,680,000 thirty year 5 per cent external sinking fund bonds by A. Iselin & Co. and Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc. Subscriptions have been received in excess of the amount of this offering. The bonds dua Dec. 1, 1960, are priced at 96½ and accrued interest, yielding 5.23 per cent. As of the proceeds of this issue the City of Bergen will retire on Dec. 1 at a price of 110 the outstanding portion of a 25 year 8 per cent issue, of which $4,000,000 were originally marketed here.

Wall street advices say the Nickel Plate railroad soon will offer a $26,000,000 bond issue. A $12,000,000 piece of financing for the Cincinnati terminal also is in prospect.

A banking syndicate headed by the Harris Trust and Savings bank was the high bidder for $13,548,000 City and County of Denver 4¼ per cent water bonds, bidding $103,397, or about 4.01 per cent basis.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Some Consolation.

Although railroad shares have suffered considerably in recent weeks and still lack the high favor in which they usually are held, their loss since the first of the year do not seem large when compared with the decline in net railway operating revenue. Leading railroad stocks are about 6 per cent. below the prices ruling at the first of the year, while their six months' earnings are about a third less than for the same period of last year.

Auto Competition.

Recent price cuts in the automobile industry would tend to indicate that some companies are making a special drive for new business. It will be interesting to note whether this action will stimulate any new buying of consequence. Wall street is of the opinion that the importance of the reductions will be to shift buying from one make of car to another. If this proves to be the case, half-year statements which have made their appearance may be of small relative value as a guide to investment values of the various automobile stocks.

Strong Sponsorship.

A stock favored by strong sponsorship of late is Consolidated Smelter and Mining. The broadening of the company activities has been obscured by the sharp decline in metal prices and the consequent anticipation of lower earnings. Recently the company has expended large sums in the development of its Sullivan mines, the acquisition of interests in other properties, the development of a chemical industry and the utilization of water power resources.

Slows Up Plans.

The unsatisfactory condition of the metal markets is understood to have materially slowed up development plans of the Hudson Bay Mining company during recent months. Particularly is this said to be true of the company's operations in copper, which are understood to have been reduced to meet conditions attendant upon the steadily declining market.

UTILITIES LEAD IN PURCHASES ON GOTHAM'S CURB

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Speculative operators in the curb market today concentrated on extending the advance and met with a moderate degree of success.

Utility issues continued to attract the greatest portion of the buying, and the net gains of the group ranged from a small fraction to 1 and 2 points at the close. While harboring soft spots, a miscellaneous group of industrials showed strength, with Translux and Durant Motors the featured shares in the low price securities.

There were intermittent flurries of selling throughout the session, but the offerings were well absorbed, and the trend from shortly after the opening was upward. Some profit taking appeared in the final hour, but did not seriously impair the gains. Trading was moderate, with total transactions approximating 375,900 shares.

Electric Bond and Share extended its gain on the present advance 1⅞ and at one time crossed 82. American Gas and Electric was depressed about 2 points during the early trading, but finished 1 point net higher. American and Foreign Power warrants rose 1¼ in sympathy with the stock. Niagara Hudson Power fluctuated narrowly, finishing ¼ above the previous final.

Chesapeake & Ohio Shows $3,119,825 July Income

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, the first eastern trunk line to report the result of July operations, today reported net operating income for the month, including the Hocking Valley, of $3,119,825, compared with $3,568,336 for the corresponding month last year.

RAILROAD NOTES

Central Railroad of New Jersey has asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $1,166,000 of 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates, proceeds from which will be used to purchase 10 locomotives, 25 passenger coaches, and 5 combination cars. Certificates will be sold at 101.329 of par and accrued interest to International Manhattan company and R. W. Presstrich & Co.

Total railroad financing for the first six months of 1930 amounted to $819,284,600, of which $66,055,600, or 81 per cent, was accomplished through the sale of stock and the balance by bonds and notes. All of the stock financing represented new capital, whereas 77.1 per cent of the bonds sold represented new capital and the balance went for refunding purposes. New financing by the roads in the first half of the present year aggregated more than in any similar period during the last five years. In the first half of 1929 new financing amounted to $451,248,700.

Pennsylvania	141,944	172,568
Missouri Pacific	31,573	35,661
Missouri-Kansas-Texas	9,970	12,270

The contract for construction of a new Chesapeake and Ohio railway tunnel in the Allegheny mountains near Covington has been awarded. The project will cost $1,000,000.

NEW YORK BONDS FAIL TO RESPOND TO EASIER MONEY

Second Grade Rails Make Showing.

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Easier money rates failed to stimulate activity in the listed bond market today, and high grade issues fluctuated narrowly in dull trading. The greatest improvement was among second grade railroad bonds and some inactive issues which have a good rating.

The buying was for straight bond issues of domestic corporations, and, despite the firm trend of stocks, most of the active convertibles and warrant bonds sagged at the close. The foreign market was quiet, and United States governments were neglected.

The volume of trading fell below the previous days of the week, which have been nothing exceptional. Call money dropped on the New York Stock exchange at 2 per cent after holding at 2½ since Aug. 11, while time money held unchanged.

Help Inactive Issues.

Improvement in railroad obligations helped many issues which are more or less inactive. Bonds selling at new 1930 peaks included Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisiana general 5s, Brunswick and Western 4s, Canadian National Railways 4½s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Grand Trunk, Canadian 6s, New York and Connecticut 4s, New York Central debenture 4s, Wabash, Des Moines divisional 4s and Kentucky Central 4s. Scioto Valley and New England 4s reappeared in the trading to rise 2⅝ to a new peak. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s dropped 6 points, Cuba Railway 5s and 6s, 4 and 3, respectively, all slipped to new lows.

American Telephone bonds were active in the utility group and sold slightly under their previous highs, ruling steady. Brooklyn Union Elevated 5s and Pacific Telephone 5s advanced 1 point to new 1930 highs. Detroit Edison collateral 5s were active and firm.

Some Weak Bonds.

Fisk Rubber 8s, White Sewing Machine 6s, and Lehigh Valley Coal 5s, were soft spots in the industrial group. Union Oil 6s were strong, gaining a point, and Childs 5s made another new high. Amusement warrant bonds were weak, Loews 6s and Pathe 7s receding 1¾ points each.

Renewed interest was displayed in French 7½s, and the bond sold within a small fraction of its recent new high. Belgium 7s were active and firm, Poland 7s, German 5½s, and Japan 5½s were in demand.

Thompson Sales in July Register Slight Decline

The John R. Thompson company today reported July sales of $1,199,498, compared with $1,301,427 for July last year. For seven months sales were $8,801,497, against $9 159,427 for the corresponding period of last year. During July the company had four fewer stores in operation than a year ago.

COTTON NEWS BULLISH

Cotton markets were stronger and presented liberal activity with higher prices on buying by trade interests and shorts. Weather reports were mixed, there being rain in some localities where needed, and none in others. The weekly crop report by the government indicated crop deterioration in sections and some improvement in others. It is claimed by some specialists that rains are too late to do much good. Prices moved up around 20 to 25 points and met hedging sales on the advance, which with profit taking toward the last carried prices down with the close at intermediate figures. Net gains in Chicago were 12 to 15 points, with other markets up 9 to 17 points. Spots in New York gained 10 points, reaching 11.35c; New Orleans advanced 15 points to 10.85c, with Galveston 11.05c, and Houston 10.95c. Liverpool closed 1 to 2 points higher with spot sales of 4,000 bales. Prices follow:

ESTIMATE 1930 FARM INCOME AS 12% LOWER

Low Prices Offset Reduction.

BY O. A. MATHER.

That the situation of the American farmer this year is not much worse than last year and is relatively more favorable than the plight of industrial workers is suggested in various data appearing yesterday. Grain prices rallied and live stock sold at the highest prices in about a year.

In spite of the lower grain prices, compared with last year, the Standard Statistics company estimated that the American farm income, taken as a whole, this year will show a reduction of only about 12 per cent from 1929. It was pointed out that this reduction would be less than half the drop experienced in the 1921 depression period. Therefore, it concluded that the decline in farm income should not prove an insurmountable obstacle to trade recovery.

This latter deduction appears sound. If farm income proves only 12 per cent lower this year, it is likely the farmer will be able to purchase about the same amount of goods as last year as the result of lower prices on the commodities that he has to buy. There were reports in La Salle street yesterday that mail order sales have been showing a more favorable trend lately, possibly as the result of price reductions announced by the principal companies last month.

Appears Less Favorable.

On the other hand, the situation of the industrial worker is less favorable, although improvement is hoped for and expected later in the year. While wages generally have held up, both unemployment and part time employment have curtailed purchasing power. The Standard Statistics company's index of industrial production, corrected for seasonal variation, attained a lower level in July than in any month since August, 1924. It stood at 99.3, representing the unusually sharp decline of 7.9 per cent from the June figure and also showing a drop of 27 per cent from the July, 1929, figure. This was by far the most severe recession, in contrast with a year ago, recorded for any month thus far this year.

However, there was other and more hopeful industrial news yesterday. A turning point in the steel industry is not yet definitely in sight, according to the weekly summary of the Iron Age, but there are scattered indications of more liberal buying in September and a moderate improvement this week in orders and operations.

"Steel ingot output is at 53 per cent, compared with 52 per cent a week ago, but rolling schedules in some districts, particularly of sheet mills, have gained more than raw steel production," the review says. "At Chicago sales and finished steel expanded 30 per cent and contract specifications 20 per cent above those of the preceding week, when business was checked by anxiety over the crop situation.

Count On for Next Month.

"In the development stage but counted on to bring larger steel tonnage next month are rail bookings, new pipe line, oil tank construction, the well sustained volume of inquiry for structural steel for building and bridges, and the country wide highway program backed by federal aid. A few farm machinery builders are stepping up production. The canning companies, it appears, will not be hard hit by the drought. Increased radio output is taking a little more steel.

"Whatever gains occur in steel buying in the immediate future probably will not be aided materially by the automobile industry. Only two or three companies in the medium price field are maintaining good schedules and steel companies that are dependent to a large extent on automobile business have experienced no marked improvement in orders from that source. The second advance in as many weeks of 25 cents a ton in the average price of heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh was brought about by substantial buying."

Two steel company officials offered cheerful predictions yesterday. B. F. Fairless, vice president of the Republic Steel corporation, said sentiment in the steel industry for the near future shows improvement, although actual tonnage advances of importance are slow in materializing. F. N. Hoffstot, president of the Pressed Steel Car company, said the wave of pessimism throughout the country appears to be waning.

Midland United Offers to Buy Indiana Car Bonds

An offer to purchase the bonds of the three leased lines of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern Traction company has been made by the Midland United company. Robert M. Feustel, vice president of the Midland United company, in a letter to the bondholder's committees that the offer is made on a salvage basis, giving consideration to the small amount of electric power and light business done along the line and adding allowance for the committee expenses. Mr. Feustel said that his company did not expect to operate the lines if they are acquired.

National Republic Banks to Vote on Stock Increase

A special meeting of stockholders of the National Bank of the Republic has been called for Sept. 20 to act on a proposal to increase the capital stock from $37,000 shares of $20 par value to $50,000 shares. The additional shares will be offered to holders of record Sept. 20 at $40 a share, on the basis of one share for each 43 held. Proceeds of the offering will be used to increase surplus of the bank by $500,000 and the other $250,000 will represent capital stock.

Cyrus Eaton to Testify in Steel Row

Youngstown, O., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Cyrus S. Eaton, leading figure in the movement against the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company-Bethlehem Steel corporation merger will be the next witness in the hearing of the suit to enjoin the deal. The Cleveland financier came to Youngstown today with a mass of papers and documents.

Cross-examination of a plaintiff's witness, A. C. Ernst, managing partner of the Cleveland auditing firm of Ernst & Ernst, consumed the entire day. The defense probably will finish with Ernst tomorrow and then Eaton will be given an opportunity to tell the court why he opposed the merger.

Ernst corroborated the testimony of Hassell Tippit, an auditor in his firm, who presented figures to show that Youngstown stockholders lost millions of dollars through an unfair exchange of stock in the Bethlehem deal. Ernst & Ernst made an audit of the two companies for the Eaton interests.

In Eaton Enterprises.

The witness said that he and the partners in his firm are heavily interested in some of Eaton's enterprises and that his company had previously done auditing for the Cleveland financier. Like Tippit, he testified that the best practice in arranging a merger is to consider the condition of the companies over a period of years instead of one year as was done in the protested merger.

Attorney F. H. Wood, Bethlehem counsel, took Ernst through a lengthy cross examination. He asked Ernst if he considered an independent engineer more competent to pass upon the economic problems involved in the merger than the executives of the companies involved who are constantly in touch with the steel business.

Concerns Rival Audits.

Ernst said he did not, but he regarded an analysis by an engineer as a vital factor.

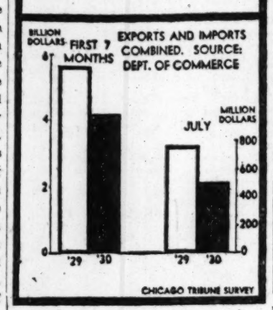
For the last two weeks the court has been in session, the testimony has concerned the rival audits made by Ernst & Ernst and by Price, Waterhouse & Co., the latter's recommendations having been accepted by Sheet and Tube directors in arranging the merger terms.

When Eaton takes the stand the testimony is expected to reveal an enlarged story of the bitter battle over the merger deal and its effects upon the futures of the two great corporations which, if consolidated, would have assets of nearly a billion dollars.

ILLINOIS PAYS $100,185,239 IN INCOME TAXES

Illinois, with its 7,640,000 population, paid an average per capita federal income tax of $13.20 during the 1930 fiscal year, according to the Illinois chamber of commerce. Federal income tax payments from Illinois amounted to $100,815,739 which, together with the corporation income tax of $122,559,093 and the miscellaneous taxes of $23,764,377, brought the total federal tax up to $247,139,211, as compared to $238,227,764 for the 1929 fiscal year. The individual federal income tax this year is $3,489,776 greater than for last year, while the corporation income tax also exceeds that of the last fiscal year by over two and a half million dollars.

FOREIGN TRADE IS DOWN SHARPLY FROM YEAR AGO



MAJOR OFFERING OF U. S. CERTIFICATES IS EXPECTED SOON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—A major offering of certificates of indebtedness by the United States treasury on Sept. 15, with the possibility of an exchange offer to the holders of $1,149,000,000 in notes, was contemplated in government bond circles today following official notice by the New York federal reserve bank that a new treasury offering may be expected soon.

It is generally assumed that Sept. 15 financing will consist of a substantial offering of certificates to take care of $401,000,000 in maturing certificates and discount bills.

Under ordinary circumstances this would probably take the form of financing through new certificates of indebtedness, probably to the extent of some $400,000,000. This might be reduced by the income tax estimates or by a decision of treasury authorities to retire the discount bills through a separate offering of this class of security. Sept. 15 is the maturing date on $351,000,000 in certificates of indebtedness and $50,000,000 in non-interest bearing bills.

Current market prices indicate that the treasury could obtain certificate funds for a year with a coupon of 2½ or 2¾ per cent.

Aside from the current needs of the treasury, there is considerable discussion of the possibility of an exchange offer to reduce the outstanding amounts of series A and B notes. The A notes total $649,000,000 and the B notes $500,000,000, both bearing interest at 3½ per cent. Both are callable on and after next March 15 upon six months' notice. If any action is planned for next March notice will have to be given at the time of the pending financing.

New York Exchange Votes 3 Day Labor Day Holiday

New York, Aug. 20.—(AP)—The governing committee of the New York stock exchange today granted the petition of members to close the exchange Aug. 30, the Saturday preceding Labor day. The action assures the exchange of a three day holiday for Labor day.

Shell Union Dividend Off; Hudson Cuts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—Directors of the Shell Union Oil corporation, controlled by Royal Dutch interests, voted today to omit the quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share on the common stock. Shell Union is the first important oil unit to revise its dividend payments this year. The stock has been on a $1.40 annual dividend basis since March 31, 1925, when payments were increased to 35 cents quarterly from 25 cents. An extra dividend of 60 cents was paid in 1926.

Commenting on the omission, J. C. Van Eck, president, said it was due partly to decreased earnings as a result of the company's curtailment of production in conformity with plans for stabilization of the industry and partly as a result of unsatisfactory price conditions in the company's markets.

Sees Delay in Recovery.

"Although after making its usual conservative reserve for depreciation, the company at present is operating on a profitable basis," he added. "There is as yet no indication of any early recovery or improvement of unsettled conditions prevailing in the industry. For that reason it is considered prudent to conserve cash resources so that the company will have ample resources to continue to the fullest extent its normal program of development without need of further financing."

Directors of Warner-Quinlan company took no action on the quarterly dividend due at this time. In the two preceding quarters, dividends of 25 cents a share were paid, and prior to that the stock had been on a $2 annual basis. The company stated that the omission of the dividend was for the purpose of conserving cash resources and that while the volume of business was relatively satisfactory the low prices prevailing this year had been primarily responsible for lower earnings.

American and Scottish Investors omitted the dividend of $1.50 a share due on its 6 per cent preferred.

Hudson Motor Cuts Payment.

ARE CORN EARS FULL OR NOT? EXPERTS DIFFER

Grains Edge Upward in Chicago Pit.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

September corn is showing signs of congestion, reflecting what is regarded by many operators as a very strong cash position. While the demand for cash corn from eastern feed manufacturers and others has been on a hand to mouth scale, the buying has been persistent and sufficient to gradually absorb the bulk of the local stock. One of the leading cash handlers estimates that there are approximately 1,000,000 bu cash corn in store here or booked to arrive and about the same amount sold for shipment.

There is no evidence of any concentrated holding in the nearby delivery of corn, but the open interest is around 10,500,000 bu and, with little grain apparently available for delivery purposes, the market has worked itself into what the trade regard as a strained position. As a result, rapid price changes are anticipated.

September closed 2¾c higher yesterday at 97⅞@97½c, after touching 98c on the advance, the latter being within 4¾c of the best price on the crop. The country took advantage of the upturn in futures to sell 125,000 bu to arrive, mainly at 2½@3½c over September for 10 day shipment, some grain bringing $1.01 per bu, track here. Charters were made for 80,000 bu.

Local Bulls Buy December.

A good part of the trade during the day in the deferred deliveries was of a local character and with light offerings prices moved up readily after a fractional decline early and the finish was 2@2⅝c higher. December closed at 91½@91⅝c; March, 93⅝@93½c, and May, 95¼@95⅝c.

Comments on the new corn crop were mixed, with the government weekly summary indicating improvement in some sections and deterioration in others. H. C. Donovan, the Logan & Bryan crop observer, made an inspection of the Ruth Hanna Mc-

Railroads of West Asking Rate Delay

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 20.—All railroads west of the Mississippi river engaged in the transportation of grain and its by-products will request a rehearing and reconsideration of the interstate commerce commission order fixing grain rates in western territory. This was stated today in a petition filed with the commission requesting the postponement of the effective date of its order in the matter.

The petition, entered by the western trunk line committee, the southwestern freight bureau, and the transcontinental freight bureau, asked that the order made on July 1, 1930, to become effective Oct. 1, 1930 be postponed until Jan. 1, 1931.

The petition stated that on July 28, at a meeting of the western traffic executives convened to consider the best means of putting into effect the commission's order, it was found that some of the managers had not yet received the order. Because the new tariffs must be filed with the commission not later than Sept. 10 it was contended that there was not sufficient time in which to prepare the schedules.

Designed to bring relief to agriculture in the west, the revision of grain rates as recently made by the commission was expected by one commissioner to result in a loss in revenue to the railroads of $15,000,000 annually.

ALL TIME LOW ON SUGAR PRICES IS ESTABLISHED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—A new all time low for refined sugar was established today when the major refining companies reduced their price to 4.35 cents a pound.

Among the companies to reduce prices were the Colonial Refining company, the Spreckels Refining company, the Godchaux company of New Orleans, the American Refining company and National Sugar Refining company.

The Great Western Sugar company today cut the price of beet sugar to $5.07 a hundred pounds. Officials said it was the lowest price, with one exception, paid in the history of the concern. Cane sugar is selling for $5.27 in Denver.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—What continues to pass down in Wall street these days for a stock market made a further show of pulling itself up by its own bootstraps today.

Its efforts were as professional as ever and about as convincing. The so-called pivotals were shoved ahead for a point or so and the rest of the active list trailed along, but the rank and file remained as openly skeptical and kept as severely aloof as ever. Witness the day's turnover—only 1,817,580 shares. Evidently the one-gallus boys have had their fingers mashed too often in the last few perilous months to become overheated about the doings of the professionals whatever their trend.

Few Bear Efforts.

As usual the bears launched a few selling attacks here and there in the endeavor to bring about a renewal of the reaction, but most of the issues singled out for crossfire stood their ground well. Notable exceptions were provided by the copper stocks, some of the oils, and a small cluster of specialties, including Gillette Safety Razor and Auto Strop. The coppers were under selling pressure all day, due probably to the failure of the current low prices on the metal to bring in any greatly increased volume of business. Kennecott was forced to a new low level for several years, with Anaconda and most of the other notables of the group sagging sharply.

The weakness of Gillette and Auto

HOW AMERICAN FORTUNES GROW

AMERICAN fortunes which have been invested in a diversified selection of leading American common stocks have shown remarkable growth in the past ten years.

For example, if a wealthy investor had purchased the twenty-five stocks included in the Standard American Trust Shares portfolio ten years ago, and if he had handled his dividends, rights, and stock split-ups in accordance with the Standard American Trust Shares plan, he would have received an average annual return on his money of more than 11%. And at the same time, the value of his original investment would have increased four times over.

Adding together the annual cash return and the appreciation in the value of the investment, such an investor would have received an average gain over the ten-year period of more than 42% a year.

Such remarkable results in fortune building are possible because of the extraordinary growth and progress of American industry. And the logical way to take advantage of that growth and progress is to buy and hold common stocks representing a cross-section of American business, thus participating automatically in the country's growth.

Standard American Trust Shares were created to make it possible for every investor to use this principle of fortune-building—by buying and holding an interest in a diversified selection of the country's leading common stocks. In order to learn about this plan, fill in your name and address on the coupon below—clip and mail it today.

EXPERTS DIFFER AS TO CONDITION OF CORN COUNTRY

Cormick farms near Byron, Ill., where good farming is a hobby and found that one third of the ears in the best field were in a backward condition, with kernels only one quarter normal size, whereas they should be full sized at this season. Adjoining fields, which were ordinarily farmed, showed 40 to 60 per cent of the ears in this condition.

Well Filled Ears.

Samples of corn from Illinois and Iowa received by J. E. Bennett & Co., showed a surprisingly number of well filled ears. Crop observer George M. Le Count, who is out for Stein, Alstrin & Co., continues to stress the poor filling of the ears, although in the Sioux City territory the number of barren stalks is not as pronounced as in some other sections recently covered.

The high price of hogs with the average at Chicago around $10.35 is better than a 10 to 1 feeding ration as compared with corn, and had some effect on sentiment during the day.

Wheat Rallies After Break.

Wheat was weak early and broke around 1c on local and commission house selling only to rally 2¼@2¾c from the bottom and closed 1½@1¾c higher with September, 83@83⅛c; December, 93¾@93⅞c; March, 98@98⅛c, and May, $1.01@1.01⅛.

Uncertainty regarding the financing of the Canadian Pool operations in wheat this year causes the local futures market to respond rapidly to any advance or decline in Winnipeg. The latter was 1⅜@1⅝c higher for the day. Many of the local operators are puzzled over the action of the market and have been trading in rather poor form of late, as bulges and breaks follow each other without apparent cause, and news seems to have little effect except for a moment.

Fire Boosts Buying.

There was some buying during the day on the report that the Western Maryland elevator at Baltimore was on fire. The trade had it that the 3,175,000 bu wheat in store had been sold for export, and the replacement of the grain was expected to have some effect on the market.

Local receipts of wheat were only 35 cars, the smallest in weeks, and the spot basis was quoted ¼@½c higher with a bid of 1c over September made for No. 1 red. Weather conditions in Europe were more favorable, and with increased pressure of Russian and Danube grain, Liverpool declined as much as ⅞@1d only to rally toward the last and close ⅛@¼d higher.

Less Pressure on Oats.

There was less hedging pressure on oats and with corn, streng prices advanced readily on commission house buying and closed 1⅛@1½c higher. September was 39⅜c, and December 42¾c at the last. Country offerings to arrive were limited, and shipping sales 35,000 bu.

Rye made a fair response to the strength in wheat which offset hedging and local selling and the finish was 1@1¼c higher with September 56¾c, and December, 66⅝@66½c. A cargo of 245,000 bu was reported as being loaded at Duluth for shipment to Chicago.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Corn traders regard the cash situation as the strongest of the season. There is practically no stock here that is not under contract to go out or is owned by industries. September corn is tight, with a large open interest. Local traders are mostly bullish and are getting a little more help from the outside. It was said at the close that most of the traders were long futures. Operators who were in the wheat pit all day said that while professionals were good buyers, commission houses had wheat to sell on every ½c advance. Reports from Winnipeg said that the pool sold wheat futures in the same way as commission houses did here.

There were export bids for wheat here that were fairly close to the market, but no dullness developed. Every good break brings buying by foreigners. It is said that the local traders in the main favor the buying side on all breaks.

TO UTILIZE WASTE GAS.

Much of the waste gas in the Hobbs field of New Mexico will soon be turned into gasoline. Besides the casinghead gasoline plant which the Shell Petroleum company is constructing northwest of Hobbs, the Phillips Petroleum company will start building a similar plant of 50,000 gallons daily capacity in that field. The latter plant will require 40,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily.

Top yesterday, $10.25; average, $9.35.
Receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

Cattle, hogs and lambs advanced to new high levels on the present bulge. Top hogs soared to $11.75, the highest point since August, 1929. This price is within 75c of the highest paid for hogs since September, 1928.

For the first time in many weeks the hog average is in line with a year ago. Cattle prices pushed forward to a high of $11.35. Top western range lambs came up to $10.25, with the clearance the best in some time.

Yesterday's active hog market was just a repetition of preceding sessions this week. Supplies dropped below trade requirements, resulting in a quick clearance of good grades at 10@25c higher prices. Packing sows sold 10@25c higher. The top showed life advance at $11.75, while the general average moved up 30c at $10.35, comparing with a $10.35 average on the corresponding day in 1929.

Outside Buyers Lead.

Outsiders were the principal buyers, but most smaller local packers and city butchers followed at the upturn and only common grades and stock held off the market remained at the close. The "spread" between high western points and far eastern markets, however, has narrowed to 10@25c. The first $12.00 hogs put in an appearance at one of the eastern centers.

Outside demand continues broad in face of decreasing supplies. During the last seven weeks nine of the leading centers in the east and middle west slaughtered 2,417,833 hogs, showing a decrease of 337,079 head, or 12 per cent, compared with the same period in 1929.

September Contracts Higher.

Hog futures sold freely at steady to 10c higher prices, contracts for September delivery showing the advance. August lightweights at $11.50 were highest on the list, while four carloads of September lights sold at $10.75, and mediums for the same month at $10.95@11.00. December lights and mediums were bought at $9.00. Bids of $7.00@7.25 were made on 3,500 black face medium wool mountain feeding lambs for next month delivery. About 600 white face lambs of similar quality were bid $6.75.

Better demand for beef on the wholesale market was the principal strengthening factor in the cattle trade yesterday. Receipts were moderate for midweek and with eastern demand good there was an early clearance at mostly 25c higher prices. Heavy steers are selling $1.00@1.50 above the low spot last week, while yearlings and light steers show gains of 50@75c for the week.

Long yearlings averaging 1,106 lbs topped the list at $11.35. Prime, 1,399 lb steers sold at $11.25, indicating the sharp rise in the market for heavy stock during the last few days. Bulk of cattle sold at $8.85@10.75, against $8.00@9.75 a week ago. Cows and heifers were unchanged. Calves were weaker. Stockers and feeders were in demand at the week's 50c advance.

Feeding Lambs Bring $7.60.

Feeding lambs were in good demand at additional gains of 25@35c yesterday. Hundreds sold at $7.25@7.60, one lot sale of 1,000 going at the outside figure. Fat lambs were more plentiful but met brisk demand and prices gained 25c more, selling at the highest point in recent weeks. Fancy western range stock reached $10.25, with most ewe and wether natives bringing $9.75@10.00. Buck lambs were sorted out and sold at $8.75@9.00. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 6,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 6,321 cattle, 13,483 hogs, and 13,758 sheep, the previous Thursday and 4,962 cattle, 19,192 hogs, and 23,030 sheep a year ago.

LARD FUTURES UP SHARPLY

An advance of 25@50c in hog prices to $11.75 the top, the highest since August last year, combined with stronger grain markets and buying by packers, brokers, and investors, made a strong market for all lard futures, especially the most deferred. Net gains were 17½@27½c in Chicago. Cash trade was said to be fair, and Liverpool was unchanged to 1s 3d higher. Export clearances from New York were 1,502,920 lbs, and of bacon 258,500 lbs. Bellies were neglected and 5½c lower on futures. Hog receipts were moderate and less than a week and one or two years ago. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Raw sugar was a little easier today for Cuban varieties, but there was no change in duty frees. The former declined 2 points to the basis of 3.16c for spots, duty paid, on sales of 37,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment to refiners, and 21,000 bags to operators for September shipment. This business was concluded late the previous day and today 18,500 bags of Cuban sold for August shipment at the same level to a local refiner. Raw futures were irregular, but in the main, easier. In the late trading prices receded with the market closing 1 to 2 points net lower. Trading was again mostly in the way of exchanging from the September to later positions and of the total day's business of 47,400 tons, nearly half was in the form of exchanges. No sales occurred in the No. 2 contract, with closing prices 1 to 2 points lower at 3.08c for September, and 3.18c for December. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
September	1.14	1.14	1.12	1.12	1.13
December	1.22	1.23	1.21	1.21	1.23
January	1.23	1.25	1.23	1.24	1.25
March	1.32	1.34	1.32	1.32	1.33
May	1.40	1.41	1.40	1.40	1.41
July	1.48	1.49	1.47	1.47	1.49

The refined market was easier. At the outset all refiners reduced prices 10 points to a 4.40c basis. One penalized, but later made an additional cut of 5 points to 4.35c. The decline failed to bring in any aggressive buying, however, with buyers still inclined to limit purchases to nearby contracts only.

Are the Earning Possibilities Here!

A new amazing dye is about to be placed on the market and destined to become the biggest factor in the dyeing industry. Company with tremendous resources just forming. We will require a large number of women who possess sales and managerial ability for positions all along the line. Women who have seen the product demonstrated are simply wild about it. Imagine dipping a black or any other dark dress in the solution for a few minutes and taking out a gorgeous green, blue, yellow, red, pink, old rose or any other brilliant colored dress you may desire. All for the cost of less than two cents. For the first time in the history of the dyeing industry it is possible to turn dark colors into light in one operation without boiling and without soiling the hands. Can you imagine the tremendous money making possibilities in this new business? Write quick and tell us about yourself and an interview will be arranged at an early date. Address K S 192, Tribune.

ROCK BOTTOM USED CAR PRICES

AND THE PROTECTION OF 5 DAYS' FREE DRIVING TRIAL

These two features, plus the fact that we have the biggest selection of good used cars in Chicago, are the reasons why you should buy from Studebaker.

NASH COUPE. Std. 6 that is finished in maroon. The owner of this car only used it to drive to the golf course and back. Consequently it's in splendid condition today. 4 whl. brakes and many extras. $185.

CHRYSLER CARRIOLET. Late conv. model with a spacious rumble seat and a wealth of extra equipment. Has an attractive paint job and the upholstery appears unworn. Many extras. New tires. $545.

OAKLAND COACH. A school teacher owned this car, and she gave it very good attention. We checked over the motor, equipped it with new tires and price it unusually low for quick sale. 4 whl. brakes and many extras. $350.

JEWETT COACH. We can truthfully say this car actually looks and runs as though it were brand new. Finished a smart looking tan and equipment includes 4 whl. brks.; snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $185.

STUDEBAKER DICTATOR. Late 5 pass. sedan that will stand the most exacting inspection you would make. The blue finish looks as though it were freshly dipped, and the upholstery is expensive mohair. Motor is A1; 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $350.

CADILLAC SEDAN. 7 pass. that was turned in by an elderly couple who gave it unusual care. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. It will give you new car satisfaction today. $350.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. Spec. 6. From the standpoint of performance and appearance this car will satisfy you in every respect. The fires, finish and upholstery are in splendid condition. $395.

HUDSON BROUGHAM. This is the last word for sparkling performance and attractive appearance. Has every essential extra. $185.

GRAHAM-PAIGE SEDAN. One of the very latest models with 4 speed transmission, side mounts, and many valuable extras. This car is a beauty and will not remain 24 hours at the low price we have marked it. $675.

ERSKINE CLUB SEDAN. 1929 that's a quality car throughout. It would take an expert to tell that the car had been driven before 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $395.

PIERCE-ARROW TOURING. Here is probably the best open car buy in Chicago. The motor runs very smoothly and every detail of the exterior and interior is in splendid shape. Many extras. $195.

HUPMOBILE 8 SEDAN. 1929 7 Pass. Has Pullman car comfort and exceptional performance. The upholstery appears unworn, though there are a dozen valuable extras. $985.

CORD CONV. CABRIOLET. A current model, the classiest car of its kind in Chicago. Has wire wheels, fender wells, and a wealth of extras. The interior is spotless, and the finish is bright and gleaming. Has a sweet running motor. Sold for a big price a short time ago. Now marked unusually low.

BUICK SEDAN. 1929 Master 6 that is an exceptional bargain if there ever was one. Only driven a few thousand miles, and the neighbors could not tell it from a brand new Buick today. Has side mounts and natural wood wheels. $845.

FORD ROADSTER. Late model A. Lacquered a handsome color. Has road light, shock absorbers, windshield wings, side mounts, bumpers, etc. Only driven a few thousand miles, so it's like new today. Just reduced to $335.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER SEDAN. 1928 that's absolutely 100% throughout. Equipped with shock absorbers, driving light, bumpers, spare tire, etc. It is A1 and will not last long at our special reduced price of $495.

JORDAN SEDAN. It's a line 8 with 4 whl. brakes, driving light, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. 1927 motor runs efficiently. Has appearance. $195.

PACKARD SEDAN. Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. Was chauffeur driven, so it's in top notch condition now. Has a wealth of extra equipment. $195.

VIKING SEDAN. Late model 8. Finished a beautiful color. Has every essential extra. This car is an absolute knockout in appearance, and the motor is unusually smooth. $885.
